Buyer cops out

Ch. steer won't budge from Farm Show

BY SHEILA MILLER

HARRISBURG — "It's an unfortunate Farm Show first," said Hugh Coffman, Pennsylvania's Farm Show director.

He was referring to "Old No. 4", a market steer that was sold during the show's Junior beef sale, but never found its way out of the barns.

"We kind of like having Old No. 4 around," Coffman chuckled, "but we want to see the young lady and her family get the money they're entitled to. We also want to uphold the integrity of the sale."

The young lady Coffman mentioned is Debra Krause, Lehigh County. Her project steer, Blackjack, had been tagged the reserve champion lightweight steer in competition at last week's Farm Show.

The steer, now known as No. 4 to Farm Show Commission employees, was auctioned off last Friday, but somehow the steer's buyer never returned to settle up for his bid.

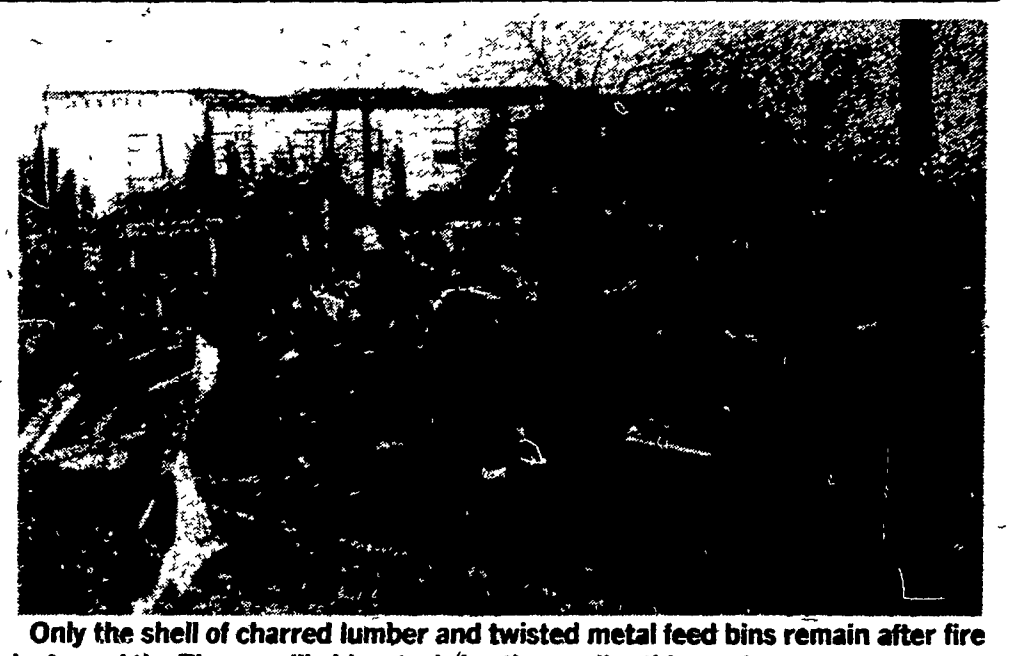
Coffman said the buyer had until 10 a.m. on Saturday to claim the animal, but the deadline passed with no glimpse of the bidder. He said the bid was apparently fraudulent.

So, Blackjack, alias No. 4, was inadvertantly given a stay of execution. In the meantime, the steer enjoyed the attentions of the Farm Show employees who took turns feeding, bedding, and taking the steer for exercise in the large arena. Stable accomodations for the celebrity steer were made in the dairy barn.

Coffman stated he hoped to reach a decision on what to do with No. 4 soon.

Because of the publicity about the steer, the Farm Show director said a lot of bids were being called in over the telephone.

On Wednesday, Paul Konhaus of Konhaus Farm in Mechanicsburg, came to the rescue. He offered to match the original bid for the light weight champion steer, Blackjack, and saved Debra Krause from being the only loser in this year's Junior Beef Sale.



Only the shell of charred lumber and twisted metal feed bins remain after fire destroyed the Thomasville Livestock Auction earlier this week.

Early morning fire levels Thomasville auction

THOMASVILLE — Fire roared through the Thomasville Livestock Auction early Monday, leaving a leveled building and over $100,000 worth of damage in its wake.

Flames broke out in the York County sales facility at about 2:30 a.m. and burned out of control for over three hours.

An estimated 150 firefighters from six area companies are reported to have helped battle the blaze.

State fire marshalls were investigating but had not determined the cause of the fire, believed to have begun in the second floor office of the auction. Losses included the weighing scale, office equipment and supplies.

"We plan to rebuild and thank everyone who helped," stated president Leroy Williams, Spring Grove R2, who runs the auction with manager Roy Mummert, Brodbecks R1.

Williams added that they hope to continue private treaty business on a limited basis and will do everything possible to help farmers find sales for their livestock.

He heads a board of farmer stockholders who own and operate the livestock sales business, located west of York on Route 30.

No animals were in the livestock pens at the auction, which handles between 500 to 600 animals weekly through the Wednesday evening sales.

The auction also hosts various 4-H livestock events and has been the site of the annual York-Adams Baby Beef Roundup for several years.

County members receive awards

Inter-State locals begin annual meetings

BY CURT HARLER

QUARRYVILLE — Inter-State Milk Producers Cooperative kicked off its round of local meetings Thursday with the annual dinner of the Christiana and Quarryville locals in Quarryville.

Members elected new officers, honored outstanding achievements of several members, and were assured by Co-op Assistant General Manager Paul E. Hand that their Co-op is doing well.

A similar meeting was held at the same time in Cochranville, Chester County. See accompanying story.

Hand told dairymen Inter-State is holding its own with 3000 members but is increasing milk volume at the rate of 100 million pounds per year.

He said the increase was healthy and would allow the Co-op to fill increased market demand as well as meet changing processor schedules.

He said by fall the Co-op should have sufficient volume to meet demand without going outside the Co-op. But there are some problems.

Hand noted increased hauling costs must be anticipated. Hauling is adjusted at one-half cent per five cent increase in fuel cost to truckers.

He pointed out this is not money in the truckers' pockets, just funds to keep them even.

He also said the nine cent handling charge would be reviewed. He said other Pennmarva Co-ops are charging about 15 cents per cwt.

He told members the Holly plant in Mt. Holly Springs ran at full capacity for 12 days over the Christmas holidays.

A fire last April set the plant back. And there have been other problems.

Since that time Inter-State and its partner Maryland Cooperative Milk Producers have replaced the manager and Hand said he expects Holly to be a viable proposition for members in the 1980s.

"It only needs fine tuning as the Christmas success demonstrates," Hand said.

He again warned farmers

Dairy, tax, domain bills await legislators' return

BY DICK WANNER
Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG — It was a fairly slow week in Harrisburg, with the legislature still in recess and not due to convene again until Monday.

A number of committees, however, have been meeting and mulling over a few items of interest to farmers. Milk security fund legislation is the hottest piece of ag legislation going, with a bewildering number of variants under consideration.

Another dairy bill, one that looks like it may die in the House Ag Committee, is a measure that would abolish the Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board.

Consumer groups in Western Pennsylvania reportedly backed the bill, but even they lost some interest after a number of dairies in the area went broke, shut their doors and stopped selling milk.

Another bill in the House Ag Committee would establish a land management commission to operate the state's Prison and other institutional farms. That responsibility is now lodged with the Department of Public Welfare.

Alvin Myers, legislative director for the Pennsylvania Farmers Association, said he is hoping to see a number of measures in motion after the legislature reconvenes Monday.

Senate Bills 985 and 986 would amend the eminent domain laws to extend the time period in which the original owner could reclaim land at its original purchase price if the land had not been used for purpose for which it had been seized. That period is now three years, the proposed acts would extend the time to 10 years.

House Bill 1606 would exempt family farm corporations from the one-percent annual capital stock franchise tax.

The tax is levied every year on the value of the assets represented by the

Lanc. to get new DHIA curcuit

LANCASTER — There is a good possibility Lancaster County will get another DHIA circuit in the near future.

According to Lancaster County Dairy Agent Glenn Shirk the new circut could be in effect by February.

At present the Lancaster County Dairy Herd Improvement Association has about 800 herds on DHIA or owner-sampler test. That represents half of the County's 1600 dairy herds.

The new DHIA circuit could be county-wide. Or there is a possibility one supervisor may reduce his circuit to a half-time job.

In that case, the new DHIA would probably be based in the east-central part of Lancaster County.

Any farmer interested in adding his herd to the DHIA program should get in touch with Shirk or a local DHIA director.

Shirk also reminded farmers the state DHIA now has a new somatic cell machine.

There is room for about 100 new patrons for the machine so it is urgent farmers who are interested in geting on the somatic cell program contact the County Agent soon to sign up.

The somatic cell program is one of the best ways available to monitor udder health in a herd.

Starting with the next Lancaster County DHIA report in LANCASTER FARMING Glenn Shirk will write a dairy column for farmer readers.

The column will accompany the Lancaster monthly DHIA report and will deal with topics of interest to dairymen both in Lancaster County and throughout the newspaper's circulation area.

Omaha Cattle

Thursday, January 17

Closing prices on slaughter steers were 50-1.00 lower, and heifers closed 50-75 cents lower with greatest decline unusally on consignments with large percentage yield grade 4. Cows were firm to 50 higher and bulls firm.

Fed cattle prices came under considerable downward pressure in reflection of a bearish carcass trade, and the general atmosphere was one of caution. Yield grade continued to be a major price-determining factor as the price differential between yield grade 3 and yield grade 4 carcasses still ranged 7.00-9.00 per cwt. In addition, many cattle carried a moderate amount of mud which was further aggravated by a mid-week rain. There was a fairly liberal percentage Choice steers and heifers on offer although many were mixed 3-4 yield grade.

Slaughter steers made up approximately 47 percent; heifers 33 percent; cows 14 percent and feeders 6 percent.

STEERS: On Tuesday, load Choice 3 1245 lbs. 67.50. At midweek, load Choice with few Prime predominantly 3 1188 lbs. 67.00. Choice 2-4 1000-1250 lbs. closed 65.25-66.50. Others with large share 4 1150-1275 lbs. 62.50-64.50. Mixed Good and Choice 2-3 1000-1250 lbs. 64.50-66.00. Good 2-3 62.00-64.00.

Average of LS-214 detailed quotations for Choice 900-1100 lbs. steers this week 66.22; Choice 1100-1300 lbs. 66.18. Average weight steers this week 1183 lbs. as compared 1173 lbs. last week. Average weight heifers this week 1019 lbs. as compared 1026 lbs. last week.

Planning better milk yields ...by the numbers.

This Pennfield Computer readout can make your milk yields far more profitable ... without giving away one bit of effective nutritional quality. In fact, it will help to eliminate waste as well as balance the nutrients provided by your home grown forage to meet the exact nutritional requirements of your cows

This readout is a vital part of the Pennfield Computerized Total Ration Service And here's how it works:

1. We collect samples of your forage
2. Then we evaluate the quality of your forages We determine the total digestible nutrients The fiber content The protein content. The amount of carbohydrates
3. The computer quickly spots any nutrients lacking in the forage For your milking cows And for your dry cows It immediately points out the overfeeding of nutrients Underfeeding, too Both, of course, may be different at different times of the year. And the printout will tell you what you need And when.
4. Your Penn Pro Professional advises you on the quantity and type of nutrients that should be added, to balance your total feeding program to your cows' nutritional requirements
5. The result can be increased milk production at the lowest possible feed cost.

Jim Musser, of Penn s Peaceful Meadow Farm reviews his latest CTR report with Penn Pro Frank Campbell, while (insert) Gary Varner, formulates another report on Pennfield's in-house computer

Do a reducing number on feed costs...

W-36

The Hy-Line® Variety W-36 Layer can actually make your feed costs less per dozen eggs. As ever, this remarkable layer produces eggs with shells tough enough to make it all the way to the carton, where it counts. And, with our constant improvements over the years, you now get dramatic increases in hen-housed egg production without sacrificing other valuable traits. Calm temperament. Excellent livability. Sustained Grade A Large production. Use our number to do a reducing number on your feed costs. The W-36 Layer from Hy-Line.

Consistently impressive. Constantly improving.

Roads are icy, driving is spicy.

Start ordering your seed catalogs now Paul Robeson died Jan 23, 1976 First quarter of the moon Jan 24 Average length of days for the week, 9 hours, 43 minutes Amazon River discovered Jan 26, 1500 Alger Hiss found guilty of perjury Jan 22, 1950 Don't have more secrets than you can keep yourself

Ask the Old Farmer: I am curious about the origin of the name "turnips" for the old large pocket watches men used to carry F B, Huntington, W Va

First of all they didn't call a watch a "turnip" They called it a "turnup" One of the meanings of "turnup" is a stroke of good luck There was a time when a man who owned a watch was regarded as lucky

OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECASTS

New England: Snow, cold, at week's start, then mild, with rain changing back to snow by week's end

Greater New York-New Jersey: Rain, continuing mild, snow mid-week 6"-10", changing to rain by end of week

Middle Atlantic Coastal: Beginning of week brings snow and rain, then heavy snow, possible rain, through weekend

Piedmont & Southeast Coastal: Cool to start, then heavy rain west and turning mild, weekend is clear and warming

REVERSE CAGE LAYER SYSTEM

★ LESS BIRD STRESS

The system has been designed for bird comfort!
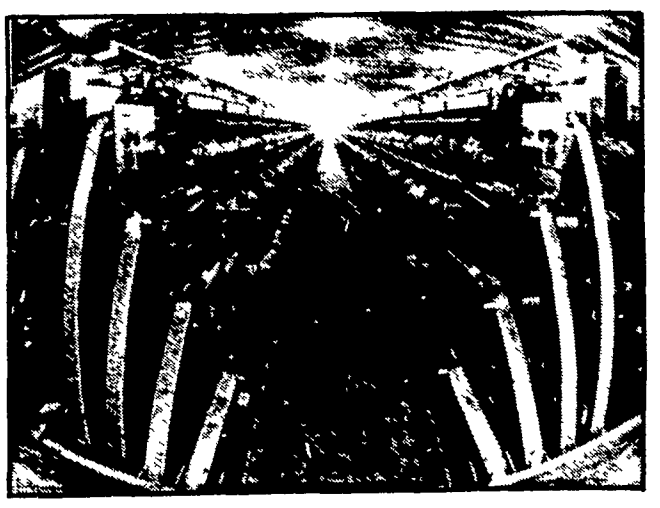
Each bird has her place at the feed trough. Each has easy access to water Obstruction to light and the flow of air have been greatly reduced, providing more uniform ventilation and lighting for every bird Combined with Chore-Time's automatically controlled air inletting system, you get a layer house environment designed for bird comfort and the resulting better production.

★ MINIMIZES FEED WASTE



Not only the physical shape of the feed trough, but the operation of the feeder has been engineered to reduce feed waste. The trough shape cuts down on feed loss from "raking" and "billing," while the feeder has been specifically designed for Chore-Time's programmed and performance feeding concept.

Lancaster Farming says...

Eliminate the need for milk security fund

Through late fall and winter the big question on many dairymens' minds has been which milk security fund proposal to support.

Perhaps a better question could be put: why support a milk security fund at all?

Various factions argued over a penny or two cents per cwt deductions. They asked whether the handler, or the farmer, or a co-op should pay.

The controversy would be eliminated if its cause could be eliminated — the cause being farmers, in effect, lend handlers milk for up to 55 days and need some protection.

But if all dealers had to pay for the milk promptly the farmer's risk would be cut considerably. No longer would a dairy have use of a farmer's milk for as long as 55 days.

This amounts to an interest-free operating loan to the handler. On the other hand, the farmer probably took an operating loan to produce the milk in the first place. So the farmer pays double.

Any milk handler in a sound financial position should have no problem going to a commercial institution and obtaining operating capital. These same handlers would have no trouble obtaining the required line of credit to secure milk they purchase.

The farmer certainly has no business lending money to any handler who is not in a solid enough position to obtain commercial loans. If a bank can't take the risk, can the farmer afford to?

What is proposed is a requirement that any milk handler, proprietary or cooperative, be required to make 100 percent payment for all milk shipped within 10 days of receipt. Exceptions would be made only upon written approval by the dairy farmer.

Prompt payment for all milk would eliminate a host of problems.

It would mean an end to questions of who builds a security fund and how much they would pay.

It would do away with the additional expense and bureaucracy needed to administrate a $4 million fund.

It would make no distinction between proprietary and co-op handlers since nobody would be paying to a security fund.

It would benefit all farmers no matter where they ship since each would be paid right away for his milk.

The proposal could become effective within 180 days of passage to give the handler time to adjust.

Since milk prices are not set every week, payment would be made at the most recent price and corrected monthly.

Senator Patrick Stapleton's agriculture committee has checked the idea with the Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board. Such a proposal is legal, PMMB said, since it would not weaken the federal market order system.

Most major farm organizations, while they have a security fund proposal in their policy, acknowlege their purpose is to protect the dairyman.

If the time the processor has use of the milk can be reduced, the farmer's exposure to risk is reduced.

"Changing the rules is difficult," one farm leader said.

But Stapleton's office sees no major obstacles with such legislation that wouldn't be part of any other lawmaking effort.

In fact, the Senator and his staff are meeting this coming week with representatives of Pennsylvania's six major dairy cooperatives to outline a proposal to require 100 percent payment within 10 days

The Milk Dealers Association also is tossing the prompt payment idea around. While it will cost them free operating capital, it will save them the security assessment—which, in the case of Hershey Foods, would be a third of a million dollars per year.

The proposal would treat both proprietary and co-op handlers evenly. In fact, co-ops have had more difficulties recently than propriatary handlers.

Best of all, such a proposal would cut farmer risk by assuring prompt payment, eliminate cases where a handler runs out 55 days' milk before closing doors or making an assessment, slash bureaucracy, speed farmers' cash flow, and would end the dairyman's role as lender.

It is business-like, protects all farmers, treats all handlers equally

Its beauty is its simplicity. It treats the problem rather than adding another symptom.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

ANDREW AND PHILIP

Lesson for January 20, 1980

Background Scriptures:
John 1:35-51; 6:1-14; 12:20-26.
Devotional Reading:
Philippians 2:3-11.

A few days ago I helped to conduct the memorial service for Dr. Paul Price, the man who was both my inspiration and sponsor in the Christian ministry. As a seminary student, I was his assistant in a church at Mohnton, Pa. Later, after he retired as a denominational executive, he became my assistant. He gave me my first opportunity to preach and participated in my ordination.

As I prepared his eulogy it occurred to me that what I remembered best about Paul was, not so much his words, but the example that he set before me. His elequence was articulated in what he was and did. His was the kind of friendly and enthusiastic life that invited people to meet his Master.

"Come and See!"

We know very little concerning either Andrew or Philip, except that they were disciples of Jesus. Andrew was a brother of Simon Peter and hailed from Bethsaida on the shores of the Sea of Galilee. We know even less of Philip, apart from the information that he came from the same town. But what the gospels do tell us about these two men indicates that they were the kind of men whose talent consisted in bringing people to meet Jesus. None of the sermons or teachings are recorded for us, but we catch glimpses of their quiet, yet effective discipleship for Christ.

Andrew was one of the first men to respond to Jesus' invitation to discipleship. And it was he who took his brother, Simon Peter, to the Master, saying "We have found the Messiah" (1:41).

The next day, Philip also responded to Christ's challenge and became his follower. Like Andrew, he could not keep the good news to himself, but went and found Nathaniel, saying: "We have found him of whom Moses in the law and also the prophets wrote, Jesus of Nazareth, the son of Joseph" (1:45). When dubious Nathaniel replies, "Can anything good come out of Nazareth?" Philip invites Nathaniel to meet Jesus himself: "Come and see" (1:46).

Sir, There's A Lad...

Later, on an occasion when Jesus has been preaching by the shores of Galilee and a great throng has gathered and listened well beyond the dinner hour, it is Andrew who brings a young man to Jesus, saying, "There is a lad here who has five barley loaves and two fish" (6:9). In still another incident, some Greeks come looking for the Galilean at the feast and they find Philip, saying: "Sir, we wish to see Jesus?" Instead of preaching to them, Philip goes immediately and finds Andrew and both together take the Galilean Greeks to Jesus.

That's about all the gospel tells us of Philip and Andrew, but it is enough: they were men who, like my friend and mentor, Paul Price, took others to meet the Master. Their simple, but effective discipleship for Christ is within the reach of everyone of us.

TO ENCOURAGE WATER INTAKE

All kinds of livestock and poultry need liberal amounts of water in order to give maximum production. This is not always provided during the winter months.

Animals that consume large amounts of water are usually more efficient and will produce more milk or more weight gains.

In cold weather water that is warmed will usually be more acceptable to livestock.

Adequate amounts of salt and minerals will also encourage good water consumption.

Water is one of the most important items in any rations, and in most cases is one of the cheapest items in the overall rations. Don't skimp on the amount of water provided for all kinds of livestock.

TO PROVIDE SUPPLEMENTAL HEAT

This is the time of the year when many pigs and lambs are being born into cold quarters.

If the new-born animal gets chilled that first hour, it will be in trouble. Many digestive and respiratory problems can develop.

Producers are urged to provide heat lamps, or some other source of heat, for these animals the first few days.

Modern farrowing barns already have supplemental heat units that provide the proper temperature to get little pigs well started. However, many sheep barns are too cold for little lambs.

The placing of a heat lamp over the small pen in which the ewe and lamb should be kept for the first few days will get the job done.

Be careful that the heat lamp is well attached and out of the reach of the ewe.

TO EVALUATE THE BEEF REFERENDUM

You save money, day after day, with corn-soy and Vigortone.

Want to save money on your swine rations? When you take charge of ration content and quality, you start saving from the very first day.

To take charge of ration content, buy only what you don't grow on your own farm. Then, grind and mix the rations yourself — fresh — from pre-starter through finishing. You'll never have to worry about freshness again. Better yet, these steps alone eliminate several middle-man costs and handling fees

To take charge of ration quality, follow Vigortone fortified corn-soy feeding programs. Vigortone swine pre-mixes assure that your rations always contain proper levels of major minerals, trace elements, vitamins, and other nutrients. In addition, corn-soy and Vigortone furnish the right level and balance of all essential amino acids.

This simple approach keeps your out-of-pocket feed costs low. What's more, it actually promotes better feed conversion for lower cost of gain.

Your figures will prove it.

Now is the time to compare.
See your Vigortone dealer soon. He's ready to compare the performance of Vigortone's low-cost swine feeding programs with any other you name.

Letters To The Editor

As a member of the Appalachian Trail Conference for 30 years, I find myself at odds with them and the National Park Service over the taking by enument domain of farm land in the Cumberland Valley for the trail.

I am basing my opinion on the facts as given in your article claiming that an alternate right of way for the trail has been offered by the townships in the area.

If, in fact, these are wide enough to protect hikers from vehicular traffic then it would appear to be adequate. The money that the National Park Service has been granted should be used to improve these and other road areas where the trail now goes.

The Appalachian Trail has given me many hours of enjoyable recreation and the need for it is indesputable in this age. Those twelve miles in the Cumberland Valley are minute compared to the many magnificant miles of rugged scenic country through which it passes.

Finally, taking this land this way sets a dangerous precedent for other recreational uses of private land for such equally deserving groups as horsemen, recreational vehicles, hunters and so on. Perhaps farmers and farm land should be considered an endangered resource.

I have been irked at the tone of the Rural Route cartoons in "Lancaster Farming" quite often, because of the put-down-of-women angle so often used.

Now I know, having been raised on a farm, and now a farmer's wife for 27 years, that there is a lot of humor in the farm husband-wife relationship. The "Hoard's Dairyman does a good job of playing this angle in their Ed and Emma Cartoons .... but they are of a softer, more general, and more true-to-life tone, I think.

The Rural Route I've enclosed about snow shoveling from last week's issue really gets me .... no rural wife I know would be so absolutely stupid .... farm wives accept the leaf-raking job and do as much as they can, even tho' their suburban counterparts leave it to hubby on the weekends. But none of us, NONE OF US, would be this inane.

Another recent one that bothered me concerned the wife informing that tubby little jerk of a husband that she was going to be away for the afternoon to go to the beauty shop. He then informs her that she'd better make it a week! There she is, in the barn helping him, which doesn't do a thing for one's beauty except for rosy cheeks, and he cuts her up.

Do you have to use this male-chauvinist cartoon strip? And do you have to put it on the Editorial Page, which gives it more emphasis?

Is it really your attitude? Can't it be buried somewhere in the back with the classifieds if you insist on using it?

I'm not one of these that says, "I'm going to cancel our subscriptions," but I do think farm wives in general deserve better treatment than this cartoon gives them.

As I said, I've been a farmer's daughter, a farmer's wife, and in between an agricultural extension service employee in two states .... farm wives are not this stupid.

Editor's Note: The opinions expressed or implied by all of LANCASTER FARMING'S columnists are their own, and not necessarily those of the paper, editor, or publisher. This includes Tom Armstrong's Rural Route, modeled on his 25-year marriage (a happy one we're assured). While we hope to present a broad spectrum of informed editorial comment, we do not seek to offend any of our readers. Your remarks have been passed along to Armstrong.

Farmers never get the publicity they deserve for a job well done.

I'm enclosing a page from a daily paper which says Americans are spending two and a half times as much on motor vehicles and parts today as they did 10 years ago.

In contrast, they are spending less than twice as much as they did on food.

Why is an item like this burried at the very bottom of page 13 next to a big ad instead of given the display it should be to give farmers credit for the good job they are doing?

The article also gives some figures showing total personal spending in 1970 and 1978.

Food does quite well as you can see:

Food prices rose from $136.3 billion to $296.4 billion. At the same time motor vehicles and parts jumped from $34.9 billion to $89.7 billion.

Furniture and household equipment went from $36.7 billion to $77.7 billion. Other durable goods went from $13.3 to $30.0 billion.

Clothing and shoes went from $46.6 billion to $89.0 billion while fuel oil and coal jumped from $5.4 billion to $14.9 billion.

And housing went up from $94.0 billion to $207.3 billion while transportation jumped from $21.1 billion to $52.6 billion and other services climbed from $115.7 billion to $264.9 billion.

If we look at those figures for just a couple of minutes it becomes obvious that farmers are doing their share to help fight inflation.

Why don't the people in the towns and cities get to see this story on page 1 where it belongs?

The article on Brucellosis on page 45 of the December 29 issue is rather interesting especially when it has been conquered over a decade.

My colleague & I pioneered the original research and developed a vaccine highly effective. Merely treating the symptoms is effective.

Dairy meeting to feature heat synchronization

TERRE HILL — The Garden Spot Adult Farmer Program will sponsor a Dairy Management Meeting on Tuesday evening, January 22, 1980, at 7:30 p.m., at the Union Grove School.

Topics to be studied will include: The Use of Prostaglandin F2 to Synchronize Heat in Dairy Heifers, Heifer Management, and the Use of Calf Hutches.

Speakers will be Mike Williams from the Upjohn Co., developers of Prostaglandin F2 and Glenn Shirk, Lancaster County Extension Dairy Specialist who will talk on heifer management.

Several area dairymen will share their experiences with calf hutches.

The use of a heat snychronizer is new with dairy heifers and dairymen should be as familiar as possible with them, including the advantages and precautions associated with using such drugs.

All local veterinarians are being invited to attend as well.

This meeting will also provide an excellent opportunity to meet our new Extension Agent, Glenn Shirk.

The Union Grove School is located on Route 625, 2 miles north of Route 23, near Terre Hill.

All area dairymen are welcome. Refreshments will be served. For further information contact Donald M. Robinson, Adult Farmer instructor at 215/445-5041.

This sign, posted on the dairy case door of Kreider's Route 72 dairy store, puts the reason for their milk prices right up front for the consumers to read.

Milk prices in Manheim up by a few miles

MANHEIM — If you're planning to shop at Kreiders Dairy Store on Route 72 south of Manheim, be prepared to pay more for your milk than if you stopped at their Doe Run Road store.

The Kreiders make no secret about the higher prices they are charging at the Route 72 store. As a matter of fact, they have a sign on the counter that tells their customers to shop at their dairy store several miles away for a better buy.

What is going on? The Kreiders have been forced to comply with Section 402 of the Pa. milk marketing law, amended most recently in 1968.

This law says that any dairy farmer who produces, processes, and sells his own milk from a store located on his farm is exempt from licensing and price-fixing provisons of the regulations. In theory, the farmer can charge any price for the milk.

The law continues that the milk cannot leave the farm for processing, and milk other than what's produced on the farm cannot be brought in.

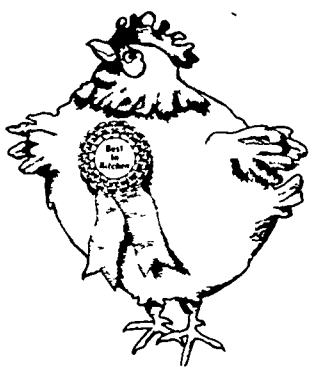
Earl Fink, of the Pa. Milk Marketing Board, said if the milk is sold off the farm, the store must comply with the fixed price, charging a minimum of 94 cents per half gallon.

In a recent court case, a judge ruled that Kreiders Dairy Store located along Rt. 72 is not exempt from the milk marketing law because the milk sold at that store has left the farm, stated Fink.

This ruling has forced the Kreiders Dairy Store to sell their milk for two different prices at their two store.

When asked about this ruling and its effect on their stores, the Kreiders said they preferred not to comment for personal reasons.

The court decision reinforces the PMMB's position of keeping the jug milk producter back on the farm. S.M.



The higher milk prices don't seem to have daunted the customers at Kreider Dairy Farm Store, located south of Manheim. For those looking for the lower price for a half gallon of milk, the Kreiders encourage them to shop at their Doe Run Road store, located on their farm.

Come see Monoframe plows with Bump and Run hydraulic reset bottoms which lift over buried objects and reset automatically. Look into the Allis Chalmers 7-bottom semi-mounted plow. It gives you 18-inch furrows in a 12-foot wide cut. Plugging is all but eliminated thanks to a full yard of horizontal clearance between bottoms plus a 32-inch vertical clearance—a huge 6.9 sq. ft. of trash tunnel. So you plow more acres in less time. Seeing is believing!

Guernsey breeders present awards, elect officers

BY RUTH ANN BENEDICT
Staff Correspondent

CAMP HILL — The typical Farm Show weather of snow, ice and just plain "ole ugly" weather didn't keep some 125 PA Guernsey breeders away from the 49th Annual Meeting of the Pennsylvania Guernsey Breeders' Association on Wednesday, January 9, at Schindlers Restaurant of Camp Hill.

A business meeting was conducted at 10:30 a.m. followed by a banquet program at noon.

Raymond F. Witmer, Willow Street, president of the Association, presided at the morning business meeting.

During the morning program, Donald Ace of the Penn State Dairy and Animal Science Department, spoke of the dairy program and its students at the Penn State University.

"The dairy industry is good. Dairy students at Penn State are strong students and they want to get their hands dirty", said Ace.

"The students are now leaving Penn State more prepared to go to work on the farm then ever before."

Ace noted that a new course is being offered now at Penn State on artificial insemination, thus hoping to initiate a "hands on" program where the students not only learn the theory but they see the theory in a real to life working situation.

Penrose Hallowell, Pennsylvania Secretary of Agriculture, gave a brief yet encouraging talk.

Hallowell, a dairy farmer himself, stated that the dairy industry in Pennsylvania is strong and he urged the dairy farmer to keep pushing onward.

The afternoon banquet program was highlighted by a special guest speaker.

"What about the Guernsey cow?" asked Douglas Wilson of the Midwest Breeders Coop, Shawano, Wisconsin.

"What is all this new excitement in the Guernsey breed and what should we do with this excitement?" said Wilson.

"What we do tomorrow is where we will be in five years.

"We shouldn't sit back now and take a breather just because we feel we are where we wanted to be by 1980. We must keep pushing on and working hard," stated Wilson.

Wilson also spoke about breeding programs and how to avoid "genetic" traps.

"A dairy farmers should use young bulls in his breeding program and evaluate each and every cow individually," said Wilson.

"Don't select one bull and then breed all of your cows to that bull. Use different bulls to keep from getting into a trap," urged Wilson.

Another highlight during the banquet program was the presentation of the awards.

Ginger M. Secrist presented the awards. Awards went to K. D. and Else Linde, Oxford, for high herd for milk in 1979. The Linde herd of 46 cows averaged 14,126 pounds of milk, 658 pounds of fat.

The Raymond F. and Louise A. Witmer farm, Willow Street, received the award for high herd for fat in 1979. Witmers 64 cow herd averaged 13,748 pounds of milk, 674 pounds of fat.

The high cow for milk and fat award for 1979 went to "Sniders Prince Lily" with 21,350 pounds of milk, 1203 pounds of fat with a 5.6% test. "Lily" is owned by Dr. Marvin Sanner and Piney Lane Farm, John Meyers, Gettysburg and Littlestown.

Secrist also presented awards to Junior Guernsey Breeder members.

Judith A. Harding, Brookville, and William Zollers, Jr., Mertztown, received the Outstanding Girl and Boy Awards in the Junior Association.

Junior member production awards were presented to Barry Leham, York, 2 Yr. Old with 13,493 pounds of milk, 579 pounds of fat, "Carsels T. D. Lilly"; Robert E. Kirk, Peach

Bradford-Sullivan farmers hear PFA vice president

BY JANE BRESEE
Staff Correspondent

EAST TROY — Eugene Gayman, Franklin County, vice-president of the Pennsylvania Farmers Association, was the featured speaker for the membership campaign kick-off meeting for the Bradford-Sullivan County Farmers Association.

The covered dish luncheon meeting was held recently in the East Troy Baptist Church with approximately 40 membership workers and their spouses present.

Gayman told the group that the fundamental philosophy of PFA is based on the free enterpise system. It is affiliated with the American Farm Bureau, the largest organized body dedicated to this belief which established this country and made it great, he said.

PFA is the sixth most influential lobbying group in the state, he said. Eleven lobbyists are registered including president Eugene Thompson of Indiana County and Gayman, himself.

Gayman review several legislative accomplishmentes of the PFA such as the gas tax refund, the sales tax exemption, the studded tires bill, and getting one farmer on the Game Commission.

He also reiterated the success of some of the services of PFA, stating that the enrollment in the Blue Cross, Blue Shield group plan was 1500 farm families this past year bringing the total to 6500 in the state.

In conclusion, Gayman assured the Bradford-Sullivan County dairy farmers that the PFA stands behind the concept of the dealer funded milk security bill.

He said the best thing the farmer can do is work through the association legislative committees and write letters and telephone the legislators about it.

The meeting was chaired by Milford Kinsman, East Troy, who with Bruce Bresee, Ulster, is co-chairmen, of the membership campaign. He introduced Fred Tiffany, state board director, and his wife, Jean, a member of the state women's committee Jeff Patton, Regional Organization Director, and Phil Tangeman local PFA insurance agent also were recognized.

A comical skit to exemplify the way farm visits are made to enlist membership was played by Hickory and Dickory (Kinsman and Bresee), two independent farmers, and Gayman with a fellow-membership worker, Annette Schucker, vice-president of the Bradford-Sullivan County board.

After a great deal of fun and persuasion, the two farmers decided to join by paying their $35 dues with a hundred dollar bill. The surprise of having to find enough money to change the large bill climaxed the act much to the amusement of the audience who applauded loudly for the actors.

Kevin Ferris of New Albany, president of the local group, urged the workers to increase the present mail-in membership of 710 farm families to 850 by the Regional Membership Rally to be held in Clarks Summit on February 7.

Eugene Gayman, left, give Kevin Ferris, president of the Bradford-Sullivan Farmers Association, some good advice. Gayman was featured speaker in Bradford County at a membership rally recently.

Bottom, 3 Yr. Old with 14,789 pounds of milk, 568 pounds of fat, "Cedar Fringed Ingrette"; Mary Ann Witmer, Willow Hill, 4 Yr. Old, with 17,668 pounds of milk, 871 pounds of fat, "Penn Del Favorite Angel"; James G. Harding, Brookville, 5 Yr. Old and Over with 12,496 pounds of milk, 616 pounds of fat, "Sterling Bonanzas Patty Lee".

The George W. Snyder Award went to Tina Rutter of York. Rutter won Grand Champion Guernsey at the Junior Dairy Show in September of 1979.

The Sewickley Award was presented to Renne Fava of Scenery Hill. Fava won Grand Champion Guernsey at the Junior Show during the PA Farm Show last week in Harrisburg.

Millie Linde, Pennsylvania Guernsey Queen, gave a very interesting speech on the Guernsey cow and her "natural" product.

Also speaking during the banquet was Max Dawdy, Secretary of the American Guernsey Cattle Club.

During the business meeting four directors were elected to the Association's Board of Directors.

Re-elected for another term in office were: Kevin Wilcox, Canton, District 2; Joseph Fava, Scenery Hill, District 5; C. David Layman, Waynesboro, District 6

Robert Smith, Bedford, was also elected to serve his first term for District 9.

New officers were elected to the Pennsylvania Guernsey Breeders' Association for the upcoming year. They are as follows: Joseph Fava, Scenery Hill - President; Robert Smith, Bedford - Vice President; and Elsie Wolff, Quarryville - Secretary.

Officers of the Junior PA Guernsey Breeders' Association are: President - Donald Litman; Vice President - Jeff Martz; and Secretary/Treasurer - Renee Fava.

Association reports were given by Raymond F. Witmer, Presidents report; Jesse Balmer, Secretary's report; Scott Wolff, Cattle Sale Committee report; Joseph Fava, Cattle Show Committee report; Donald Ace and Peter Witmer, State College report; Janet Harding, Youth Committee report; Lee Yost, report of the Business Manager; and Donald Litman, Youth President report.

Hunterdon horse association to meet

FLEMINGTON, N.J. — Worming programs for equines will be the subject of the monthly meeting of the Hunterdon County Horse and Pony Association scheduled for Monday evening, January 28, beginning at 8 p.m. in the Hunterdon County Extension Center.

Speaker will be Leon Day, Agricultural Veterinary Department, Merck, Inc., Rahway, according to Tricia Heartlein, Program Chairman for the horse and pony group.

Day will present his material with the aid of a new slide series prepared by Merck which describes the many internal parasite problems in horses, and indicates recommended materials to use in their control.

He will outline a program for the control of parasites in horses for both the beginner and experienced horseman.

A brief business meeting will precede the evening program.

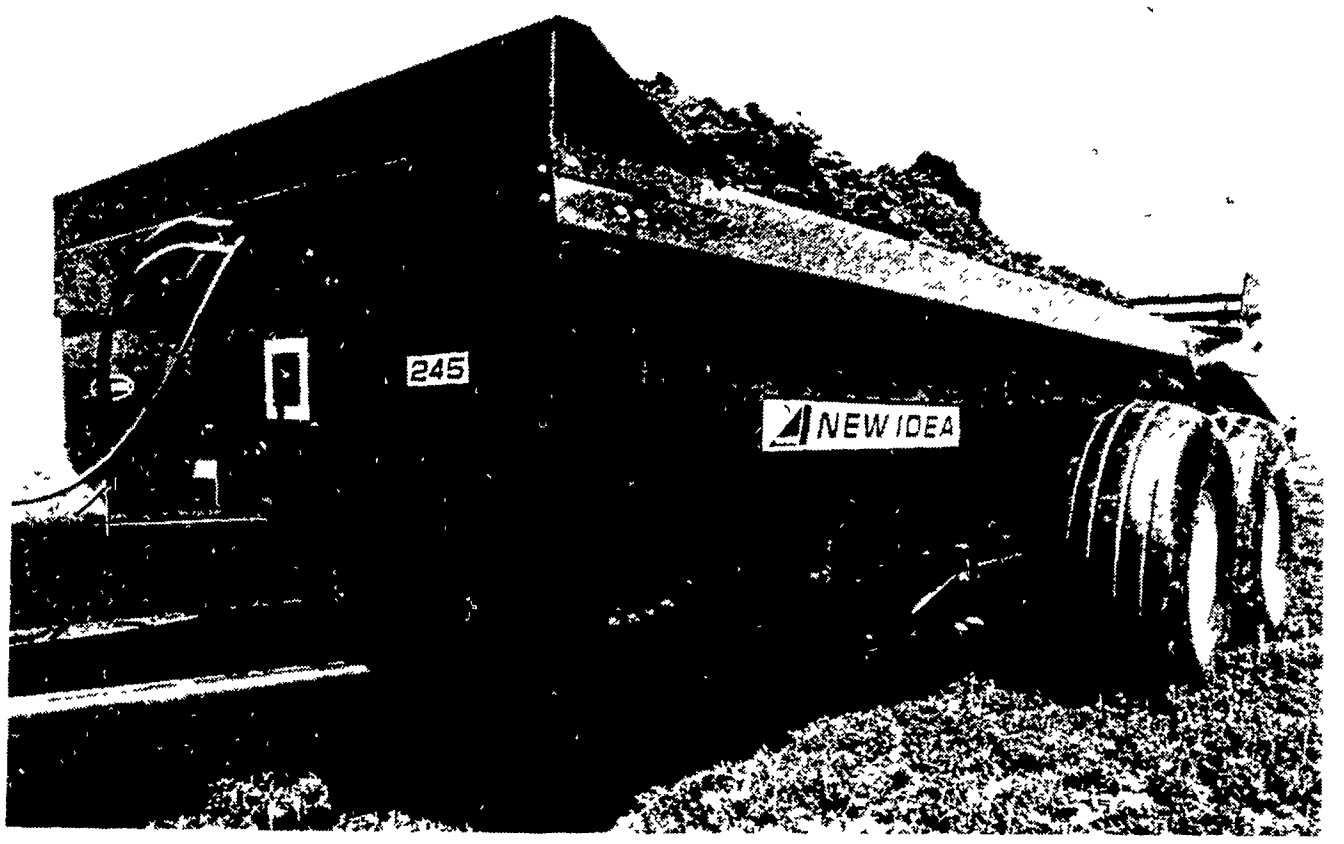
OUR MANURE SPREADER HAS AN ALL-WOOD BOX



Wood won't rust. Ever. That's why we make our manure spreaders with all-wood boxes. They're made of high grade yellow pine treated with a special preservative, so they resist manure acids better than steel.

In fact, our spreader is so tough we give you a lifetime warranty on the wood as long as you own it.

If any wood components rot through, we'll make replacement with no charge for wood, labor or freight.

Plus, there's a 1-year general warranty on all of our spreaders.

Eleven different models to choose from — 138 to 375 bushels in capacity, single beater, cylinder paddle, or flail. And four liquid spreaders, if you prefer that method.

Add it all up and you know why New Idea is such a great idea to so many farmers. Has been ever since we invented the manure spreader.

See your Avco New Idea dealer for the whole story.

The right size spreader for every job.

Is Delaware losing farmland?

NEWARK, Del. — Is Delaware in danger of losing enough of its vital agricultural land to non-farm use that something should be done about it?

The Delaware Extension Service has launched an educational program aimed at increasing public awareness of critical land use issues in the state–to inform state residents of what is happening locally to this valuable natural resource, as well as to acquaint them with some of the ways people in other states are dealing with this complicated subject.

To help develop this program, two meetings – one for farmers and the other for non-farmers – have been scheduled to explore the issue of agricultural land preservation in Delaware.

The day-long farm meeting will be held January 31 starting at 9:30 a.m. at the Capitol Grange Hall in Dover.

Topics to be discussed include an overview of the national problem of farmland preservation and an update of the land use situation in Delaware.

Also on the program are discussions of individual landowner rights as they relate to land owned; a look at several methods being tried in the Northeast to slow down conversion of farmland; and a means of compensating landowners for loss of full market value when land is restricted to agricultural use.

Representatives of the Delaware Farm Bureau and the Delaware State Grange will present their groups' positions on farmland preservation, and representatives of the New Castle County Planning Department will describe a proposal for creating an agricultural zone.

There will also be a discussion of the system of agricultural districting in use in Isle of Wight County, Va.

The non-farm meeting will take place February 1 from 9 30 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the State Highway Department building across from the Blue Hen Mall in Dover. This meeting is intended primarily for developers, realtors, representatives of chambers of commerce, businesses and industries, and other non-farm users of agricultural land.

Subjects to be covered at this meeting include. agricultural land use in Delaware and the role of agriculture in the state's economy; the relationship between individual landowner rights and land use attitudes of Delawareans; and some of the alternative methods of farmland preservation being practiced in various parts of the Northeast.

There will be presentations on the purchase of development rights by David F. Newton, land use management specialist in Suffolk county N Y , and by Allen Musselman, executive director of the Maryland Agricultural Land Preservation Foundation.

A third speaker, assistant planner Gregory A. Bowen, will explain how the transfer of development rights works in Calvert County, Md.

During the afternoon session, representatives of the New Castle County Planning Office will present their proposal for creating an agribusiness district.

These preliminary meetings should help identify problems and possible alternatives for further discussion in the spring when the Extension Service holds public county level educational workshops on the future of Delaware's agricultural lands.

Livestock operator charged under P&S Act

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Samuel Berkowitz, formerly doing business as North Franklin Commission Sales, North Franklin, Conn., has been charged with violating payment, trust account and recordkeeping requirements of the Packers and Stockyards Act.

The firm, not operating at this time, did business in Connecticut, Rhode Island and Southern Massachusetts. Berkowitz is registered as a market agency to sell livestock on a commission basis and as a dealer to buy and sell livestock for his own account.

In an administrative complaint filed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, Berkowitz is charged with:

–Having shortages of as much as $429,969 in his custodial account for shippers' proceeds;

–Issuing insufficient funds checks and failing to pay when due the proceeds due to consignors of livestock;

–Failing to pay when due for livestock purchases, and –Failing to keep accounts and records which fully and correctly disclose all transactions

Berkowitz has a right to a hearing. If the evidence supports the charges, he would be placed under a cease and desist order, and his registration could be suspended.

The P&S Act is a fair trade practices law. It promotes and maintains fair and open competition in marketing of livestock, meat and poultry.

Schuylkill honors top DHIA herds

PITMAN — The annual meeting of the Schuylkill County Dairy Herd Improvement Association was held Tuesday, at the Pitman Fire Company Hall.

The herd of Albert Miller and Dennis Rex, R1 Andreas, received top honors for their herd production records during 1979.

The Miller and Rex herd finished the year with an average production of 19,807 pounds of milk and 753 pounds of butterfat per cow. They also received the trophy for highest milk production for their cow, "Cookie", who produced 27,999 pounds of milk during the year.

The award for the cow with the highest butterfat production went to Heisler Brothers, R1 Tamaqua. Their cow, "Debbie", had a production record of 1,028 pounds of butterfat during 1979.

Both the Miller and Rex and Heisler Brothers herds earned purple ribbons for herd averages exceeding 700 pounds of butterfat production.

Other herd owners receiving gold ribbons for production exceeding 600 pounds of butterfat were: Bruce Leatherman, R1 Tamaqua; Carl J. Snyder, R1 Pitman; Suntrail Dairy Farm, R1 Pitman; William R. Daubert, R2 Pine Grove; Carl and Dale Heisler, R1 Tamaqua; Wilbert Moyer, R1 Schuylkill Haven; Emmett Rhein, R3 Pine Grove; and Henry J. Reiner, Klingerstown.

Barley to chair campaign

LANCASTER — A Lancaster County dairy farmer, John E. Barley was selected Thursday as the 1980 campaign chairman by the Bob Walker for Congress Committee.

Barley's appointment puts him in charge of a three county organization being formed to back an expected Walker candidacy.

Barley said he accepted the appointment, "Because I am more than pleased with the job Bob has done in the last three years. He serves the interests of the farmers as well as everyone else in the district. Bob Walker knows the philosophy of the people who live here and he carries that with him back to Washington.

"I just want to do what I can to see that he is sent back to Washington for another two years."

Married and the father of four children, Barley and his family reside on their farm, R.D. #2, Conestoga.

capital stock of a corporation, Myers said, regardless of whether or not those assets are owned or mortgaged.

In the case of a dairy farmers with $500,000 incorporated farm, the tax would be $5,000 annually, even though he might have a $400,000 mortgage.

Eliminating the tax would remove a severe burden on many farmers, Myers said, and it would facilitate the transfer of farm ownership from one generation to another.

"It's a lot easier to transfer a share of stock in a year's time than it is to transfer a tractor or three cows," Myers said.

The bill reportedly has the support of both the department of revenue and the Governor's office, and may result in a law before the legislators recess for the summer.

Big changes for livestock producers

PHOENIX, Arizona — Significant changes in the regulation, production and marketing of livestock were predicted Monday at a livestock conference at the 61st annual meeting of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

A government agricultural administrator, a cattle feeder-packer and an educator peered into their crystal balls and saw the 1980's as being a period of adjustment for all concerned with livestock production and distribution.

Panel participants were Thomas P. Grumbly, associate administrator of the Food Safety and Quality Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, Kenneth W. Monfort, senior vice president of Monfort of Colorado and Dr. L.S. "Bill" Pope, dean of agriculture at New Mexico State University.

Grumbly painted a picture of government regulation in agricultural production which will be smaller in scope but more specific in direction in the 1980's.

He said government regulatory agencies will have to tighten up the number of acres in which they are active due to inflation and lower budgets. The prevention of toxic chemicals entering the food supply should receive top priority according to Grumbly.

He also said that public confidence in the safety of the food supply is enhanced by judicious government regulation.

Monfort traced the history of the development of cattle feeding in the United States, indicating that it was not borne of consumer demand for better beef, but rather a combination of factors.

Among these, he noted, in the past cattle marketing took place at the end of the grazing season producing gluts and low prices during one season, while farmers harvested large feed crops during the same period of the year.

Monfort predicted while there will be plenty of quality beef available during the 1980's, that never again would per capita consumption of beef reach 129 pounds as it did at the peak in the 1970's.

He said cost increases for packers are making it necessary for them to trim labor contracts, and predicted a period of labor unrest in the packing industry.

Pope said he feels the 1980's will produce a decade of decision for livestock producers. Individuals will be making decisions independently, Pope predicted, but international relations will govern the direction they take. Inflation, government regulations, consumer preferences, availability of energy, research achievements, access to public lands and many other factors will also play a role, he said.

Those who survive in the business will be the ones who make the right decisions, Pope said.

Nations "understanding" of U.S. grain embargo

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — Traditional international customers for U.S. soybeans and products in general reacted with "understanding" following the U.S. embargo of grain and soybeans to the Soviet Union, according to a January 14 report by the American Soybean Association.

Traders have not questioned the U.S. reliability as a supplier of soybeans and are not threatened by President Carter's action, sources in Europe and Japan.

Japan has not questioned the U.S. embargo, but "this does not in any way imply that there is no fear or unease on the part of the Japanese," said ASA's representative in Tokyo.

"There are strong hopes that the U.S. will not use grain and soybeans as a negotiating weapon for any future commercial negotiations with Japan."

European sources reported there is also little possibility of transshipments of soybeans and soybean products to the Soviet Union.

"West Germany has stopped exporting cereals to the USSR and is not granting any reduced interest rates or export credits," according to the ASA office in Brussels.

"And the European Economic Community has decided to make grain exports to the USSR and Eastern Europe subject to control."

Transhipments from Poland and East Germany are said to be "practically impossible since harbors there are currently operating at full capacity to meet their needs. Transhipments through Rotterdam would also be difficult since a "huge backlog" exists in an effort to meet routine requirements.

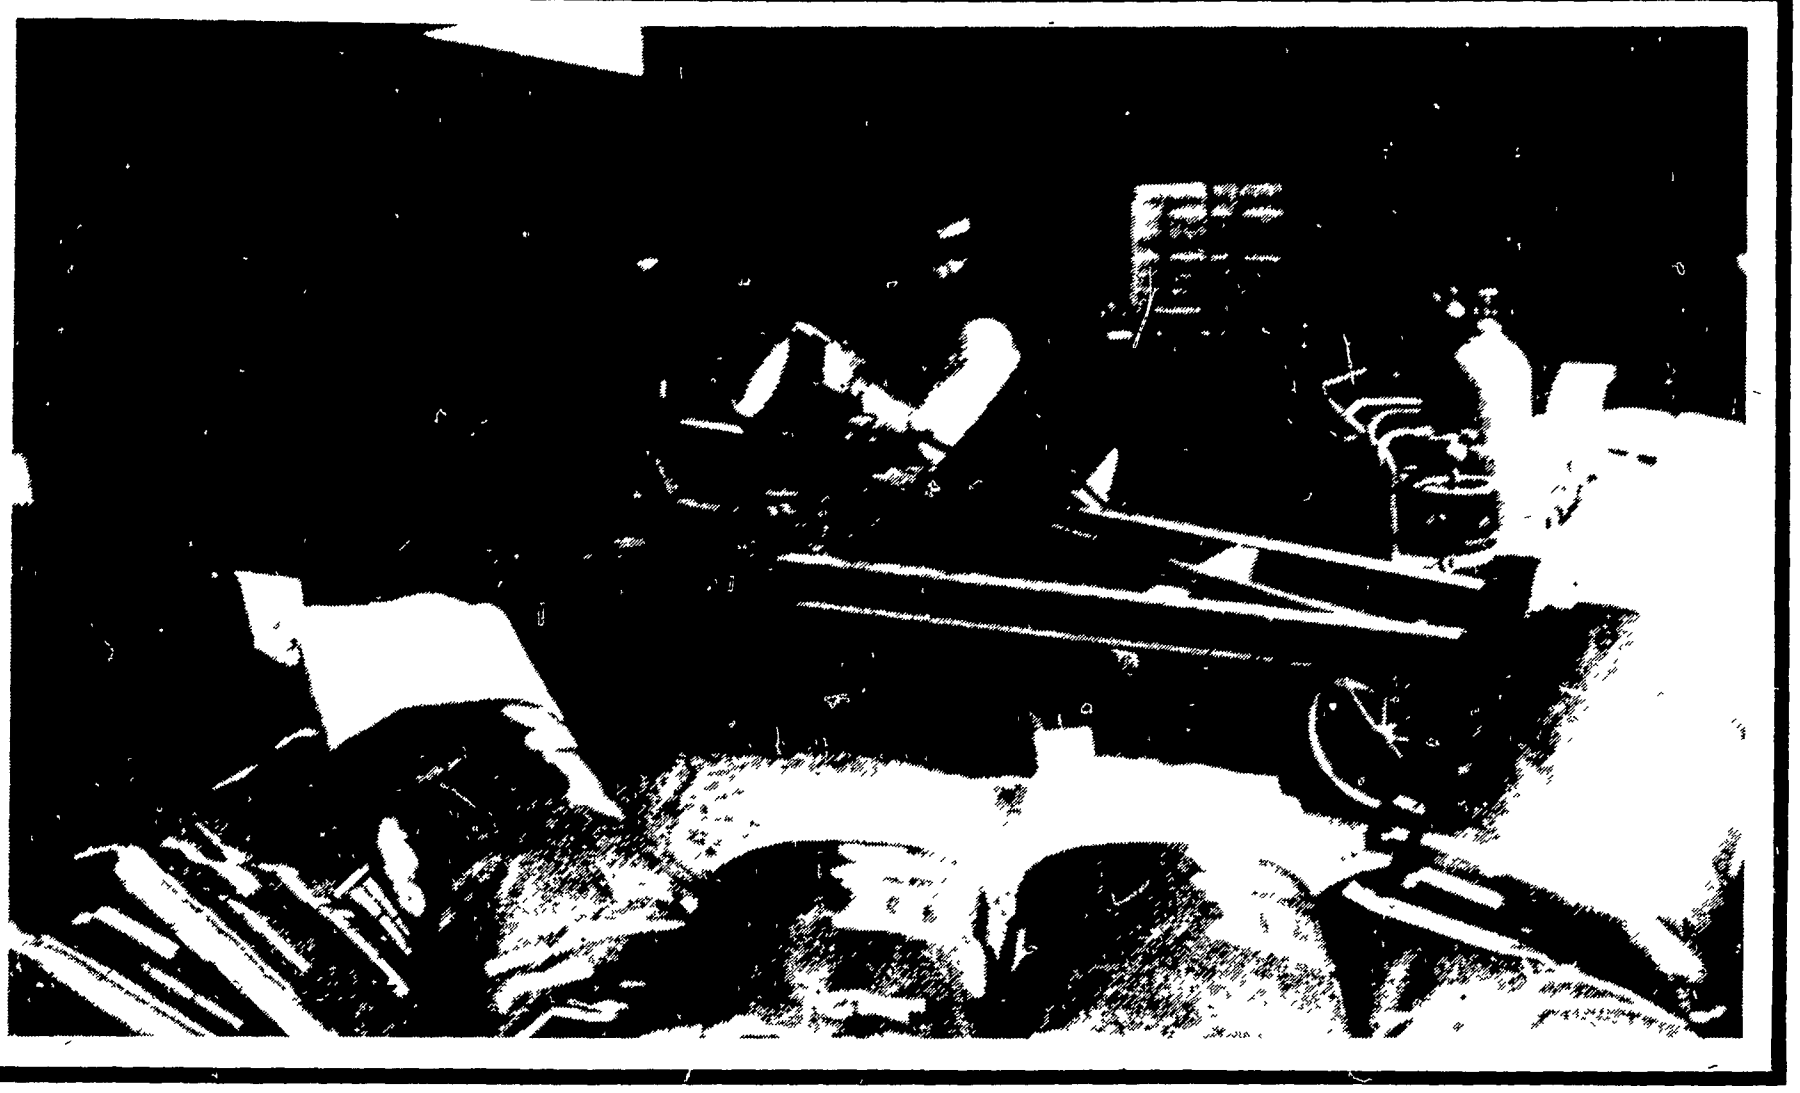
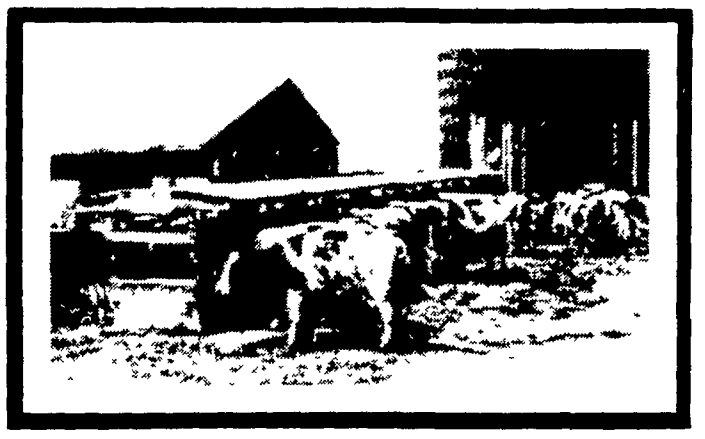
Today's Farming Demands Innovation



Jeff Thomas designed and mounted two 1 700 lb hoppers on his chisel plow so he can incorporate his fall fertilizer in concentrated bands The deep placement gives better phosphorus efficiency and increases his corn yields Jeff is another innovative DEKALB dealer willing to share his better ideas

Innovative Hybrids That Answer Pennsylvania's Challenge

You asked for corn hybrids that can slug it out with disease. And here they are. Innovative DEKALB hybrids that answer the Pennsylvania challenge and produce mighty convincing yields.



XL-55a

Fast drying XL-55a is on its way to becoming a cornerstone hybrid for the Pennsylvania farmer who likes to plant and harvest early. You'll be in great shape next fall with this outstandingly healthy, big yielding hybrid.

XL-61

Last fall XL-61 and Pete Makin teamed up for a yield of 235.39* bushels per acre, rewriting the record book on the DelMarVa Peninsula. Bumper yields plus excellent health and great standability put XL-61 in a class by itself throughout the East.

XL-71

When Pennsylvania livestock feeders look at the extra large ears on XL-71, they know they'll harvest big yields. This new hybrid's quality stalks and excellent disease resistance increase the yield you'll haul home.

So for lots of energy-packed silage or quality grain, grow into the '80s with three of Pennsylvania's best. Talk with your DEKALB dealer about these innovative hybrids for your farm.

Nominating committee chosen for soybean referendum

DOVER, Del. — A nominating committee of five members has been chosen to select names for members of the Delaware Chapter of the Mid-Atlantic Soybean Association.

Included are former Delmarva soybean growing contest winner Homer Torbert, Frederica; Bill Mitchell, University of Delaware agronomist; Bill Henderson, Georgetown, former Sussex County extension agent; Henry Retz, Middletown, President of the Delaware Crop Improvement Association; and Cliff Parker, Jr., Frankford.

The naming of the committee is the next in several steps needed to institute a soybean checkoff program for Delaware.

When HB 410 was passed and signed late last year, it provided the enabling legislation for a referendum.

The Commodity Development Act allows farmers to vote on programs to raise money for marketing, research, and development of their commodities.

On December 28, 1979 a petition was presented to Delaware Agriculture Secretary Alden Hopkins along with a list of 10 names for candidates to serve on the nominating committee.

The five members listed above were chosen from that petition.

Delaware soybean producers ultimately will vote on those nominated.

Although the Delaware Department of Agriculture will have a seat on the Delaware Soybean Association, if the referendum is passed, only farmer-producers will have a vote in the Association's activities.

All farmer-candidates will be selected by the producers. They will not be appointed by the Agriculture Department, according to Mark Kooker, commodity development specialist for the Department.

By law, the names of the board must be submitted by the end of February. The question of whether that is the 28th or 29th has been raised but probably will not become a problem.

The board will be voted on sometime before the end of March.

After that time they will write the referendum the farmers will vote on.

According to Kooker, the program should be ready to go by the beginning of this July.

At present, it looks like Delaware farmers will follow the lead of Maryland and New Jersey growers and assess themselves a full penny per bushel soybeans produced.

Delaware's 2200 soybean producers, in a normal year, produce about 5.5 million to 6 million bushels of soybeans.

At a one cent contribution rate, they would raise $50,000 to $60,000 per year for research and education on Delaware soybeans.

Delaware Governor Pierre S. DuPont IV has said he favors the referendum concept.

He said he prefers to see farmers and others avoid the use of tax funds for supporting programs of this nature.

Kooker said he felt it is important Delaware farmers have a better voter turnout than Maryland, where only a relative handful of farmers even bothered to cast a ballot.

"We don't want the legislators to say farmers don't care," Kooker said.

Delaware has gone to great lengths to assure farmer participation, including the provisions for two separate votes, one for the board and the other on the referendum itself.

In many other states, the board has been appointed by the state agriculture department.

Maryland, the most recent state to approve a soybean checkoff, was the 21st state to do so. New Jersey, where voters this week got ballots to vote on their referendum, may become the 22nd.

This would leave Delaware the opportunity to be the 23rd state to have a soybean checkoff program.

Of those states currently running a program, the majority have checkoffs of one-half cent per bushel soybeans.

At present 460,000 growers across the country participate in grower checkoff programs. — CH

4-H roast beef supper

NORRISTOWN — Anyone who enjoys delicious roast beef should plan to attend the annual 4-H roast beef supper to be held on Saturday, January 26, at the Northern Montgomery Vo-Tech School on Sumneytown Pike near Lansdale. The dinner will be served from 3 to 8 p.m. The event is sponsored by the Montgomery County 4-H Livestock Club and features beef from project steers purchased at the 4-H shows in Allentown and at the Farm Show in Harrisburg.

Proceeds from the dinner will go to help the livestock club, the 4-H Center and the county program in general. Over 2,400 youth are enrolled in the 4-H Clubs.

The club plans to serve 1,500 people. The dinner is served country style. The cost is $5.00 for adults, $2.25 for children 6 to 12 years of age. Volunteer leaders and members will be preparing and serving meal. For more information or tickets call the 4-H office at 277-0574

New record price paid to Lancaster Co. steers

Sale of grand champion steer is no easy task

BY SHEILA MILLER

HARRISBURG—It wasn't an easy decision for Danny George, of George's Foodliner, to go that extra dime to set a new Farm Show record for the grand champion Junior Market steer.

But when the auctioneer banged his gavel, a new record had been made with a bid of $6.60 per pound.

The bidding on the 1250 pound champ owned by Ernie Frey, Quarryville, started out fairly slow.

Bidders started in at one dollar, then two, and slowly made their way up to the old record of $6.50 a pound.

The auctioneer called and cajoled the bidders to go a bit higher. He even recited a poem as a sort of entertaining encouragement.

Pa. Secretary of Agriculture Penrose Hallowell jumped into the act and led the top steer around the sale's ring once or twice. He did his best to help break the old record, even though he gave himself away as a dairyman by walking backwards with the steer some of the time.

After whispered discussions with his consulting buyer, Bethlehem food store owner, Danny George, gave in to tradition and kept his streak of buying the Farm Show grand champion steer running for yet another year.

The crowd of spectators and bidders alike cheered after the record had been broken. Satisfied, the auctioneer knocked the top 1980 steer off, and went on to break another record with the reserve champion, too.

Acme Market, Inc. of Philadelphia bought Lancaster County's Chris Herr's reserve grand champion

(Turn to Page A28)

Max Smith, the Lancaster County Extension agent, wearing a white hat, gives some words of advice and encouragement to Pa. Secretary of Agriculture Penrose Hallowell as he shows the grand champion steer to the bidders at Friday's auction.

Good guys always wear white hats, and everyone at the Farm Show's Junior Market Steer Sale will agree that Danny George, in his white hat and dark glasses, was a great guy. After a lot of thought and deliberation, the owner of George's Foodliner, Bethlehem, set a new Farm Show record with his bid of $6.60 a pound for the grand champion steer.

steer for $3.35 a pound. Once again, this price beat last year's record by a dime.

The bidding, which started at 2 p.m., went on until all of the 125 head of market steers had been sold. The average price paid for the animals came to slightly over 91 cents a pound, with the average weight of the steers equalling 1172 pounds.

The grand champion market hog that started the day's sales went to Hatfield Packing Co., Hatfield.

Donald Sheiss' full-blooded Duroc brought $17 per pound, $2 short of last year's record.

Following Donald's grand champion through the sale ring was the reserve grand champion hog owned by Steve Strauss, Lancaster. Steve's crossbred Spotted x Duroc, also sold to Hatfield Packing Co. for $8 50 a pound.

There were 91 swine auctioned off on Friday morning, with an average price of $1.14 a pound. Their average weight was 213 pounds.

Farm Show's Charles I. pointed out the 91 animals sold through the sale ring were only half of the 180 hogs in the junior show.

He said each child nominated one of their animals to be sold at the auction. The other animals that were either underweight, overweight, or placed low in the show, were sold directly to a slaughter plant.

Hatfield Packing Co. placed the highest bid for these animals for the past several years, and this year was no exception. They were tops with a bid of $1.50 over the sale day's St. Louis market.

Julie Kuzemchak, Centre County, sold her grand and reserve grand champion market lambs for $22 a pound and $10.50 a pound respectively.

Buying the grand champion lamb was Bill Fox of Fox's Market in Middletown. Jim Bierly, owner of Bierly's Meat Market in State College, purchased the reserve champion lamb.

A total of 88 lambs were auctioned off for an average price of $1.35 per pound. The average weight for the market lambs was 109 pounds.

The top buyer at the Farm Show sale was Acme Markets, Philadelphia, with $16,973.55. Running a close second was Arbogast & Bastian, Inc., Allentown, totalling $15,779.80.

Almost tied for third and fourth high buyers were Konhaus Farms, Mechanicsburg at $13,549.50 and Hatfield Packing Co., Hatfield, with $12,795 10.

Order 4 milk price $12.91 for December

ALEXANDRIA, VA. — Middle Atlantic Order Market Administrator Joseph D. Shine Monday announced a December 1979 base milk price of $12.91 per hundredweight and an excess milk price of $11.35.

The weighted average December price was $12.76 and the butterfat differential for the month was 15.0 cents. The December base milk price was down 14 cents from November 1979 but was 88 cents higher than last December.

Order No. 4 prices are announced for 3.5 percent milk f.o.b. plant location within 55 miles of Phildelphia, PA and also within 75 miles from the nearer of Washington, DC or Baltimore, MD.

There is a 6-cent direct-delivery differential applicable to producer milk received at plants located within 55 miles of Philadelphia.

Shine said producer receipts totaled 449.9 million pounds during December, up 1.7 percent from the previous month, on a daily basis, but slightly below last December.

Class I producer milk totaled 240.6 million pounds and accounted for 53.46 percent of total producer milk receipts during the month, down from 58.53 percent in November and also below the 55.19 Class I utilization percentage last December.

Base milk accounted for 90.48 percent of total producer milk receipts in December, down from 92.26 percent in November.

There were 7118 producers supplying Order 4 handlers during the month and the average daily delivery per producer of 2039 pounds was 2.7 percent higher than a year ago.

The average butterfat test of producer milk of 3.75 percent was down from 3.83 percent last December.

Middle Atlantic Order pool handlers reported Class I in-area milk sales of 6.8 million pounds per day during December, down 2.6 percent from November and 2.2 percent below December 1978, after adjustment to eliminate variation due to calendar composition.

During the 12 months of 1979 a total of 5.39 billion pounds of producer milk was pooled under Order No. 4, a 0.5 percent decline from the previous year.

The gross value of this milk was $665 million in 1979 compared to $593 million in 1979.

Class I producer milk totaled 2.9 billion pounds and accounted for 53.91 percent of totaled pooled milk during 1979.

The average daily delivery per producer was 2046 pounds in 1979, 80 pounds or 4.1 percent above the average daily rate the prior year.

The Order No. 4 base milk price averaged $12.45 per hundredweight during 1979, an increase of $1.39 over the previous year, while the average excess milk price of $10.86 was $1.33 higher than in 1978.

The weighted average 1979 price was $12.29 compared to $10.92 a year earlier. The Class I milk price averaged $13.55 in 1979, up $1.48 from the 1978 average, while Class II milk prices averaged $10.93 during 1979 and $9.60 in 1978.

Maryland Grangers not 100% for embargo

THURMONT, Md. — C. Rodman Myers, Master of the Maryland State Grange, Maryland's oldest Farm Family Organization, stated the organization reluctantly supports President Carter's grain embargo.

While the state Grange does not agree 100 percent with the presidents decision, we must try to find ways to alleviate this problem and find new sources of trade incomes or subsidize to protect the grain farmers and all other segments of the economy affected by the embargo.

Just recently the Carter administration bailed out the Chrysler Corporation with a sizeable loan, Myers said.

Now the American farmer is confronted with machinery costs 15 percent higher, and fertilizer for this year's crops 20 to 35 percent higher, fuel costs substantially higher and all other overhead higher than 1979. Farmers will wait and see if the government will help them with no red tape involved.

The Federal Government, before the embargo, accomplished very little to encourage private enterprise to enter the gasahol field, now they have allocated money, and energy saving tax credits to individuals or corporations hoping to use some of our excess corn supply.

These gasahol plants, if credit it obtained, will not be in operation until 1981.

Myers also stated many grain farmers start now to obtain a line of credit for 1980. Some maybe forced to diversify their farmering practices while others with creditors looking at a less stable market may be forced to have sale.

Lancaster Co. champs comment

BY SHEILA MILLER

HARRISBURG — What do you feel like after winning the grand championship at the Farm Show with an animal you've worked with and pampered all year long?

And the very next day, you lead that animal into a sales ring and know that you'll never see it at home again.

This is a moment that every Junior showman must face during the experience called Farm Show. For some, it's easy to part and for others it's probably the hardest thing they've ever done in their lives.

The faces of the young men and women show a mixture of bravery and sadness. At times, the front of being unconcerned breaks down and tears come streaming, involuntarily, down their faces.

For most of the Juniors, the chance of raising the animal and then selling it at the Farm Show is a continuing lesson during their years in FFA or 4-H.

For Ernie Frey, his steer, Roadrunner, was his sixth 4-H project. But, Roadrunner undoubtedly will be special in Ernie's memories because he won his first grand champion with this Angus x Chianina crossbred steer.

After the sale, when Ernie was paid a new record price for his 4-H project, he said he planned to invest his earnings into a herd of cattle. What type of cattle — Angus cows with a Chianina bull, he said.

Another Lancaster County winner, Chris Herr said he is planning to invest the money he received for the sale of his reserve grand champion steer, Houston, in schooling. He hopes to attend Penn State and major in agribusiness or ag engineering.

When asked what he did to raise his crossbred steer to win the reserve championship, Chris said he pushed the May calf with high protein grain to get him to grow.

By the Chianina Field Days held last summer, Chris said he almost thought Houston was too big.

"I decided to pull back and just hold him, letting him coast on a little grain and pasture," Chris explained. "I also walked him twice a day."

Chris said Houston caught on quick in his halter breaking and leading lessons. And added, if anything, Houston was just a bit lazy when it came to exercising.

He said the big steer's disposition was just like a baby's. "He even acts kind of dumb when you catch him doing something wrong."

When working with an animal that size, the temperament is a vital consideration.

A champion on a smaller scale, Steve Strauss of Lancaster exhibited the

Leon Riegel Tim Trayer Edgar Sheaffer

A reader asks: We recently purchased two Polled Hereford cows, with calves at their sides, that were supposed to be bred last June. Just the other week, about a month after we weaned the calves, the one cow began to ride the other. There were no other signs of heat. Is this behavior unusual. Is it safe to have the cow pregnancy tested this late in her "gestation"? Is there any other sign we can look for to tell if the cow is bred? What are the symptoms and causes of false heat?

Dr. Riegel comments: The typical signs of heat, or estrus, in cattle are: restlessness: a slight decrease in appetite, rumination, and milk production; standing to be ridden by other cows and attempting to ride other cows herself; slight elevation of her tail; and strings of clear mucus hanging from the vulva, or present on the tail or hindquarters.

Although cattle are polyestrus, meaning they will cycle all year long when they are not pregnant, some cows show no clinical sign of heat when their calves are nursing. But, as soon as the calf is weaned, the cow will then begin to show outward signs.

Therefore, it would be advisable to have your cows checked for pregnancy by a veterinarian performing a rectal examination. The procedure is relatively safe, and can be done any time after 42 days up until the day of calving. It is important to have a substantial facility to confine the cow while the exam is being done.

To have a cow show signs of heat during her pregnancy is not normal, but it is not extremely unusual either. False heats occur when the cows estrogen, the normal hormones produced by a cow, override the pregesterones produced by the corpus luteum, the yellow body, of pregnancy.

Each year we find a certain number of cows that appear to be having an abnormal estrus cycle. They show all the signs of being in heat at 21-day intervals through most, and sometimes all, of their gestation period.

State hort meeting coming

LANCASTER — The annual state-wide fruit meetings are scheduled for January 29-30-31, 1980 at the Hershey Motor Lodge and Convention Center in nearby Hershey.

A feature of the beginning session on Tuesday morning, January 29, will include: a review of current labor regulations; training supervisors and grower-management relations to harvest situations.

Tuesday afternoon will include discussions on: controlled atmosphere for the storage of fruits and vegetables; Why should I buy your apples, a chain store buyer speaks; North Carolina orchard changes; and application problems with growth regulators.

Wednesday morning is to be devoted to several discussions of: experiences with peach varieties; nectarines; and disease control programs for these fruits.

On Wednesday afternoon participants will hear about: growth regulation of fruit quality; grower evaluation of trellis plantings; the high density approach analysis; and pollination of apples.

The windup Thursday morning sessions will be on plant and fruit protection against pests. At the same time there will be: small fruit discussions; weed control in bramble plantings; raspberry variety evaluation; and weed control in strawberries.

A big trade show will be on display downstairs. Vegetable and grape growers will also be holding their state annual meetings within the Center.

Chris Erb to speak at Farm-Home

LANCASTER — Christine Erb, Mount Joy, will be the featured speaker for the 1980 annual meeting of the Farm and Home Foundation to be held at the Farm and Home Center on Thursday, January 31, at 6:30 p.m.

Chris returned in December from a six-month stay in Japan where she lived and worked with farm families. She will tell about her adventures in Japan and show slides of that country.

While in Japan, Chris lived with 17 host families and learned about their rural youth organization and their agriculture. Chris is now working at home in the poultry operation of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Erb. She is a former Lancaster County 4-H'er.

Vocal selections will be provided by Jeanette Martin, New Holland.

Included in the evening's program will be a brief business meeting, and the election of directors.

Tickets are $6.00 and can be purchased from directors of the Farm and Home Foundation or by calling the Farm and Home Center 392-4911 or the Penn State Extension Service. Deadline for reservations is Thursday, January 24, 1980.

District 11 locals of Inter-State meet

By SUSAN KAUFFMAN
Staff Correspondent

COCHRANVILLE — Oxford and Cochranville local members of Interstate Milk Producers Cooperative gathered at the Cochranville Firehall recently to honor several of its membership for long term membership in the organization and for quality milk production.

District 11, comprised of these two locals, is under the directorship of Horace Prange with Howard Mason district president, and David M. King and H. Lee Brown the outgoing presidents of the locals.

Prange presented four quality awards to members who had remained on the monthly honor roll for twelve consecutive months. Recognized for the excellent record for quality were Robert M. Crowl, Oxford; David H. Cullen, Lincoln University; Harold E. Roney, Oxford and William St. John, Lincoln University.

These four individuals wre commended by Prange and presented with a plaque.

The director also announced two twenty-five year membership awards which went to Dean Marshall Dairy and Louis Neyman. Kenneth Marshall accepted the plaque and pin for his father. The Marshall farms is at Nottingham. Neyman has a dairy farm at Oxford.

Prange gave a few brief comments about the ongoing progress at Holly Milk and explained the need for backing a security bill for dairymen who may deal with a manufacturer or handler who defaults. He said six cooperatives in Pennsylvania, the State Grange, Pennsylvania Farmers Association and the Farmers Union all support a bill which requires the manufacturer or dealer to pay into the security fund rather than the producer.

Fieldman Richard Weaver outlined some things to attempt in the new year. Increased advertising to encourage more demand for Class I milk, improved milk flavor, improved milk production, increase the number of members on quality awards and honor lists, and keep up efforts for continued control of mastitis.

Barclay Hoopes, Inter-State's Young Cooperator for 1979 told his neighboring district how he became involved in the Young Cooperator program, what he views the purposes of the program to be and encouraged other young members to take advantage of the program to better appreciate the cooperative and its efforts to market milk.

He said, "The work on my farm comes first, but I know that to make my farm keep about attempts to undermine the Federal Milk Marketing Orders. He said any such move could cost Pennsylvania dairymen $1 per cwt milk in lost revenue.

Hand defended the cooperative system as opposed to corporate enterprise and said farmers need the advantages of the co-op system.

This year's Young Cooperator Donald L. Ranck also told dairymen of the need to support the current milk order system.

Ranck, who with his wife Virginia represented Inter-State, encouraged farmers betwen 19 and 35 years of age to get involved in the Young Cooperator movement.

Lancaster County Dairy Agent Glenn A. Shirk reminded farmers that dairying is a business as well as a way of life.

While 1979 was generally a good year, 1980 may not be so bright, he said.

He told farmers to concentrate or getting better before getting bigger. He recommended devoting more time to the cow who is the dairyman's bread and butter.

"Let her perform to her potential," Shirk advised.

Shirk also challenged farmers to pay attention to the details that mean profits.

In other meeting action, members elected officers for the coming year.

James W. Bowman was elected President of the Christiana local. Allan D. Rohrer is the new vice president, Charles L. Groff the secretary-treasurer.

Delegates include Calvin D. Beiler, Ivan Bowman, Jr. and C. Melvin Neff.

Alternate delegates for 1980 will be C. Nevin Hershey, Charles L. Rohrer, and J. Ray Ranck.

For the Quarryville local, C. Dale Bollinger was elected president. Fred W. Linton, Jr. was voted vice president, and Willis B. Krantz was elected secretary treasurer.

Five delegates were chosen. They include C. Dale Bollinger, David E. Delong, Robert H. Kreider, Richard P. Maule, and P. Robert Wenger.

Alternates from the Quarryville local are David G. Byers, R. Edwin Harnish, A. Dale Herr, Fred W. Linton, Jr., and Vernon Umble.

Lauded for 12 months on the honor roll for quality milk production were Allen and Charles Rohrer of Paradise.

4-H members recognized for best record books included Doug Hershberger, Dale Hershey, and Steve Hershey.

James Weicksel was presented a wall plaque commemorating 50 years of family membership in Inter-State Co-op.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Groff were presented a certificate commemorating 25 years of membership. The award was given and dated on Groff's birthday.

Allen Rohrer accepts award for 12 months on the honor roll from Inter-State fieldman James Barnett. Allen and his brother Charles farm near Paradise.

Recieving the outstanding 4-H participation award from Inter-State Director Curtis Akers are Doug Hershberger, Dale Hershey, and Steve Hershey

$200 FERTILIZER PREDICTED
$80 SOFT ROCK PHOSPHATE OFFERED

Now that will last into the $200 season. Don't apply every year Why so cheap? Because it is not blended but still exactly what you want to make the extremely high yields with the Carey Reams program It comes direct from the mines of New Holland in bulk cars No hand labor, no blending. This is why it is cheap.

NITROGEN is free out of the air, begotten with our good BX bacteria, a very porlific strain

POTASH you don't need to apply every year, proven by the Ream's program. Better use more phosphorus (soft rock phosphate) which makes better roots and stalks, more nutritious feed, better soil tilth, much more sugar for gasohol, and is so low priced because you are not paying for running it through a factory or storage bins We spread it direct from the cars With BX it is a winner, even at that price!

NATIONAL AG SOIL TREATMENT is proven by Pennstate to be a very superior product (spray) to break hard pan, letting water down, mellowing top soil and subsoil. Price is considerable cheaper and better than chiseling Soil is converted like a born again man, not just temporarily, every 12 inches with high priced fuel. It is so good that we guarantee money back if you can't see results Dealers Wanted Also for BX They'll see. Why not prove our program on at least part of the farm so you know in 1981 when worse comes to worse with fertilizer prices We do soil testing here

Soybean group demands six embargo actions

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — The American Soybean Association has demanded the U.S. Department of Agriculture take immediate action to provide soybean growers and consumers relief from the Soviet embargo without the need for costly soybean reserves or other government subsidies.

In a telegram to Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland, ASA recommended implementation of six programs to provide short and long-term relief from the effects of the Soviet embargo which could save U.S. taxpayers $15-$20 million for soybeans alone.

"As you know, ASA has consistantly supported federal policies which allow farmers to receive their income from the marketplace rather than from federal subsidies," ASA President Allan Aves said in a telegram to Agricultural Secretary Bob Bergland.

"We still oppose a federally-financed soybean reserve program. This embargo, however, has created a severe economic hardship on soybean growers and we therefore request immediate government action."

ASA recommended the following six programs:

Increase by at least $298 million in the current fiscal year Commodity Credit Corporation export credits to finance exports of soybean products to developing nations.

Increase Food for Peace (PL480) funding to allow increased export of soybean products to needy people in developing nations.

Implement the intermediate-term credit provisions of the Agricultural Trade Act of 1978 which would allow 3-10 year loans to foreign customers so they could construct processing and storage facilities for agricultural commodities.

Make CCC export credits available to the People's Republic of China so soybean exports to that nation can be maximized.

Request Congress to grant USDA authority to establish a $5 billion revolving fund for CCC export credits.

Increase soybean market development funding through USDA's Foreign Agricultural Service by $1 million this year, $2 million in 1981 and $3 million in 1982 in order to help soybean growers develop new or expanded markets to replace the lost Soviet market.

During the current fiscal year, FAS investment in soybean market development activities totaled $2.8 million.

Announcement of the six point plan was one of several initiatives made by the American Soybean Association leaders last week in the wake of President Carter's announcement of the embargo of grain and soybean shipments to Russia.

ASA immediately called on the Commodity Futures Trading Commission to suspend trading for two days until important questions could be answered regarding government actions that would be taken to reduce the impact of the embargo on farmers.

In a telegram to the CFTC, ASA President Allan Aves said the action was necessary to "prevent mass confusion and panic reaction that would create havoc in agricultural markets and result in great economic hardships for farmers and others at home and abroad.

The request to the CFTC was subsequently acted upon and trading was suspended at all regulated futures exchanges last Monday and Tuesday.

"The loss of the Soviet market will cost the U.S. about $2 billion in agricultural sales in 1980," Aves says.

"Agricultural exports are good for the U.S. economy and all Americans. We believe these six programs will save taxpayers millions of dollars in storage costs, will help U.S. soybean growers by re-selling the 45 million bushels originally sold to the Soviets, and help soybean growers in the long run by developing new or expanded soybean markets to replace the lost sales to the Soviets."

"The CCC purchases of grain and soybeans has helped the grain companies," he said.

"But this huge quantity of grain and soybeans that will cost more than $200 million per year to store still hangs over the farm markets and will hurt all farmers by lowering their prices," he said.

working, I have to help my cooperative."

Lee Brown gave the annual meeting delegate's report then gave results of the election of officers for the two locals and hauling committee members.

Elvin M. Rohrer, Jr. will serve as president for the Cochranville local with Charles Harris assisting as vice-president. Harry Troop was elected secretary-treasurer and delegates voted to office for that local were Harold Umble and Dennis Bush. Alternates are Richard Buckwalter and David M. King.

Oxford Local 1980 officers elected were president Edward Lawrie, vice-president Harold Bryson, secretary-treasurer Hoopes Yarnall and delegates Robert Mason, Willard Osborne and Joel Brown. Alternates for Oxford are Edward Lawrie, William Hostetter and William Shepherd. Leslie Walton, Cochranville, was elected as the District II hauling committee member.

The treasurer for Inter-State, Robert Dever was the guest speaker for the luncheon meeting. He presented slides of the construction and building site of the Holly Milk plant which was built jointly by Inter-State and Maryland Milk Producers Cooperative on a 52 acre site southwest of Harrisburg. With the initial cost to the two cooperatives of $8 million the plant has the potential to process surplus milk into powder.

The treasurer pin pointed a number of financial considerations affecting milk marketing, such as consumer advocate groups attempting to declassify milk products and lable artificial or substitute foods as dairy products. Increased hauling costs due to fuel costs increasing, support prices and tax laws all were topics in his report to the group.

Chester County Dairy Princess, Nadine Prange, also spoke to the membership and guests about her work in the promotional programs of last year.

Jan. 30 meeting to focus on taxes

ERIE — The Governor's Tax Commission is a little-known body of 17 people which has been holding virtually unheralded meetings around Pennsylvania to gather data on how taxes affect people and business.

The series of five hearings began in November in Philadelphia, followed by Pittsburgh and Harrisburg.

The hearing here on January 30 will focus directly on the impact of the tax system on rural Pennsylvania and farmers. It is the only hearing to be directed at agriculture. The meeting begins at 9:00 a.m. at the Erie School District Building, 511 Peach Street.

According to a spokesman for the commission, it was established to take testimony and then make recommendations for specific changes in the tax laws. Before those changes are presented to the Governor, the commission itself will function as 10 separate committees and an even larger number of task forces, none dealing specificially with agriculture.

Both the Pennsylvania Farmers Association and the Pennsylvania Grange will be at the Erie meeting to present testimony.

Anyone wishing to present oral or written testimony to the hearing in Erie can do so by contacting the commission's research director. He is. Prof. Robert Strauss, School of Urban and Public Affairs, 202 Margaret Morrison Hall, Carneigie-Mellon University, Pittsburgh, PA 15213.

Brief answers to short questions

Sheila's Shorts

By Sheila Miller

Now that Farm Show is over, it's hard to believe how fast that one week in January can fly by. Exhibitors and Farm Show managers are all ready looking toward the 1981 show. For anyone interested in participating in next year's largest show, here are some items to keep in mind.

For anyone who wants to show an animal, be it cattle, horses, sheep, or swine, the F.S. Commission has a limited time period for applying for entry. Normally, the County Extension agents are notified sometime around October that applications can be made. Notice also goes out to those people who exhibited in previous years, and the breed associations also find out when the sign up period begins.

Unfortunately, for those people who aren't in touch with their Extension office, breed association, or who never showed at the state's largest livestock show in year's past, finding out about the entry period is somewhat difficult. According to Charles Itle, Farm Show Director, they can call the commission office to get this information.

So, keep in mind, that next October is the time to get in touch if you want to have a chance at exhibiting an animal at the 1981 Farm Show. The time for sign-up is short, closing in November, so don't wait.

Once the Farm Show Commission accepts your application, it's time to check your health records to make sure your animals have the proper vaccinations and identification. The requirements vary for each type of animal, and there are minimum time periods before the show in which these shots have to be administered. The best check to insure that you have met all the requirements is to refer to the F.S. Premium List. This book spells out what is needed and by when.

Purebred animals need to have their registration certificates ready and with them throughout the show week. Show officials check time before assigning the show cards to the exhibitors.

When you bring your animals to the Farm Show building, either Friday or Saturday before the Show begins, an official of the state will be there to check them in. They will make sure the health papers are in order and the identification tags check out with their records. This is a protection for the exhibitors to make sure no animals are permitted into the barns with any health problems, and that the animals can be easily identified if they should get "lost".

And, before leaving the Farm Show on Friday afternoon, the exhibitor must get a dismissal slip from the Commission. Again, the state officials will be checking to make sure all the paperwork is complete.

During the week, the exhibitor has to keep the area around his entry's assigned space in clean order, so you had better be sure to take along a broom and a shovel. If you don't keep your "house" clean, the state will do it for you, for a set fee, of course.

It's a good idea to mark all of your equipment so that it can be easily identified. It seems that some brooms, forks, and shovels, along with brushes and combs gain the ability to walk away during the week long event.

And, stock up on a good sense of humor and a lot of patients and good sportsmanship. It's a trying week, and nerve-ends become frazzled with spectator crowds and pre-show jitters. But if your wear a smile and practice courtesy to everyone, you can come through the week with new friends and good memories.

beef are to register at the local ASC office between January 26 and February 6. Voting will take place later in February.

This time the order requires that 50% of those registering must vote, and the majority of those voting must favor the referendum.

This is a bit different than the referendum that was conducted and defeated in 1977.

We urge beef producers to study this program and participate in the registering and voting. It will be a much better indication of the desires of beef producers if a large number of folks participate in the program.

Take part and make your own opinions known.

TO RECOGNIZE FERTILIZER VALUES

Since the cost of commercial fertilizers seem to be on the rapid increase, other sources of fertilizer elements should be considered.

I'm thinking of farm manure and the value of legume sods in the crop rotation.

The 1980 Agronomy Guide gives a very good comparison of these fertilizer values.

With the amount of manure that is being applied to some of our livestock farms, it is quite possible that very little commercial fertilizer will be needed.

Alfalfa sod can add as much as 75 pounds of nitrogen per acre. This is one advantage to having legumes in the crop rotation.

A complete soil test will reveal the needs of each field. Then the needs can be provided by using farm manures, legume sods, or commercial fertilizer.

Careful handling and storage of manure will preserve many of these valuable fertilizer elements.

The hog, a Spotted Poland China x Duroc crossbred, was Steve's FFA project.

Steve has been a member of the Cloister Chapter for four years, and has always raised hogs as his projects.

In his last year in FFA, Steve was trying to match his older brother's record.

"My brother had the grand champion market hog in 1976. I decided it was this year or never to catch up with him, but I came up short," he said.

But Steve left the Farm Show with his first reserve championship and a nice sum of money from Hatfield Packing Co.

Steve said he is planning to put the money toward his goal of someday owning his own hog farm. He already has close to ten crossbred sows on his dad's farm near Ephrata.

Steve has also tried his hand at showing sheep, mostly market wethers. But, he said, "I'd pick pork over lamb any day."

When asked if he had named his market hog, Steve concluded," You name steers — I never bother naming hogs."

Barb Herr, Narvon, pinned a flower on her reserve champion light heavyweight Junior Market lamb's halter before putting him on the auction block to be sold.

UNIPEL® 13-34-10
fertilizer can get your corn crop off to a super start:
It has a high concentration of water-soluble Phosphorus that gets to young seedlings quickly Helps plants establish a good root system — the starting point for top yields Its quick-acting and long-lasting Nitrogen team up to feed the young plants for full yield potential, continually from sprouting to harvest.
This is the Starter Special that corn growers know from good experience. It's highly effective as a banded starter. And it's SAFE. . no chance of ammonia damage to tender, young seedlings when used as a "pop up" and applied directly with the seed at 50 lbs./acre.
How can we fit UNIPEL 13-34-10 into your corn fertility program?

HOW DID YOU HARVEST YOUR WET GRAIN THIS FALL?

Harold Knechel Family Farm, 471 Indian Creek Road, Harleysville, PA 19438

HERE'S HOW HE SOLVED IT!!

The first corn combined was 120-day seed, planted from the 19th to the 26th of June because of the extremely wet spring. The corn constituted the first ¼ of a 2060 HARVESTORE® Structure. Harold hired a self-propelled custom combine and the conditions were so wet that the combine had to stay on the rows to stabilize. The wheels of this four-row combine just matched Harold's first and fourth rows. During the time his corn was harvested this same machine was unable to harvest soybeans due to wet conditions. This 120-day corn was harvested when it had frozen at the dent stage and moisture was estimated at about 42%. (In order to harvest this corn they had to speed up the cylinder, open up the concave, and remove the lower screen in order to get all of the cob.) This is the first year that Harold has gone to High Moisture Ground Ear Corn and he did it for two reasons: (1) Incorporate the cob in order to decrease to the top moisture content and (2) To get the most out of his land because of increased costs of fertilizer, etc. Harold was very happy to get his corn in when he did and he believes that including the cob, adding about 3% dry oats to the mixture, and using dry ice after each filling to eliminate existing oxygen in the HARVESTORE® were the most important factors in obtaining an excellent quality feed with such high moisture using the HARVESTORE® System.

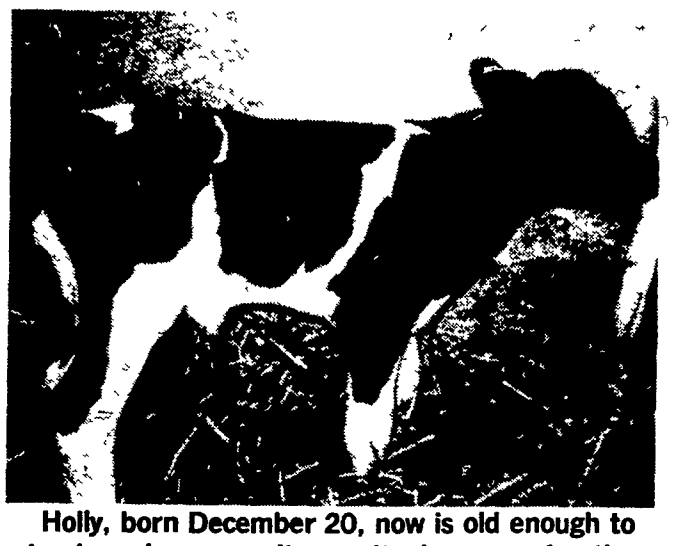
Premature calf beats odds, survives, grows

ANNVILLE — It's rough to start life as a calf when you come from your mother weighing only 20 pounds.

Most runts don't stand a chance without some outside help. And a 20 pound calf is a runt in anyone's book.

On December 20, 1979 Lynnacres Astro Faith gave birth to a heifer calf that barely tipped the scales at 20 pounds. Faith was bred to Will-Tri-Frans Legacy, a bull with a PD of 1000 pounds.



Holly, born December 20, now is old enough to stand on her own. It wasn't always so for the prematurely born calf.

Tammy Batz took her turns bottle feeding a heifer calf which was not strong enough to nurse from the mother.

In most cases the veterinarian would simply shake his head and go on down the line to the next maternity stall to do his best for a calf which stood half a chance of survival.

The Richard Batz family knew the story.

This dairying family from R 2 Annville milks 30 cows and tends 122 acres of cropland.

Richard Batz said he never likes to lose any calf — he tries to save them all. It's important to save calves when you've been farming on your own for just about a year.

Plus it was Christmas time. And losing such a pitiful little calf was neither a good way to end a decade nor a good way to begin one.

The Batz's children, Tammy and Michael, sort of took to the little runt. It wouldn't do to let it die.

So, Richard Batz and his wife put the calf into a calf hutch and placed a heat lamp over her.

They fed her with a baby bottle because she was unable to drink from a normal calf nurser.

At first the tiny calf would drink only eight ounces or less at a feeding. It hardly seemed worth the trouble for the first feeding or two. At that rate, the calf was not taking enough nutrients to survive.

But the Batz family persisted. They started her out on colostrum from the cow.

Each day the heifer would drink a bit more. As the days went on she began to demand four or five eight-ounce bottles at each feeding.

Young Tammy and Michael enjoyed feeding and taking care of the calf. They named her Holly. Somehow, the tiny calf seemed more their size and they identified with her.

For two weeks, Holly survived on colostrum from her dam.

Finally, just after New Year's day, the calf began to take food out of a bucket.

While Holly was nowhere near as big as a normal calf, she was showing signs of improvement.

Holly, who weighed 61 pounds on Tuesday, still is about 20 pounds lighter than a normal heifer calf.

But her activity has picked up. As a three week old she is on her own and improving every day.

Richard Batz said he hopes Holly will make it as a replacement heifer for the family herd.

The little heifer has made it this far. Batz has registered her with the Holstein Association. So it appears her future is well mapped out.

What else could a Holstein ask: papers; a spot in the milking string; and someday, perhaps, the place of honor next to the barn door. — CH

Uppers and Downers

When production goes up the price goes down.

It's not always quite that simple, but it just about describes the situation in Order 2 for December.

You increased production 50 million pounds, or nearly 6.5 percent over November, and cut your blend price by three percent to $12.25 for December. That was 37 cents less than November and only 83 cents better than a year ago.

Last month I pointed out that your monthly differences between 1978 and 1979 had dropped from a high of $1.40 last Spring to $1.08 in November. Now it's 83 cents in December and largely because of increasing production that isn't matched by increasing Class I sales. So you get a lower blend.

Your Class I sales were about the same in November and December, but with the increased production, your Class I utilization dropped from 51.2 percent in November to 47.8 last month.

Your class prices were about the same each month, with the Class I price down seven cents and the Class II price up seven cents. The biggest difference was that 29 cents Louisville Plan payment in November that you didn't get in December.

Taking that into account your blend price dropped less than one percent from November.

Maybe that's the best thing we can say about the December blend after a 6.5 percent increase in production.

New Hope

The dairy committee of the Pennsylvania State Grange, meeting during Farm Show week in Harrisburg, brought the support of that organization to the proposal of the Pennsylvania Dairy Cooperatives for Milk Security.

This was a change in their policy set at their annual meeting in Williamsport last summer; and along with the Pennsylvania Farmers Association brings the two largest farm organizations in the state behind the milk marketing cooperatives plan for the establishment of a security fund.

Originally, the Grange had favored a fund financed equally by producers and dealers, each contributing one cent a hundredweight, and included cooperatives that process their members' milk.

According to Feryl Treichler of Kutztown, chairman, the Grange committee listened to a lot of different points of view from farmers, dealers, legislators, the administration and cooperatives before reaching a decision. And, more work still remains to be done among rank and file farmers before any plan can succeed in the legislature.

Generally, however, this narrows the field down to two proposals, one backed by the farm organizations and the cooperatives and one by the administration, but both of them funded by dealer contributions. The former is at two cents a hundred with co-ops exempt. The administration plan is at one cent a hundred with co-ops contributing voluntarily if the members choose to participate.

Thus the greatest consensus ever demonstrated by farm organizations and cooperatives in Pennsylvania has brought new hope for success in establishing a security fund for dairymen.

As everyone agrees, there is still a lot of work to be done in the administration and the legislature as well as among farmers, dealers and consumers. But never before have the ranks been tighter in all the past efforts made toward this goal.

Farm Show Update

HARRISBURG — Frank Darcey's Spring Bottom Farm of Fairfield, Adams County, accumulated points to earn the Premier Exhibitor's plaque in the Open Polled Hereford show at the 64th Farm Show.

Last week's show results incorrectly recorded Stockdale Hereford Farm as the premier exhibitor.

Also, the champion Landrace bred gilt, owned by Donald Lake of Big Cove Tannery, farrowed a litter of eleven pigs. Under the circumstances, the gilt was left with just six piglets instead of seven as recorded in last week's paper.

USDA announces changes to offset Carter embargo

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Acting Secretary of Agriculture Jim Williams Monday announced a series of actions designed to fully offset the potential decline in farm prices and income.

These actions, approved by President Carter, were taken to fulfill the President's directive to insure that the burden of the suspension on agricultural deliveries to the Soviet Union will not fall unfairly on farmers.

Effective immediately, the U.S. Department of Agriculture will: increase the wheat loan price from $2.35 to $2.50 a bushel; increase the corn loan price from $2.00 to $2.10 a bushel with comparable increases in loan prices for the other feed grains; increase the reserve release price from $3.29 to $3.75 a bushel for wheat - the reserve call price from $4.11 to $4.63 a bushel for wheat — representing 185 percent of the new loan price; increase the reserve release price from $2.50 to $2.63 a bushel for corn — representing 125 percent of the new loan price; increse the reserve call price from 2.80 to $3.05 a bushel for corn — representing 145 percent of the new loan; increase the reserve release and call prices for the other feed grains comparable to corn; waive first year interest costs for the next 13 million tons (512 million bushels) of corn entering the reserve; increase reserve storage payments from 25 to 26½ cents a bushel for all reserve commodities except oats, which is increased from 19 to 20 cents a bushel.

As the Vice President announced yesterday, the Department will also: purchase 4 million tons (150 million bushels) of wheat, including the assumption of the contractual obligation on up to 3.7 million tons (135 million bushels) that will not be shipped to the Soviet Union; offer to assume the contractual obligation on up to 10.0 million tons (395 million bushels) of corn;

A decision on a paid diversion program for 1980 crop grains will be made at a later date. "We are convinced these actions will protect producers, but if legislation to complement them is necessary, we will propose it," Williams said.

Williams said the increase in budget outlays for the entire package for fiscal years 1980 and 1981 is estimated at $2.5 to $3.0 billion.

Fulton Grange reports meeting activities

OAKRYN — Fulton Grange No. 66 met in regular session January 14, 8 p.m. at their hall here in Lancaster County.

The Master, Thomas C. Galbreath, presided at the business session. The Charter was draped in memory of Mrs. Clyde McSparran.

Mrs. Howard Miller reported that Oakryn Senior Citizens would be taking a bus trip to Hershey January 16 to see the Ice Capades. Peggy Galbreath reported twenty-four Grangers went Christmas carolling Dec. 22nd to nine homes.

They returned to the Grange hall where several others joined in refreshments and Santa presented everyone with a gift. The hall was replete with a beautifully decorated Christmas tree.

The Secretary, Peggy Galbreath, announced the State Grange regional conferences for Subordinate and Pomona Grange officers and committee chairmen. The ones nearst for Lancaster Co. Grangers to attend will be held February 23rd at Keystone Grange, Trappe, Montgomery Co. and February 24th at Valley Grange, Lewisberry, York Co.

Pomona Master, Jesse Wood, announced the Lancaster County Pomona Grange No. 71 will hold their quarterly meeting Saturday, Jan. 19, at Fulton Grange Hall. There will be a covered dish supper at 7 p.m.

Everyone should bring a meat dish and another dish as well as their own place setting. The committee will furnish rolls, butter and beverage. The meeting will convene at 8 p.m. when a memorial service will be held and the new officers will be installed.

Mrs. Howard W. Miller Jr., Lecturer, presented the program. Mrs. Donald McCallin read a poem "A New Year's Meditation."

Mrs. Miller conducted a quiz on January birthdays of U.S. presidents, military men, inventors and literary men. She gave an interesting story about Benjamin Franklin whose birthday was January 17.

Arba Henry, head of the Solanco High School Agriculture Dept., will bring several of his students who attended the National FFA convention in Kansas City last fall to the next Grange meeting January 28. They will tell about their experiences.

The young married committee will present the program at the February 11th meeting.

Pork producers announce county banquet

The Lancaster County Pork Producers Association announces their annual Pork Producers Banquet scheduled for February 8 at the Harvest Drive Restaurant, beginning at 6:30 p.m. Special awards will be presented to outstanding FFA swine production students and a[illegible] producers.

Representative Robert Walker will be the evening's speaker. All Lancaster County pork producers are invited to attend.

Tickets are available from: Gary Dean, R1 Strasburg; John R. Groff, 1218 Lampeter Road; and John Lindenlauf, RD2 Coatesville. Also, John Henkel, R1 Strasburg or Mark Nestleroth, R5 Manheim. The cost is $7.50.

Talmadge asks support of fuels bill

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Senator Herman E. Talmadge, chairman of the U.S. Senate Committee on Agriculture, Nutrition and Forestry, has asked President Carter to support his agricultural and forestry biomass fuels program, which is being considered as part of the overall energy bill now pending in a House-Senate Conference Committee.

In a letter to the President released Wednesday, Talmadge said his proposal — jointly sponsored by 36 members of the Senate — could help ease the economic impact on farmers of the Russian grain embargo as well as move the nation quickly toward energy independence.

Talmadge told the President that on-farm and small-scale production of alternative energy from farm and forestry productions "offers one of the most practicable and least costly ways of filling the energy gap in the rural United States."

At the same time, Talmadge said the program could help stabilize farm prices and dispose "in the near future" of excess stocks of grains resulting from the President's embargo of future grain shipments to Russia

"Conversion of grain into energy holds great potential as a way to respond to the challenge posed by sharp curtailments of foreign markets — to the benefit of both U.S. energy consumers and farmers," Talmadge told the President.

Talmadge's proposal would provide $1.4 billion annually in loans, loan guarantees, grants, and appropriations authority to assist in the development of on-farm and small-scale commercial projects to produce alternative energy. The program would be administered by the U.S. Department of Agriculture in coordination with the Department of Energy.

Talmadge introduced the bill last September with 35 Senate co-sponsors. It was added, in modified form, as a separate part of the Senate version of the overall energy legislation, now in Conference with the House.

Talmadge said his proposal would not duplicate other provisions of the energy bill providing for large-scale alcohol energy production under DOE jurisdiction. He pointed out that his legislation is more far-reaching than what is popularly known as "gasohol" program.

"Although title II would facilitate the production of alcohol at on-farm and small- and intermediate-scale facilities, it is not an alcohol program per se, as is title III. It establishes a comprehensive rural energy program uniquely designed to enable farmers and rural citizens to produce and use a wide variety of alternative energy products from agricultural and forest biomass and residues and conserve the energy used on farms and in rural households."

The energy legislation is one of the high priority items before the Congress when it reconvenes on January 22.

Guernsey cows make high records

PETERBOROUGH, N.H. — Piney Lane Polly P Elanaga a four year, 10 month old Registered Guernsey cow, owned by Mervin K. Myers, has completed an official DHIR actual production record of 17,800 pounds of milk and 829 pounds of butterfat, in 305 days, two times a day milking, according to The American Guernsey Cattle Club.

Lindenhof W Bart Terrie a two year, 11 month old Registered Guernsey cow, owned by K. D. Linde, Oxford, has completed an official DHIR actual production record of 15,290 pounds of milk and 726 pounds of butterfat, in 300 days, two times a day milking, according to Guernsey Club.

Guernsey milk is world famous for its high protein, delicious flavor and golden yellow color.

Both testing programs were supervised by Penn State University, University Park, PA.

Teaford Angus head

COLLEGEVILLE — An advisory board of junior members of the American Angus Association from several northeastern states met recently to establish a new regional organization, the Northeast Junior Angus Association.

Elected officers of the new association were: president Ted Teaford, Collegeville, Pennsylvania; vice-president Dale Rains, Mercer, Pennsylvania; secretary Jennifer Smalstig, Millbrook, New York; and treasurer Susan Holston, Derwood, Maryland.

Barbara Smalstig from Millbrook, New York, and Chip Russell, Stevensburg, Virginia, were chosen as advisors.

The Association's goal is to unite efforts in planning educational activities and promoting Angus cattle throughout several northeastern states.

Plans were made for a Northeast Preview Show slated for July 4-5, 1980. Also, plans for a bus tour in July to the National Junior Heifer Show and annual meeting in Wichita, Kansas, were announced.

This transportation will be provided for delegates, representatives and showmanship contestants, and educational stops will be made along the way.

The advisory board will meet again in March.

How no-till farming keeps plantings timely

HUNT VALLEY, Md. — No-tillage farming can be successful on any northeastern dairy farm where the chief crops are corn, oats, and alfalfa, declared Penn State Agronomist Bill McClellan. He addressed nearly 1000 farmers attending the Sixth Annual Mid-Atlantic No-Till Conference.

He urged farmers to "take advantage of what is already known about a complete no-tillage system." No-till farming replaces plowing with planters having soil-cutting disks or coulters which prepare a narrow strip for placing the seed.

McClellan reported the chief advantages of no-till farming are control of erosion, the ability to plant instead of using time for tillage, and minimum labor and fuel.

Eastern farmers have proved, he said, that they can grow no-tillage corn, soybeans, forage crops, and small grains.

Timeliness of no-tillage planting can be of utmost benefit to farmers, he pointed out.

No-till planting prevents delays in seeding fields. In conventional planting, however, delays due to weather and soil conditions can disrupt the entire planting operation.

Moreover, soil conditions in no-till fields often allow harvesting when conventionally tilled fields will not support heavy harvesting equipment, McClellan noted.

Farmers attended from Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware, New Jersey, Virginia, and West Virginia. The Mid-Atlantic No-Till Conference is sponsored annually by the Extension Services of the land-grant universities in the six Mid-Atlantic states.

Co-sponsorship and financial support come from related agribusiness firms serving the Mid-Atlantic area.

In no-till farming, only herbicides are needed for weed control, McClellan stated. A corn crop can be followed with no-tillage oats the succeeding year. Herbicides with short-term residues must be used on the corn field to prevent injury to oats.

After removing oats for grain and harvesting the straw, the farmer can put in a no-till alfalfa seeding in the oats stubble. Yields from a corn-oats-alfalfa rotation in a no-till system are equal to yields with conventional tillage, it was pointed out.

John H. Koons, R2 Waynesboro, described his experiences with no-tillage on a dairy farm. He said the time and labor saved in growing no-tillage corn has made it possible for him to increase his acreage considerably and has provided much added income without creating any more work.

"All corn on our farm is planted no-till and we have been planting no-till for eight years," he claimed. "The biggest advantage no-tillage has given us is the ability to add 300 acres of rented ground for producing corn and 400 acres of custom planting.

"This provides added income without greatly increasing our time and labor beyond that needed eight years ago to plant 100 acres in the conventional way," Koons said.

He said 90 per cent of his manure is handled as liquid. He belives that liquid manure and no-tillage corn "go hand in hand." The 100-acre home farm is grown to silage corn and these fields get the manure.

All of Koon's silage corn fields are seeded to rye cover crops after the corn is harvested and removed. The rye is killed in the spring with herbicides and then corn is planted.

"It is important that corn planter soil-cutting disks or coulters cut through the manure crust to allow air and sunlight to penetrate down to the soil where the corn is germinating. If this is done properly, germination and a good stand of seedlings are assured," he stated.

He also adds a ton or more of lime per acre to all corn ground each year, as long as time and weather conditions permit. This prevents the soil from becoming acid and allows herbicides to control weeds effectively.

Maryland schedules ag week activities

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — "Maryland Agriculture: Food and Energy for People" has been selected as the slogan for the 1980 Maryland Agricultural Week.

The slogan, suggested by Kendra Buckel, was chosen from approximately 100 entries submitted. Miss Buckel is with the Montgomery County Extension Service.

This year's "Ag Week" will begin Monday, February 4 at Salisbury Mall in Wicomico County. Traveling agricultural displays will be set up in the local malls of five additional Maryland counties on the following dates:

Prince Georges County at Laurel Centre – Feb. 11-16.

Baltimore County at Westview Mall – Feb. 18-23.

Washington County at Valley Mall – Feb. 25 - March 1.

Frederick County at Fredericktowne Mall – March 3-8.

Montgomery County at Montgomery Mall – March 10-15.

The public is invited to view the displays free of charge. The purpose of the six-week tour is to pass information from food producers to consumers about the role agriculture plays in today's world.

Chairwoman for the 1980 Ag Week program is Connie Parvis of Delmarva Poultry Industry Inc. Committee chairmen include Robert E. Blades of Bayshore Foods in Easton, finance; Jack I. Matthews of the Maryland Farm Bureau, dinner; Roy D. Porter of the Maryland Extension Service, exhibits; and Susie J. Richburg of Maryland Cooperative Milk Producers in Baltimore, publicity.

The 11-year-old activity is sponsored by the members of Maryland's agriculture industry. In addition to the small exhibits, the traditional legislative banquet will be conducted the second week of February.

Those wishing to offer ideas for or assistance during Ag Week should direct correspondence to Maryland Ag Week Committee, c/o Maryland Agricultural Commission, Parole Plaza Office Building, Annapolis, Md., 21401 or contact local Extension agents in the participating counties.

Corny fuel this winter

Corncobs?!

"Well, they're inexpensive, renewable, require no sawing or splitting, produce fewer ashes and provide a cleaner fire than wood does," claims James Pastoret, wood utilization specialist at the University of Missouri.

"Of course, they produce a fire that requires more frequent attention because they burn more rapidly. And since fuel supply is not as dense, storage can be a problem.

"Corncobs burn unevenly and very hot if you chuck the box full," he said. "That could mean a chimney fire

"But there is no reason you can't use corncobs as fuel. Just be careful"

Delmarva soybean meeting to run February 14

OCEAN CITY, Md. — "The Bountiful Bean" will be the main theme of the 14th Delmarva Soybean Meeting scheduled for Thursday, February 14, 1980 at the Ocean City Convention Hall, Ocean City, Maryland.

The program will get underway at 9:30 a.m.

With recent world developments, the importance of grain in world affairs is again felt. Soybeans also plan an important role in world trade and Dale Hathaway, Undersecretary for International Affairs and Commodity Programs, United States Department of Agriculture will be on hand to speak on "The Future for the U.S. and World Soybean Trade."

Ken L. Bader, Chief Executive Officer, American Soybean Association, St. Louis, Missouri, will also address the world situation with "Foreign Markets Now and for the Future."

In addition to world trade, promotion within the United States is also important.

Leon Schmick will discuss "The Maryland Soybean Checkoff and How it will Affect Maryland's Farmers." Schmick is Chairman, Soybean Promotion Board for Maryland.

While marketing is an important aspect of profitable soybean production, proper cultural practices are important in attaining top yields.

James Dunphy, Associate Professor, Soybean Production, North Carolina State University, Raleigh, North Carolina, will speak on soybean row spacing and plant interaction.

A chemical update will be given by Lee Hellmann, Extension Specialist, Entomology, University of Maryland and Henry Wilson, Virginia Truck and Ornamentals Research Station, Painter, Virginia.

With the increasing use of chemicals by growers, safety should always be taken into account when considering the use of these products.

Two agricultural engineering specialists will be on hand to discuss the topic "Watch your LD 50". The specialists are Ron Jester, University of Delaware and Gary L. Smith, University of Maryland.

Exhibits, coffee and donuts will be available at 8:30 a.m. The program will get underway at 9:30 a.m. with a welcome from Paul Gunther, Extension Agent, Queen Anne's County and Chairman of the 14th Delmarva Soybean meeting.

Meril L. Dunn, Valliant Fertilizer Company, Laurel and James M. McFadden, Chevron Chemical Company, Chestertown, will preside.

Tickets are available for the luncheon at local agribusiness or local extension offices. For further information, contact a Delaware or Maryland local extension agent.

N.J. growers to vote on 1 cent soybean checkoff

TRENTON, N.J. — Soybean growers in the Garden State this week began to receive ballots to vote for or against the proposed state soybean checkoff.

The ballots were placed in the mail Monday night since Tuesday was a state holiday.

Growers will have 60 days, or until March 15, to vote on the proposal.

On Thursday there was insufficient response to determine any trend at all, according to John Repko of the New Jersey Agriculture Department's bureau of markets.

Under the provisions of the referendum, one cent per bushel will be deducted automatically at the first point of sale of any soybeans marketed in New Jersey.

In most cases this will be when the farmer moves beans to the mill.

The funds, according to the New Jersey Department of Agriculture, are to be used only for market development, research, and educational programs for soybeans.

The referendum was requested by a newly formed group, the New Jersey Chapter of the Mid-Atlantic Soybean Association.

Approval for the referendum will be based on the California plan.

Under that method of voting, the checkoff program will begin if it is approved by 65 percent of farmers voting who represent 51 percent of state soybean production; or, 51 percent of those voting approve and represent 65 percent of the production of those voting.

If the growers in the state respond with a positive vote, the State Agriculture Board will appoint members to the State Soybean Association advisory board.

The soybean board will consist of 11 members. Six are to be soybean producers, two soybean handlers or dealers, one soybean processor, the dean of Rutgers Cook College of Agriculture, and the New Jersey Secretary of Agriculture.

This advisory board will have the final say in allocation of the funds collected through the soybean checkoff.

Soybeans are the number one cash crop and the number one export crop in the state.

The N.J. Ag Department's marketing division said it estimates the checkoff will collect about $60,000 based on last year's production in the state and a checkoff rate of a penny per bushel.

The 1979 crop, valued at $42 million, was planted on 210,000 acres including full-season and double-cropped soybeans.

New Jersey growers were reminded that more than 460,000 soybean growers in 22 other states currently are participating in soybean checkoff programs.

Maryland was among states to approve a checkoff recently.

Maryland will begin its program on April 1, collecting one cent per bushel soybeans produced.

The program there was approved by a majority of growers in a referendum held last year.

New Jersey, like Maryland, is asking growers to contribute a penny per bushel.

Of the 21 states now participating in a checkoff for soybeans, 16 require a one-half cent contribution, the remainder a full cent.

Farmers who do not wish to participate in the soybean checkoff can request in writing a refund of money contributed.

Several state farmer organizations have come out in favor of the soybean referendum. — CH

Harkin has own ideas to protect U.S. farmers

WASHINGTON, D.C. — U.S. Representative Tom Harkin of Iowa said President Carter's efforts to protect American farmers from financial hardship caused by the Soviet grain embargo, are "inadequate".

He has proposed several administrative and legislative actions which he said would result in "more meaningful and much more adequate protection" for the American farmer.

Harkin is a member of the U.S. House Agriculture Committee. His comments and plan were contained in a letter Harkin sent to the President Friday.

In the letter Harkin called on the President to:

Announce a paid acreage diversion program with sufficient incentives to reduce 1980 feed grain production by 10 to 20 percent.

Raise the corn loan rate for at least 90 days to the price received by farmers prior to the embargo announcement.

Direct the Farmers Home Administration and the Small Business Administration to defer loan payments for farmers who have not sold grain until an orderly marketing plan can be agreed upon with the farmer.

Harkin also asked the President to support legislation he intends to introduce when Congress reconvenes January 22 to:

Extend and expand authorization for the FmHA Economic Emergency loan program due to expire on May 15, 1980.

To encourage the construction of more on-farm storage, reduce the interest rate on ASCA storage facility loans from the current 10.5 percent to five percent for at least the next year.

Schuylkill names pair to extension staff

SCHUYLKILL HAVEN — Judith L. Keefer has been appointed to Penn State's Extension Service staff as an assistant extension agent and assigned to Schuylkill County, effective January 2.

Thomas B. King, Penn State associate dean for extension, points out that Miss Keefer is conducting educational 4-H youth programs in Schuylkill County.

A native of Rimersburg, she received a bachelor of science in education degree from Indiana University of Pennsylvania in 1976. She has done graduate work in counseling and guidance at Slippery Rock State College.

In college, Miss Keefer was a member of Kappa Delta Sorority.

Prior to her appointment to the Extension Service staff, she was a teacher in the Butler Area School District and Baltimore County Schools. She was also a youth assistant with the Clarion County Extension Service.

Her parents, Mr and Mrs Frank Keefer, reside at R2 Rimersburg.

Craig R. Morgan joined the Schuylkill County staff as an Extension Program Assistant primarily in the field of 4-H and youth oriented programs.

A native of the Pine Grove area, Craig received a bachelor of science degree in environmental resource management from Penn State in 1977.

Prior to joining the Extension Staff, he was employed by the Schuylkill Conservation District as an environmental education coordinator.

Craig is married to the former Ruthan Wetzel and they reside at Ravine.

In Schuylkill County, the pair is associated with County Extension Director J. Allan Shoener with offices on the Penn State Schuylkill Campus.

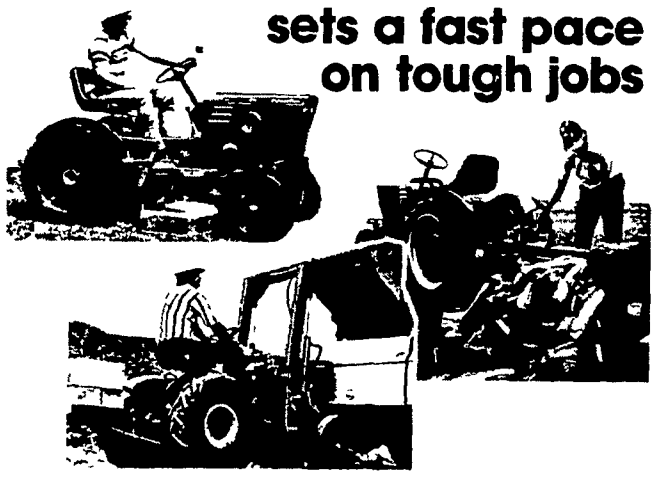
POWER KING

sets a fast pace on tough jobs



Big acreage heavy loads rough going — Power King carries through without missing a beat The reason? 12 14 16 and 18 hp engines applied through Power King s all-gear drive deliver almost 100% power to the big drive wheels That s why you move right along with a 60" mower, load fast with a ⅓ ton bucket, bulldoze, clear a 48" path of snow in a hurry

American-built Power King is a machine, not a toy! Automotive clutch, transmission, differential, 1½" axles for example

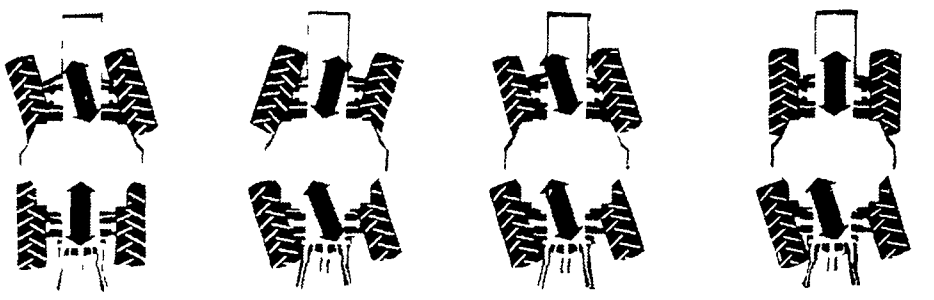
4 WAY STEER- Innovation Through Specialization



FRONT wheel steering Automotive style control Ideal for row crops most field work road travel

COORDINATED steering Rear wheels and front wheels are electronically coordinated for sharp full power turning

CRAB steering counteracts implement drift on sidehills Controls implement overlap Makes four tracks (eight with duals) for maximum traction

REAR wheel steering with electronic rocker switch "fine tuning" makes implement hook ups much easier Great for maneuvering around yards and buildings

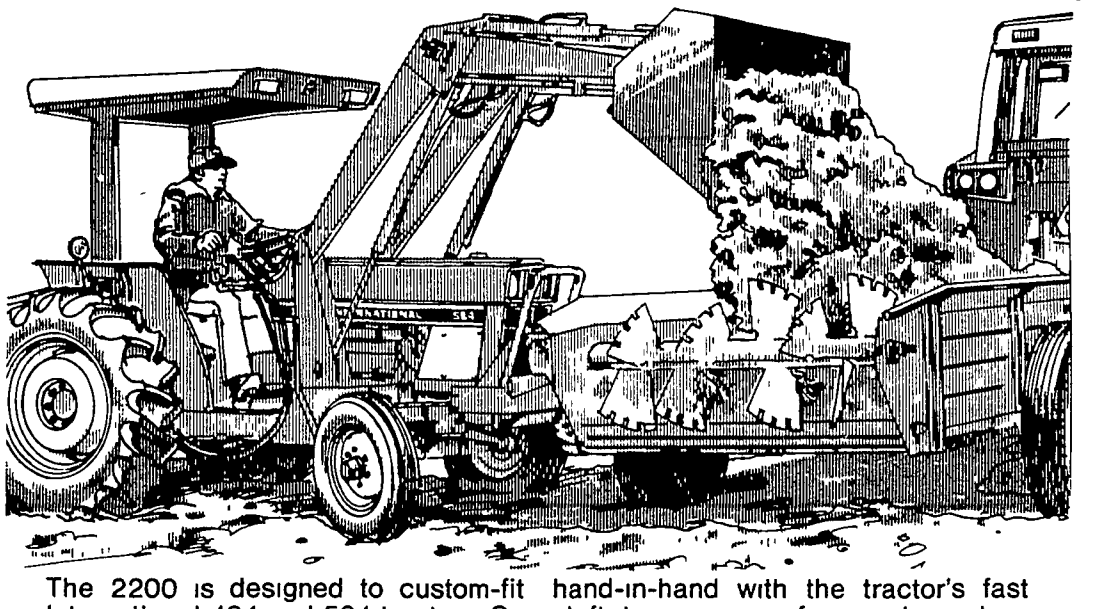
International 2200 Loader. Low-cost way to move "mountains" of material!



The 2200 is designed to custom-fit International 484 and 584 tractors So you can mount it and dismount it in a matter of minutes, making your tractor available for other jobs at any time. And when it comes to fast work, the 2200 is hard to beat. It takes full advantage of the fast-acting hydraulic system of the tractor, and it works hand-in-hand with the tractor's fast shift transmission for quick cycling. You can move into big loading jobs and finish them in less time than you would with a larger, more clumsy outfit.

So don't let loading be a costly bottleneck in your operation Break the bottleneck and save money to boot—with the IH 2200 economy loader
- Saves you money on original investment
- Breakout force of 2500 pounds.
- Lift capacity of 1700 pounds.
- Loading height of 9 feet.
- Forks, buckets, attachments available.

Finance plans available.

Waiver of Finance Until March 1, 1980 Available On This Unit If Purchased By January 31.

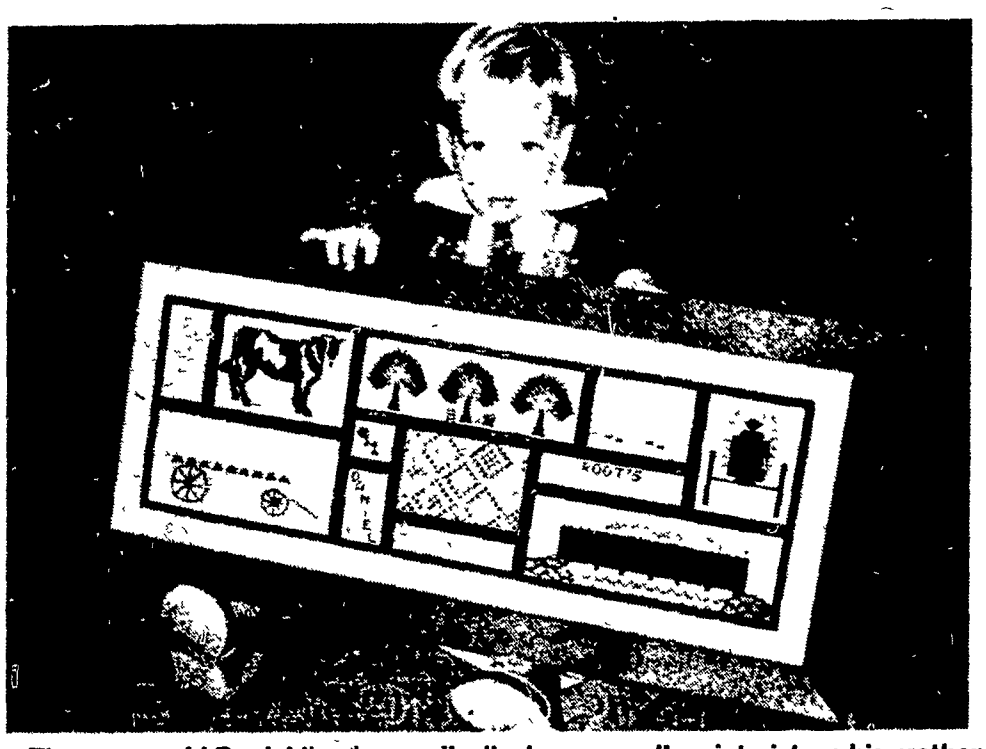
Needleworkers earn ribbons at Farm Show



Three-year-old Daniel Ibach proudly displays a needlepoint picture his mother created for him for this third birthday. His mother won third place at the Farm Show for her efforts.

Mr. and Mrs. Landis Metzler recently celebrated their 50th wedding a niversary.

Mrs. Dennis Ibach, 156 Grant Street, Manheim, enjoys doing needlework which is personalized and carries special meaning. The picture she created for her three-year-old son's birthday is not only special for him; it won her a third place at the Pennsylvania Farm Show last week.

It was Mary Ann Ibach's second year to exhibit at the Farm Show, and she won third place with her needlepoint picture which depicted different scenes from Lancaster County. Although she is not from the country, Mary Ann's work captured the essence of Lancaster County agriculture.

Mary Ann said she decided to exhibit at the Farm Show because "I always did well at the Manheim Farm Show. My Dad always took me to Harrisburg as a child, so I decided to find out how to enter because I thought it would be nice to try."

She called the extension office, got a Farm Show booklet with rules and regulations, and then submitted her needlepoint through the Extension office.

The needlepoint, which was designed by the Ellen Franklin Shop in Lancaster, features several distinctions which make it personal for Mary Ann's son Daniel. Featured in the picture are an ear of corn, a Conestoga wagon, an Amish buggy, a Holstein cow, a pig, an apple tree, a Lancaster County Red Rose, a quilt, a covered bridge and some chicks.

It also has Daniel's name and age, as well as a sign which says "Roots Country Auction," one of Daniel's favorite places to visit. To date it, Mary Ann added her name, Lancaster County and the date. The effect is a lovely memento for Daniel who may only appreciate it in years to come.

Mary Ann relates, however, that Daniel wasn't too keen on giving it up to the Farm Show competition. When he visited the Farm Show, he spied the needlepoint and said, "My picture, my picture."

She said the judges comments included "excellent workmanship and attractive frame." Although she had someone make

Mrs. Metzler's blue ribbons from local fairs hang on the wall of her room at Landis homes, next to a painting she did of the Hunsicker bridge.

Two of her earlier projects were afghans made in the afghan stitch. Here Mary Ann poses between the two creations which were given away as gifts.

Ella Mae Metzler

Lancaster rose pattern quilt

"It's like a test at school, to see whether you can do as well as other people," Mrs. Landis L. Metzler said as she talked about the fourth place ribbon she won at the Pennsylvania Farm Show last week.

For Mrs. Metzler, the ribbon was an especially sweet accomplishment because she has become blind since the quilt top was completed in the Lancaster County Rose pattern. Furthermore, Ella Mae is 70 and her quilt was in competition with 100 others. She has had major surgery several times and now lives at Landis Homes Retirement Community, R3 Lititz.

The quilt top, which was accomplished while she was still sighted, is fashioned in a blue and cream colored fabric. It won first place ribbons at the Manheim Fair and West Lampeter Fair earlier in the Fall. It was after her early successes that she was persuaded to enter into the Farm Show competition.

Mrs. Metzler, who is an accomplished seamstress, said she has always enjoyed entering her sewing at local fairs. She has entered skirts she made for her daughters, dresses for herself, shirts for her husband, and even coats. "I entered several things every year. I have a box full of ribbons."

When she began making dolls in a ceramics class, she made doll clothes for them and entered them in competition. She says, "I always got a blue ribbon."

About her Farm Show quilt she said, "It is the first quilt I made except for some crib quilts." She then recalled that she had made patchwork quilt tops before she was married, which her grandmother quilted for her.

What Mrs. Metzler did most was sewing for other people. "I made wedding gowns and children's clothing," she said. Her husband, obviously proud of her accomplishments, added, "She made over 1,000 dresses. She was a wonderful seamstress."

Ella Mae recalls that she was apprenticed to a dressmaker at 15, and following her graduation from Hempfield High School in 1928, she studied at a studio in Lancaster to learn to draft patterns.

The mother of three, Ella Mae says she sewed when her children were small, but only "one at a a time." There were seven years between each child. Her children are Melvin, Manheim R7; Mrs. Ervin Martin, East Petersburg; and Mrs. Lloyd Goss, East Petersburg. Mrs. Metzler has four grandchildren.

The Metzlers lived on a farm at Manheim R7 on Metzler Road, west of East Petersburg, and, along with sewing for others, Mrs. Metzler drove the tractor the frame, Mary Ann did the actual work of framing. She said, " I tried a new technique. I used layers of cheescloth to achieve a puffy look."

Mary Ann Ibach

When asked how long it took her to complete the design, Mary Ann said with a laugh, "a lot of naps." Needlepoint takes a lot of concentration." She said she began it last May, but took off over the summer for canning and freezing.

Last year at the Farm Show Mary Ann took a first place with a needlepoint bell pull which she had designed as a wedding gift for her brother and sister-in-law. It featured all the information about the wedding, and on the back side it had pertinent information about its creation.

Needlepoint is not Mary Ann's only interest. She also crotchets, knits and does counted cross-stitch.

She said, "I really started knitting in 1966. I went to the hospital, got snowed in and had nothing to do. When I went back in April I took knitting with me. I started doing it, and never took classes and no one taught me."

She said in 1970 she was sick and wasn't working so she did more needlework. At that point she did three beautiful afghans in the afghan stitch, with a design worked in cross-stitch.

About her needlework, Mary Ann says she usually has several projects going at once and adds, "I'd like to get at it every day, but I don't always so it. Each year I plan to make Daniel something for his birthday, and I make some of my Christmas gifts. This year I just happened to see some wreaths, and I made five and gave four of them away."

Mary Ann added, "I always have things in my mind. I have very few things in my own home that I've done - I've given almost everything away."

Although she says that needlework is her favorite form of work, she adds, "I really enjoy counted cross-stitch, and I would like to do one of the very first prayer Daniel ever made. I wrote it down. Next year I would like to make a latch hook panda for his birthday." Lucky Daniel in past years has received a personalized afghan and a cross-stitch grow chart. Mary Ann also made a beautiful counted cross-stitch bellpull announcement of Daniel's birth.

Last year, Mary Ann Ibach won first place at the Farm Show with this bell pull she created for her brother and sister-in-law.

Mary Ann says she likes to do different stitches, adding, "Some day I hope to draw our house in sampler form I want to learn some more stitches first."

She enjoys designing her own things, and often designs wedding gifts. "Designing takes me more time than doing it. I must draw the design on graf paper first," she states

Asked how she chooses her projects, Mary Ann, says, "I think of people I want to do things for. I have no set pattern. I hope to knit more this year." She admits that Winter is a good time to work on needlework projects.

Mary Ann is currently crotcheting a vest for her mother, and is finishing a project from a class she took to help her expand her knowledge of stitches.

Mary Ann, who has been married for ten years, works one day a week as a beautician at Calvary Fellowship Homes, Lancaster. She enjoys going to Roots Country Auction with Daniel and a neighbor, and is a member of Calvary Independent Church where she teaches sixth grade girls.

Mary Ann's talents have been shared with many people, and for those who attended the Farm Show, they got to see a well-done portrait of Lancaster County's many agricultural products.

Ella Mae Metzler

and helped work in the tobacco and potatoes.

When making bridal gowns, Mrs. Metzler recalls that she bought patterns, and sometimes she combined patterns. "I tried to make the dresses the way they wanted them. The girls bought the fabric. Sometimes I made for the whole wedding party, including mothers and bridesmaids."

One of the changes in bridal dresses over the years is that "they got long," Mrs. Metzler says. She said the change to longer gowns came "after the War," and that weddings became "more fancy. Weddings got bigger."

In all her sewing, which included coats, Mrs. Metzler says with a smile, "I always came last."

Asked whether she preferred sewing by machine or by hand, Mrs. Metzler answered, "It doesn't matter. I just liked sewing." She made wedding dresses for both her daughters, but her youngest daughter, Geraldine's, was the last gown she made.

Although she gave up sewing for others, Ella didn't stop learning. When she was nearly sixty, she and her daughter Dorothy took adult lessons at Hempfield High School and learned to make ceramics. She said, "I made 26 dolls, and I sold some and gave some away." The two dolls she has with her at Landis Homes are dressed in lovely homemade calico dresses, complete with lace, as well as lace-trimmed pantaloons and petticoats.

She said, "I have a lot of dress materials left over. I was going to do a lot of things when I grow old."

In ceramics, Ella Mae also made chickens on nests, pitchers and bullfrogs. Her experience in ceramics allows her to lend a helping hand with ceramics at Landis Homes. Even without her sight she is able to clean greenware, and can feel the spots that need work with her fingers.

She enjoyed ceramics so much that she set a goal one year to make a piece for each week of the year. "I had to limit myself because I ran out of space to keep them."

Another interest of Ella Mae's which she took up late in life is painting. She and Dorothy took painting classes at Hempfield in 1971, and she has several of her paintings in her room. One is of their home, one of the Hunsicker covered bridge and one of the Pinetown covered bridge.

Ella Mae also learned to do decoupage through a course at the Farm and Home Center, and she learned to do tole painting. She said, "I didn't do too much because my eyesight failed. I enjoyed doing it."

Ella Mae reports that she was very proud when her grandson made himself a shirt. She says, "I didn't know he was going to do it. He just bought the pattern and material and went to work."

When Mrs. Metzler was 15 she started making scrapbooks, a hobby she continued all her life. "I made it all about myself with Christmas cards and weddings. Then I did one with newspaper items, about local things that happened. I did one scrapbook each year with births and deaths, and pictures of (Hurricane) Agnes Anything I was acquainted with I put in " and subscribed to magazines I made scrapbooks of rooms in magazines."

In June, Mr. and Mrs. Metzler celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary.

For Ella Mae, her life has been full and fulfilling. The ribbon she won at the Farm Show was a fitting tribute to her skill as a seamstress and her interest in the community around her.

EGG CUSTARD

6 eggs
6 teaspoon granulated sugar
1 quart milk
1 tablespoon vanilla
dash of salt

Mix all ingredients together. Set in a pan of water and bake in a 375 degree F oven, until knife comes out clean, when inserted.

Esther Petersheim, Age 12, Christiana

YOGURT

2 quarts milk
2 tablespoons plain yogurt
1½ pints water
1 cup dry milk
1 package gelatin
concentrated drink mix

Bring milk to a boil, then cool to lukewarm. Add plain yogurt which can be bought in a store.

Mix in 1½ pints water, 1 heaping cup dry milk, 1 package knox geatin, and heat until dissolved.

Add to first mixture when both are lukewarm. Add any concentrated drinks to give a nice color. Put on back on top of refrigerator for five or six hours.

Don't forget to save plain yogurt each time for your next batch.

PINEAPPLE PUDDING

1 large can pineapple juice
2 eggs
¼ cup flour
½ cup granulated sugar
1 pint whipped cream
3 bananas
1 orange
1 jar cherries

Mix large can of pineapple juice, eggs, flour and sugar together. Cook until slightly thickened.

When cool, add whipped cream, and fruit. Place in a serving dish and chill prior to serving.

Betsie Smoker, Age 11, New Holland, Pa.

STRAWBERRY CREAM TAPIOCA

1 quart berries
4 tablespoons tapioca
2 cups water
1 cup granulated sugar

Mash berries and add water and sugar and cook 15 minutes. Add the tapioca and cook and stir 15 minutes longer. Remove from heat and cool.

1 quart milk
¾ cup granulated sugar
2 eggs, separted
4 tablespoons minute tapioca
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla

Combine beaten egg yolk, milk, tapioca, sugar, and salt and let set for 10 minutes. Put on medium heat and cook and stir until thickened, 10-15 minutes. Remove from heat and add stiffly beaten egg whites and vanilla. Cool.

To serve, put alternate layers of cream and fruit tapioca into dessert dishes.

Rebecca Martin, Age 11, Selinsgrove, Pa.

MARY'S LIME SALAD

16 large marshmallows
1 cup milk
1 package of lime gelatin
6 oz. package cream cheese
1 can crushed pineapples
1 cup whipped cream
⅔ cup salad dressing

Melt marshmallows and milk in a pan. Pour hot mixture over gelatin. Stir until dissolved. Stir in cream cheese and pineapples and cool. Blend in whipped cream and salad dressing. Chill until firm.

Elizabeth Fisher, Paradise, Pa.

FLIP FLOP

Cheesy Ponytail Franks are easy to make and a delight to eat. Mix two cups of shredded Cheddar cheeses with one fourth cup, each, of chili sauce and pickle relish and one-eighth teaspoon of oregano. Slit eight frankfurters lengthwise, but not all the way through. Fill with cheese mixture, place in hot dog buns and wrap each one in foil. Seal and twist the ends to resemble ponytails. Make ahead and refrigerate, if desired. Heat in a hot (400°F.) oven for 15 to 20 minutes.

Question: I would like to have a recipe for instant hot chocolate. I heard of a recipe that combines instant dry milk, cocoa, and sugar. These ingredients can be added to hot water to yield a delicious hot chocolate.

P. Erway

Answers:

HOT CHOCOLATE MIX

4 cups powdered milk
2 cups Nestle Quik
1 cup cremore
½ cup powdered sugar
Mix ingredients together.

Ruth Peachey, Age 11, Belleville, Pa.

HOT CHOCOLATE MIX

1 box powder milk, 8 quart size,
1 pound box Nestle's Quik
6 oz. jar coffee creamer
½ cup confectioners' sugar
1 teaspoon salt
Use two coffee scoops or four tablespoons for each cup.

Mrs. Gloria Rennoll, Glen Rock, Pa.

HOT CHOCOLATE MIX

1 pound instant cocoa mix
1 8 quart box instant milk
1 6oz. jar instant coffee creamer
1 cup confectioners sugar
Combine all ingredients. Store in a covered air tight container. To serve, mix ⅓ cup chocolate mix with 1 cup hot water.

Question: A reader requests sugarless recipies.
Answer:

SUGARLESS COOKIES

1 cup raisins
½ cup chopped dates
½ cup chopped apples
¾ cup chopped nuts
1 cup water
½ cup vegetable shortening
2 eggs, well beaten
3 teaspoons liquid sweetner
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 cup flour
Boil raisins, dates and apples in water for three minutes. Add shortening to melt, then cool. Add other ingredients, adding nuts last. Chill, then drop by teaspoon onto cookie sheet. Bake 350 degree F for 10-12 minutes.

Spending food dollars

MEDIA — With food costs rising about 12 percent in 1979 and expected to rise another 12 percent in 1980, you need to learn all the tricks in spending your food dollar wisely, says Greta C. Vairo, Extension Home Economist.

The Penn State Extension Service has planned a meeting on Thursday, January 24 from 10 a.m. to 12 noon in the Toal Building Auditorium, corner of 2nd & Orange Sts., Media. There is no charge and parking is free in the county garage, 3rd & Olive Sts.

When one spends more than one should or needs - to buy a car, furniture or appliance - it may take years to correct the mistake. Since food is bought often changes in buying habits can be made more quickly and costs can be cut more rapidly if a person really wants to do it.

It will take change - in the way a person plans for food shopping, in the way food is bought and the kinds of foods purchased.

More than 1/3 of your food money goes to buy meat, poultry, and fish. There is a wide range in kinds, cuts, and costs available. Knowing something about meat supply and prices is a good starting point for stretching your meat money. The next step to economizing at the meat counter is to find a workable system to help you compare prices.

Farm Women Societies

Berks Co. Society 9

The January meeting of the Berks Co. Farm Women Society 9 was held in the home of Mrs. Sue Hendricks, Amityville. The annual members' Christmas party, held at Stahl's Restaurant, Boyertown, was enjoyed by everyone.

Six sheepskins for patients at Berks Heim were purchased.

Plans for the Society's tenth anniversary, to be celebrated in September, were begun. Committees were appointed.

The February meeting will be held at Nolde State Forest, for a program about winter stars and night animals.

Each member present brought a sample of a craft she enjoys doing, and a Silent Auction was held, with samples of each craft offered for sale.

Lancaster Co. Society 4

The regular monthly meeting of the Lancaster County Farm Women Society 4, was held on January 2, at the home of Mrs. Elsie Rothenberger, Powder Mill Road. Twelve members were present.

Highlights of the year 1979 were discussed and each member named her most interesting time of the year.

Many baskets of Christmas cookies, candy, fruit, were made up for shut-ins and lonely people, for which Group received many "thank-you" notes.

Verna Taylor gave a talk all about Crepes - telling how each nationality has it's own version of this delectable dish - somehow, we think of crepes as being French, but there are many kinds.

Edna Angstadt, Powder Mill Road, will host Society 4 on February 5, 1980, at 7:30 p.m.

Lancaster Co. Society 17

Lancaster County Farm Women Society 17 met at the home of Grace Pollock near Truce. Ruth Kreider and Grace Shaub served as this month's co-hostesses.

Each member gave a stamped get well cards to the Sunshine committee during roll call.

Elizabeth Herr and Mrs. Willis Krantz gave a humorous reading.

Lebanon Co. Society 5

On Tuesday evening, January 8, 21 members of the Lebanon County Farm Women Society 5 met in the home of Mrs. Elta Weaver, Jonestown.

The Society had an enlightening evening of playing games.

The business meeting was conducted by president Marion Maulfair. Members decided to serve a picnic supper at the South Hills Park on July 10.

Vera Fahnestock gave a report on the State Convention, held January 7 and 8.

The Society secretary read the by-laws and refreshed everyone's memory as to their obligations as a member.

The next meeting will be held on February 12 at 7 p.m. at the Zoar's Meeting House at Mt. Zion. The husbands will be the special guests on "Men's Night".

York Co. Society 31

The round top York County Farm Women Society 31 held their Christmas party at the Millie Restaurant. Bonnie Witmer read a Christmas poem and Polly Ann conducted a gift exchange.

The following officers were installed: President - Mrs. Loyle Moyer; Vice - President - Mrs. Bonnie Witmer; Secretary - Mrs. Ann Merovick; Treasurer - Mrs. Carolyn Neal; Corresponding Secretary - Cora Keefer; Historian - Mrs. Ruth Anderson.

The first Society meeting for 1980 will be held January 21, at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Cora Keefer, R2 Dillsburg.

Lehigh 4-H goat club

BREINIGSVILLE — The Lehigh Valley 4-H Dairy Goat Club is in the process of reorganizing for 1980.

Club members with ideas for this year's projects should contact club president, Brenda Mengel, before January 28th. This is the date club officers and leaders are going to set up the club events for 1980.

Goats are educational, not expensive to own, make interesting pets, easy to handle and transport, fun to "show", and supply a family with good, nutritional milk.

Any youngsters 8 to 18 years of age who are interested in learning about dairy goats are uged to join the Lehigh Valley 4-H Dairy Goat Club.

If interested call 215-285-6804 or contact Brenda Mengel, R1 Box 295, Breinigsville, Pa. 18031.

Chicken - the economical protein food

Spur of the moment dishes, created with chicken are not unusual because they can be prepared in an almost endless variety of ways.

Our readers have proven the versatility of chicken in sending their favorites — Honey Baked Chicken, casseroles, sandwiches, salads plus much more.

FRUITED CHICKEN SALAD

2 cups cooked chicken, cut in pieces
1 orange, peeled and sectioned
½ cup grapes, halved and seeded
½ cup pecans or toasted almonds
2 medium bananas, peeled and sliced
1 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing

Put chiken, preferably white meat, in bowl; add other ingredients, tossing lightly. Chill. Serve on lettuce, or serve on pineapple slices placed on lettuce. Makes 6 to 9 servings

Mrs. Carl S. Bacon, Felton, P

SWISS CHICKEN QUICHE

1 9 inch unbaked pie crust
1 cup shredded swiss cheese
2 tablespoons flour
1 tablespoon chicken bouillon
2 cups cubed cooked chicken
1 cup milk
3 eggs, well beaten
¼ cup chopped onion
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons chopped pimiento

Bake crust 8 minutes at 425 degrees F; remove from oven. Reduce oven temperature to 350 degree F.

In medium bowl, toss cheese with flour and bouillon. Add remaining ingredients and mix well. Pour into prepared crust and bake for 40-45 minutes or until set. Let stand 10 minutes before serving.

Mrs. Eugene Corl, State College, Pa.

CHINESE CHICKEN

1 chicken breast, (per person) skinned, boned and sliced into strips.
2 tablespoons oil
1 sliced pepper
1 cup chopped celery
1 oz. can mandarin orange slices, drained
2 tablespoons mustard
¼ cup honey
1 tablespoon soy sauce

Brown pepper and celery until tender. Add chicken slices and orange slices. Mix mustard, honey and soy sauce, pour over chicken that has been browned. Simmer slowly until chicken is fully cooked.

Serve over rice with salad on the side.

Barbara Russell, Pine Bush, N.Y.

RICE WITH CHICKEN GIBLETS AND HEART

1 pound chicken giblets and hears
1 medium onion, chopped
½ teaspoon paprika
1 cup raw rice
1 can chicken broth
1 soup can of water

Cook the chicken and heart in just enough water to cover. Cook slowly, covered for 1½ hour. Saute the onions in shortening in a saucepan. Add paprika. Add the rice gradually. Finally, add the chicken broth, a little at a time, until all the broth is used. Cover and simmer until rice is tender, 45 minutes to one hour.

Note: If you cooked the giblets and hearts earlier, any cooking liquid left may be used for part of the broth/water mixture. After the giblets are cooked, cut into small pieces. Stir into cooked rice and salt to taste.

Mrs. Charles Biehl, Allentown, Pa.

DEEP — DISH CHICKEN POT PIE

3 cups cubed cooked chicken
1 cup sliced cooked carrots
1 cup diced cooked potatoes
1 cup frozen peas, thawed
6 tablespooons butter
2 cups bisquick
⅓ cup flour
2 tablespoons instant chicken bouillon or 6 cubes
¼ teaspoon pepper
4 cup milk

Melt butter; stir in flour, bouillion, pepper, and milk. Cook and stir until thick. Add remaining ingredients except bisquick following package directions for round bisquicks. Roll out to cover casserole, cut slashes in center. Place on top of casserole; crimp edges.

Bake at 375 degrees F for 4 minutes or until top is golden.

Mrs. Eugene Corl, State College, Pa.

PINEAPPLE CHICKEN LIVERS IN RICE RING

Rice Ring

3 ¾ cups chicken broth
2 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups long grain converted rice

Chicken Livers

⅓ cup all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 pound chicken livers
6 tablespoons butter
1 can (4 oz.) mushroom stems and pieces, drained.
¼ cup chopped green pepper
1 can,(8 oz.) crushed pineapple in juice, drained and juice reserved
1 cup water

For rice ring, bring chicken broth, butter and salt to boiling in a 3 quart saucepan. Stir in rice and simmer 20 to 25 minutes, or until all liquid is absorbed. Firmly pack rice into a well-buttered 4½ cup ring mold. Let stand 2 to 3 minutes. Invert onto serving plate. Keep warm.

Meanwhile, for chicken livers, combine flour, salt and pepper. Dredge chicken livers in a flour mixture; reserve 3 tablespoons remaining flour mixture. Melt butter in a large skillet.

Saute chicken livers, using medium heat, until evenly browned. Stir in mushrooms, green pepper and crushed pineapple. Cook over low heat, covered, until livers are no longer pink in color, about 10 minutes.

Combine reserved flour mixture and water in a small bowl until smooth; stir in skillet mixture. Blend until smooth. Stir in pineapple juice. Cook 3 minutes, or until all ingredients are heated through. To serve, spoon chicken liver mixture into rice ring.

CHICKEN CASSEROLE

6 eggs
6 slices, white bread in piece
1 teaspoon salt
6 tablespoons butter
3 cups milk
4 tablespoons parsley
2 - 12 oz. cans chicken or fresh chicken, cubed
2 teaspoons onion
1 teaspoon celery salt

Brown pieces of bread in butter. Add eggs, then add other ingredients Pour into a greased 13x9x2 inch pan. Set in a pan of water in oven at 350 degree F for one hour.

Add a can of mushroom soup for gravy, if desired.

Mrs. Charles Biehl, Allentown, Pa.

CHICKEN STEW WITH WINE

3 pounds fryer chicken, cut up
2 cups water
3 stalks celery, cut up
2 medium onions, quartered
4 tablespoons white wine or red
1½ teaspoon thyme leaves
2 teaspoons salt
4 medium potatoes, peeled and quartered
4 medium carrots, peeled and cut in large chunks

Brown chicken pieces under broiler with skin side up. Drain off the fat in a large kettle Place chicken, water, and all the remaining ingredients in kettle. Cover and cook about one hour or until chicken and vegetables are tender, thicken if desired.

Local woman attends co-op workshop

ST. PAUL, Minn. — Mary Kay Longenecker of Lititz, took part in a special seminar for young adults held here, which examined the roles of today's farmer cooperatives.

Longenecker was among more than 70 young people from eight states participating in the seminar, an annual event sponsored by the National Farmers Union.

Each of the young adults participated in workshops which studied the differences between cooperative and other forms of business operations the importance of co-ops to rural farming communities, the threat to the future operations of cooperatives posed by anti-trust legislation in Congress, and means of promoting cooperatives and furthering cooperative education.

Following discussion on cooperatives, led by NFU Field Services Coordinator Lee Swenson and NFU Youth and Young Adult Activities Director Cindy Domenico, the group toured the regional headquarters and distribution facilities of Farmers Union Central Exchange.

CENEX is one of the nation's leading regional farm supply cooperatives. It furnishes fuel and petroleum products, fertilizer, seed, feed, farm equipment and other supplies to some 1400 local farmer-owned cooperatives in 14 upper midwest and western states.

Longenecker is presently attending Penn State University majoring in agriculture.

Longenecker said, "The youth seminar was worthwhile and interesting. I met many youth from different states and received a better understanding of cooperatives and how they function."

Farm Women Societies converge in Harrisburg

By JOYCE BUPP
Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG — Over four hundred women from across the state coverged on Harrisburg January 7 and 8 for the annual convention of the Pennsylvania Society of Farm Women.

Nancy Bennetch of Lebanon County was installed as state treasurer during the business session Tuesday morning in the Farm Show complex. Mrs. Bennetch is the past assistant secretary to the state officers. She and her husband Marlin operate a registered Holstein dairying operation at R2 Myerstown.

One new state director was also elected to the executive board. Muriel Hostettler of Penn Run, Indiana County, is one of seven directors plus state officers that comprise the board heading up the activities of the more than 4,000 members.

Lancaster's Helen Hess of Mountville, state president, presided over the business session. Other state officers include first vice-president Marie Baughman, R3 Shippensburg, Franklin County; second vice-president Naomi Bupp, R2 Glen Rock, York County; and Leona Stapleton, secretary, of R1 Saxton in Huntingdon County.

Committee policy recommendations include increased education of farm women on estate tax and inheritance problems and the monitoring of new developments in nuclear power generation.

Winner of the $300 scholarship award was Jean Jordon, R2 Felton in York County. Miss Jordon is a sophomore at Indiana University of Pennsylvania and a second year recipient of the scholarship which was established in 1960 as a memorial to the Society of Farm Women's founder, Flora Black. Recipients of the schooling assistance must be children of members and pursuing a major in the home-ec field.

The business meeting followed a day-long program of speakers and entertainment on Monday at the downtown Harrisburg Forum Building and the Penn Harris Motor Inn.

A special presentation of original jewelry was made to president Helen Hess by the Lancaster County Societies. Designed to be worn either as a pendant or a pin, the circle of gold is engraved and bears the pink hollyhock symbol of the Farm Women. Other farm women jewelry is available from the new custodian, Mrs. Harry Hershey, Box 390, R1, Mt. Joy, 17552.

Winner of the statewide "Something From Nothing" project was Dottie Dunkleberger of Society 17 in Cumberland County. Mrs. Dunkleberger's first-place entry was a child's dollhouse, with every one of the remarkably detailed furnishings created from throwaway items. The house shell was fashioned from corrugated cardboard boxes, divided into several rooms. Intricate decorating features included foods in see-through cupboards, toothpick candle sconces on the walls, magazine racks complete with miniature magazines, a mousetrap and an outdoor privy complete with moon cutout on the door.

Second place winner was the dried floral arrangement created by Ruth Kauffman, Lancaster County's entry; and third place was won by Pauline Thomas of York County, with a miniature castle nightlight. Honorable mentions were awarded to Kathryn Thomas, Adams; Ferne Culp, Berks; Florence Adams, Cambria; Ruth Whiteside, Chester, Mable Wyonda, Dauphin; Oliver Kerchner, Franklin; Denise Frey, Fulton; Ruth Minor, Greene; Elva Martin, Lebanon; and Jane Wosyki, Somerset.

In honor of the International Year of the Child, a special youth-creativity project was sponsored by the youth committee, with 87 certificates presented for arts and crafts entries by children of Farm Women members. Next year's competition will be expanded to include grandchildren, and the 1981 project is projected to be open up even to greatgrandchildren of Society members.

A memorial service honored 64 deceased members from throughout the membership. A floral design created for the service included a yellow mum for each of those who died during 1979, surrounded by an evergreen background with a red rose for each of the deceased state presidents.

Tow members were honored for attaining the 90-year-old member status. Effie Ross, Cambria County, and Mildred Countryman, Somerset County, will each receive a special oval gold locket engraved with their initials as a token of honor from the state group.

Everything a doll could ever want for comfortable living is included in this creation by Dottie Dunkleberger, Cumberland County state winner of the "Something From Nothing" recycling competition. The dollhouse and all its interior decorations were created from castaways, right down to the kitchen mousetrap.

A representative of each county offered a brief report of their activities. Some of the more unusual programs included Fulton County's 25th anniversary celebration, a hoe-down, braille lessons and belly dancing in Berks County groups, Cumberland County's sponsorship of a blind youngster to summer camp and coupon exchanges and a Hawaiian luau held by Franklin County, whose members also serve as a security guards at the county fair. Also included in the nearly endless variety of Farm Women activities are charitable contributions, fund-raisers, picnics, parades and a state safety program focusing on smoke detectors.

Highlight of the afternoon program was the Chambersburg Area High School "Steel Band" which received a standing ovation and calls of "More!" from the audience of 400. Steel band sounds are synonymous with the Carribean Islands and include no instruments other than percussion types. Music is made on whole or portions of 55-gallon drums, with the top removed and inverted, then tuned to notes by hammering the curved disk into flattened sections that produce varying sounds. Chambersburg's unique 17-member band acquired their vegetable oil drums from a chip manufacturer, flew two musicians from Trinidad to tune the drums and painted them in a kaliedoscope of brilliant colors. Dressed in glowing shades compatible with the hues of their instruments, the outstanding student band made a striking and colorful contrast to the polished wooden background of the Forum stage.

Featured speaker for the day's program was Dr. Paul Unrue, a clinical counselor and founder and director of Family Counseling Service in Greencastle. He dealt with improving family relationships, focusing on the points that can be used to make changes in interpersonal relations, if the desire is there and the time is taken.

Following the Forum sessions, the Farm Women were bussed to the Penn Harris Motor Inn, for the annual dinner banquet. Speaker for the evening was Grant Hurst, teacher and coach at Lancaster's McCaskey High School, who talked on developing a sense of humor. Musical entertainment was presented by the "Carlaiers," a choral group composed of wives of services men stationed at the Carlisle Barracks.

Md. Agriculture Secretary approves Carter's embargo

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Wayne A. Cawley, Jr. has expressed his support of President Jimmy Carter's embargo of grain sales to Russia.

Carter's move came last week in retaliation to the Soviet Union's invasion of Afghanistan.

"As a farmer, businessman and veteran, I wish to commend you for the action you have taken in response to the Soviet Union's invasion of Afghanistan," Cawley wrote in a letter to the President.

He said while the decision to embargo 17 million metric tons of livestock feed grain to Russia will have an economic impact on all Americans, there are times when money must become a secondary consideration.

"As a grain farmer, I am heartened by your announcement that farmers alone will not have to bear the brunt of this economic loss, but that this commodity will be utilized in productive U.S. efforts to ease the energy crisis," he said.

Cawley was commenting on additional restrictions imposed on the Russians limiting their import of high technology items and restricting fishing rights.

Speaking as a businessman, Cawley said he applauded Carter's decision to honor the original contract for sale of eight million metric tons of grain to Russia.

"Terms of that contract should be honored as negotiated," he told the President.

"As a veteran, I heartily agree with your reasoning that retaliation is necessary now and in such form as to make USSR officials realize their aggression will not go unopposed.

"Officially, I speak only for the Maryland Department of Agriculture and myself, and I recognize your immediate liaison with the agricultural community is USDA Secretary Robert Bergland," Cawley said.

However, he added, if he or the Maryland Department of Agriculture could be of any assistance in helping the President with the embargo on a local level, he would be willing to hear the President's desires.

Farm Show: the way it was

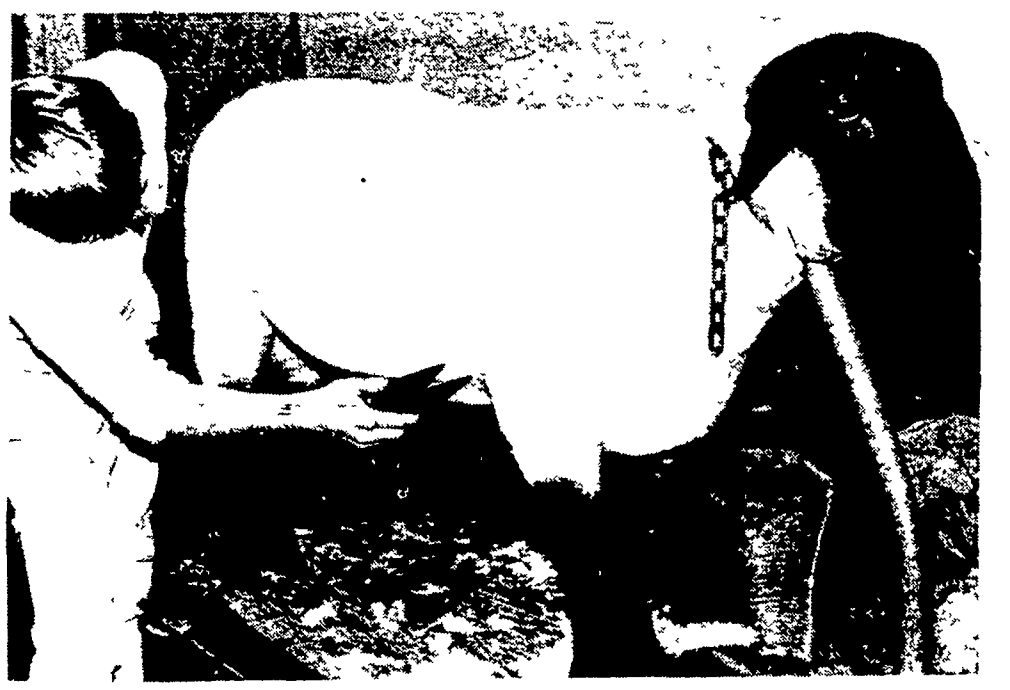
Bill Heath, of Penn Gate Farm, Littlestown, prepares Jet Star Tam for her Senior Yearling Class in the Holstein show at this year's Farm Show.

Josephine Kotch, Luzerne County home economist, and Peter Feretti, vegetable specialist, demonstrated preparing fresh vegetables with the use of an electric wok. Other demonstrations included deboning poultry, making omelets and preparing fresh fruit.



Jim Stauffer, R2 Lancaster, blocks his Suffolk ram. The junior at Penn Manor High School competed in both the open sheep classes and 4-H competition.

Chris Herr, R2 Narvon, skillfuly clips the head of his FFA steer, an Angus x Chianina crossbred. Chris is a senior at Garden Spot High School.

YOU'VE HEARD THE TALK.

There's a better way to dry grain. It's called CHILLCURING™ because it means CURING without heat. Here's what the talk is all about.

THE GRAIN

Every kernel of grain is alive when it comes out of the field. It is a seed, able to grow because it has the ability to take on moisture Likewise, it can be kept in a state of preservation by removing the moisture already in it

But by heating the grain to dry it, the seed life is destroyed.

By removing heat and moisture from the grain, it becomes dormant, and stays alive. Then it can ripen to full weight, losing only water while keeping valuable protein, starches and sugar.

THE SYSTEM

It's simple Grain goes from the field right to the bin. With the unique AIRFRAME™ and AIRFLOOR " the grain rests on a solid bed that allows maximum ventilation

Clean dry air is the best curing medium for the grain GRAINLAMPS™ provide electric sunshine, cleaning and drying the air beneath the floor, before it passes through the grain

Fans force air under the floor. Rising through the grain, this dry outside air carries away moisture and heat

At the peak of the bin a jumbo 40" turbine, the WHIRLCOOLER™, puts nature to work for you Wind and rising air keeps it turning, venting the system naturally.

A special HARVESTAT™ Control System monitors the curing process A simple setting controls the GRAINLAMPS™ to make use of free, natural air.

THE FACTS

1. You can't beat Nature. HARVESTALL GRAIN CHILLCURING " uses the same elements that ripen and preserve grain if left to itself: free flowing air and infra red rays (sunshine).

2. CHILLCURING™ has been tried and proven in 17 states on over 3000 farms. The research is in. CHILLCURING™ WORKS!

3. The CHILLCURING™ system uses only the electricity to power fans and lights, using about 1½ KW hrs per bushel. Compare that cost to other systems that use increasingly expensive fuels to get disappointing results.

4. The grain goes from the field to the bin and stays there till you need it. Save time and money at harvest with the one step HARVESTALL CHILLCURING™ and storage system.

5. If you're in the market for grain storage, you owe it to yourself to look further into HARVESTALL GRAIN CHILLCURING™.

Chris Chubb and Henry Westenberger, both of Middletown, cautiously touch a three year old cow. Chris explained that he always touches the cows on the side because he doesn't like to get kicked.

Everyone had all eyes on the Yorkshire gilt giving birth to her first litter. The gilt is owned by Charles B. Hall of Rattlesnake Mt. Farm, Julia, Pa. An intentive listener could hear children say, "they're cute", "oh boy", or "there another just popped out." The sow gave birth to seven piglets within two hours. She had no complications and was oblivious to her many onlookers.

ASGROW A4268 SOYBEANS OUTYIELD Miles by 4.6 bu/acre and Kent by 6.2 bu/acre!

IVAN GARRISON of Elmer, New Jersey

"I recommend Asgrow A4268 to whomever is looking for a better bean than either Kent or Miles." . .

Here's why:

Mr. Garrison planted 5 acres each of A4268, Miles, and Kent side by side under the same field and growing conditions. Mr. Garrison reports that Asgrow A4268 filled his bin with only 26 rows after combining, while it took 29 rows for Miles and 30 for Kent to fill them. A4269 stood almost totally erect while the others were over badly. A4268 delivered 4.6 bu/acre more beans than Miles, and 6.2 bu/acre more than Kent.

Farm Talk

Jerry Webb

Ever since the phenomenal success of hybrid corn in boosting crop yields, plant breeders have been searching for ways to hybridize other crops. So far they haven't had a lot of luck.

The hybrid corn story has been told and retold as one of the great success stories of agricultural research. Those plant breeders of the 1930's, who turned that period's 25 and 30 bushel corn yields into today's national average of 106 bushels per acre, set the pace for others who followed.

The knowledge gained with hybrid corn isn't easily transferred to other crops, particularly soybeans.

It's been generally assumed that average soybean yields around 30 bushels per acre would increase dramatically if the hybrid process could be introduced. And that our national average would skyrocket the way of hybrid corn, if the plant breeders could just get it all together.

But it's not that easy, according to Randy Nelson, a University of Illinois agronomist, who recently completed a research project on hybrid soybeans.

He says it's not just a matter of producing a hybrid bean, but producing one that is better then pure lines.

He also points out that the hybrid corn success story didn't happen overnight. It was the result of 30 or 40 years of research, and Nelson says maybe great soybean yields through hybridization will be possible in the future But right now, the practical restraints are overwhelming.

A hybrid is an offspring of genetically unlike parents Hybrids are produced by inter-planting selected male sterile and male fertile plants.

Cross pollination of male sterile plants by pollen from male fertile plants leads to hybrid seed formation.

Two major obstacles prevent the commercial use of hybrid soybeans.

First, soybeans are self pollinated. That means that both the male and female parts are present on the same flower. Pollen that is produced by such a flower also pollinates that flower, so the first step is producing a hybrid is to prevent self pollination.

Then there's the problem of moving pollen from the pollen parent to the seed parent. The Illinois and researcher says chemical, genetic, or cytoplasmic methods of preventing self-pollination in the seed parents is needed before hybrid soybean seed can be produced on a commercial scale.

In 1971, the first male sterile gene was found in soybeans and since then several more have been found. These genes prevent viable pollen from being formed.

As a research tool, that enables scientists to get some plants that are male sterile. But with this method, at best only half will be male sterile and half fertile. So this requires pulling out at least half the plants, the ones that are fertile

To do this, a researcher has to look at the individual flowers of each soybean plant to see if they're shedding pollen. It's very time-consuming and therefore not practical on a commercial basis.

Another method, cytoplasmic sterility, which exists in corn, may be discovered in soybeans, but that hasn't happened yet.

Even if a mechanism is discovered for obtaining male sterile soybean plants, there's till the problem of getting the pollen from one plant to another.

Unlike corn pollen, soybean pollen is not carried by the wind so another means of transportation must be found. One hope for this that is being explored involves transferring pollen by insects, such as honey bees.

The Illinois researcher has produced data on 37 hybrid combination–the best single year increase was less than 30 percent, and Nelson says the samples were too small to produce conclusive results.

In producing soybean hybrids, the plant expert points out that breeders are striving for increased yields. Traits like disease resistance are often controlled by a single gene and are relatively easy to transfer in plant breeding.

Yield is a very complex trait and is more likely to be improved in a hybrid.

Potentially, he says, every gene in the plant has an effect on yield.

The way the seed is produced is dependent on the overall efficient functioning of the plant from the extracting of carbon dioxide from the air to water and nutrition from the soil, to the final conversion into complex carbohydrate oil and protein in the sea.

Nelson says parents should be selected for their ability to produce good hybrids and not for their ability to yield as a pure line.

In other crop areas, researchers are working with hybridization and some are being grown commercially. But Nelson thinks researchers are still down the road quite a ways from a commercial hybrid soybean.

Her herd mates rolling herd average 17,379 Milk, 3.8 test - 663 Fat.

As a three-year-old she won first place as Senior and Grand champion and Best Udder of Show at the Southern Lancaster County Fair, 1979. She also placed second as a three-year-old at the Lancaster County Holstein Show.

The Welk-Crest feeding program consists of haylage, corn silage, high-moisture corn, hay, Hoober's Bulky Dairy, Hoober's 32 Dairy Pellets with minerals formulated by computer for the herds' needs, according to roughage quality, cow size, herd production, etc.

Call Hoober's and have your forage tested and your mineral and protein computerized - then you decide whether you want vitamins, minerals and ingredients and your grains, or Hoober's 32% or 40% protein and minerals, and your grain. We are happy to work with you on either program or use our 14-16-18-20% pellets or flaked feed and your forage and exchange corn or purchase as needed.

Papyrus Power

Papyrus is the oldest known form of writing paper, but Egyptians used the plant for many other things as well, including using the roots for fuel or carving them into kitchen utensils, boats were built with bundles of the reeds; the inner bark of the plant was plaited into rope or woven into sailcloth, blankets and baskets.

Embargo, fertilizer costs like old one - two punch

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — A recent embargo on U.S. grain shipments to Russia presents only the first jolt in a cost-price squeeze being clamped on this nation's grain farmers.

The other half of an economic one-two punch is upward-spiraling fertilizer prices, reports V. Allan Bandel, Extension fertilizer specialist and professor of agronomy at the University of Maryland in College Park.

Bandel bases his gloomy outlook on a talk given recently by Edwin M. Wheeler to 975 farmers and agribusinessmen attending the sixth annual Mid-Atlantic No-Till Conference at the Hunt Valley Inn north of Baltimore. Wheeler is president of the Fertilizer Institute, headquartered in Washington, D.C.

"You will be shocked by fertilizer prices this spring," Wheeler told his audience. And he predicted that by 1985, when natural gas prices have been fully decontrolled by the federal government, anhydrous ammonia will be selling for at least $200 per ton, f.o.b. the processing plant. (Current price is about $135 per ton f.o.b.).

Record exports of fertilizer to friendly countries are also exerting upward pressures on the domestic market, Wheeler said.

Here are ways to combat the problem:

Reduce fuel consumption wherever possible. If U.S. farmers start planting all at once this spring, there won't be enough fuel to go around. We need legislators in Washington, D.C., who will assure U.S. agriculture of adequate sources of energy. But energy will not be cheap.

No-till farming will grow like "gang-busters" in the next decade. It takes much less petroleum to produce the extra herbicides needed for no-till than for the tractor fuel needed for extra trips across a field with conventional tillage farming.

Canadian fertilizer suppliers are sold out through June 30. So supplies will be tight in the U.S. We must now consider more no-till acreage and less fertilizer.

Even before the recent embargo on exports to Russia, grain prices in the U.S. were not high enough to offset foreseeable increases in costs of fertilizer and other farm production requirements.

The fertilizer industry spokesman declared that "irrigated agriculture in the West is in trouble. The overhead pivot system of irrigation appears destined to be outlawed in the West and Southwest because it is energy-inefficient.

"For this reason we must stop drunken urban sprawl in the East. We need land for agriculture."

Wheeler pointed out that "American farmers are the only segment of the U.S. economy which has shown increased production efficiency in the last decade."

N.J. dairymen to meet January 24

FLEMINGTON, N.J. — Dairy Interests Day, an annual activity of New Jersey Farmers' Week, this year is scheduled to be held in Hunterdon County on Thursday, January 24. The place is Pfenninger's Hilltop Inn. Meeting begins at 11:30 a.m.

Traditionally, Farmers' Week activities were held in Trenton, but as facilities adequate to handle the many events became scarce, locations were sought outside the State Capitol. This year many of the activities, including the annual State Agricultural Convention, will be held in the Cherry Hill-Mt. Laurel area.

Featured on the Dairy Day program will be two young dairymen from neighboring counties, Warren and Somerset. They are Kenneth VanNuys, Hillsboro Farm, Belle Mead; and Robert Connolly, Oxford.

They will appear on a panel in the afternoon session on "Programmed Herd Health."

Both will describe their farming operations in their introductions. They will then discuss their herd health programs, the practices and procedures that they use to reduce the incidence of disease, respond to health problems, maintain satisfactory breeding efficiency in the herd.

Connolly has a top producing herd of 65 Holsteins, ranking consistently high on the State DHIA herd performance list. Last year his herd averaged 17,976 pounds of milk, with 659 pounds butterfat.

VanNuys is associated with his father in the operation of Hillsboro Farm, a long-time Holstein breeding establishment.

Interestingly, Hillsboro Farm, then owned by Ken's grandfather, Peter, was the first home for sires in the first artificial breeding cooperative founded in the country back in 1938.

The VanNuys herd has recently been moved into a new modern 100 plus cow facility. Ken has responsibility for breeding and health care in the operation.

Both work very closely with their veterinarian, and in the discussion on the dairy day program, will indicate the importance of developing a strong relationship with the veterinarian in carrying out an effective herd health program.

Also on Dairy Day program will be Patrick B. Healy, Secretary of the National Milk Producers Federation. He will discuss, "The Dairy Farmer and National Affairs.' Dr. Sidney Nusbaum, Assistant Director of the New Jersey Division of Animal Health, will provide an up-date of the diagnostic laboratory.

Meeting hosts will be Woodson W. Moffett, Jr., Director of the Division of Dairy Industry, and Edward Oleskie, Extension Specialist in Dairy Science, Cook College.

Tickes for the luncheon are available at $6 each, by writing the Dairymen's Council, c/o Division of Dairy Industry, PO Box 1999, Trenton, NJ 08625.

Another activity of Farmers' Week is the annual luncheon of the Garden State Dairy Goat Association. This year it will be held at Ryland Inn, Whitehouse, beginning with a luncheon at 1 p.m.

Mrs. Gail K. LeCompte, Marketing Chairman for the Goat Association, reports that the featured speaker will be Dr. Mary E. Smith, Cornell University. For details on the dairy goat program, call LeCompte at 201-236-2369.

EXTRA PROTEIN IN MOEWS WAXY-MAIZ HYBRIDS

Cattle and hog feeders in this area should plant WAXY-MAIZ hybrid seedcorn. College feeding trials show 10% better gains on 7% less corn with WAXY fed to cattle. We have several WAXY-MAIZ Hybrids for this area. They yield the same as yellow dent corn, but have higher energy starch. Hogs gain better and get to market faster on WAXY-MAIZ. We can show you how to boost cattle and hog feeding profits.

The Tractor Specialist and its dealers announce new stronger warranty on all new Case 2090, 2290, 2390, 2590, 2470, 2670 and 2870 agricultural tractors.

1 Two years or 1750 hours on Engine and Drive Train (consisting of major housings and all parts contained therein, including axles) These parts are warranted to be free from defects in material or workmanship for a period of twenty-four (24) consecutive months from the Warranty Start Date, or 1750 hours, whichever occurs first

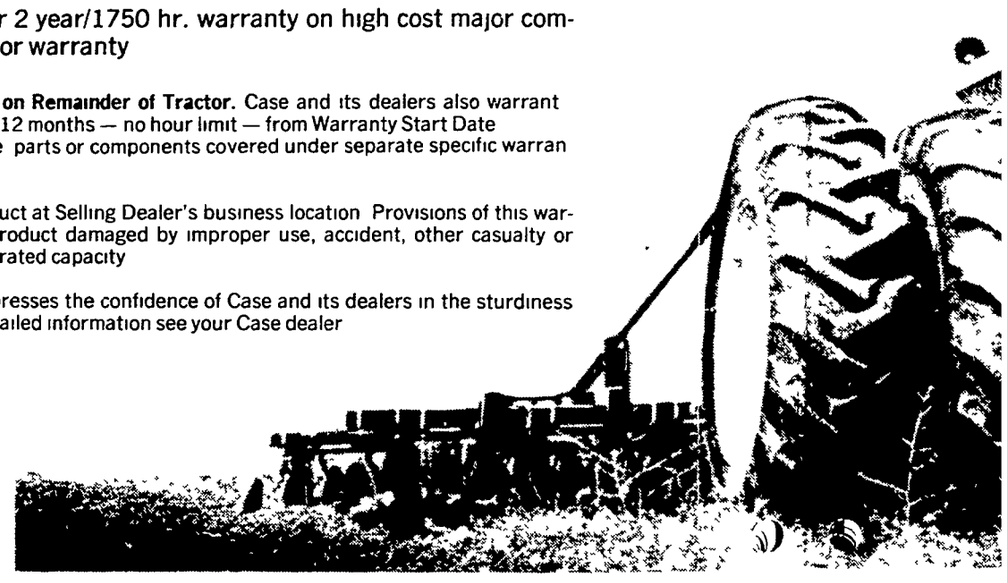
We urge you to compare our 2 year/1750 hr. warranty on high cost major components with any other tractor warranty

2 12 months (no hour limit) on Remainder of Tractor. Case and its dealers also warrant entire specified tractor for 12 months — no hour limit — from Warranty Start Date
Exceptions to this warranty include parts or components covered under separate specific warranties used or secondhand products

Selling Dealer will repair said product at Selling Dealer's business location Provisions of this warranty do not apply to any Case product damaged by improper use, accident, other casualty or negligence or by operation beyond rated capacity

This unusually broad warranty expresses the confidence of Case and its dealers in the sturdiness of our current tractor lines For detailed information see your Case dealer

Commitment To Quality®



That's confidence.

If you'll read just the first paragraph of the new warranty announcement above, you'll see that Case offers very strong protection for buyers of the tractor models described. Baltimore again tops Maryland corn contest

BALTIMORE, Md. — Baltimore county's Hereford high school FFA chapter narrowly earned top honors in Maryland's 1979 official corn yield contest with a mark of 187.57 bushels per acre.

A hair-breadth behind were three entries from the upper Eastern Shore:

J.S. Quimby and Sons of Centreville, Queen Anne county, finished a close second at 187.5 bushels per acre;

Olan H. Simpkins, 17, of Millington, Kent county, placed third with 187.0 bushels per acre;

Michael C. Cohey of Chestertown, Queen Annes county, was fourth with 186.2.

Alan W. Baynard of Trape, Talbot county, placed fifth at 181.15 bushels per acres. He and the other winners have been honored at banquets during the past two months for achievements within their respective county corn yield contests.

The official state corn yield contest has been conducted since 1952 as part of the crop improvement programs of the Extension Service at the University of Maryland in College Park.

Yield measurements are supervised by Extension agricultural agents in participating counties, and awards to state winners are presented each year by the Maryland Crop Improvement Association.

An official state soybean yield contest is operated in a similar manner.

The 1979 state corn and soybean yield champions will be honored during an evening banquet on February 26 in the Tidewater Inn at Easton. Those awards will be presented in conjunction with the seventy-third annual meeting of the Maryland Crop Improvement Association.

This is the fifth consecutive year that a Baltimore county representative has won the annual state corn yield contest. And it is the fourth time in those five years that the winning entry was produced by the no-tillage method.

The top five producers in the 1979 official state yield contest achieved field populations averaging 22,360 corn plants per acre at harvest time.

They applied an average of 131 pounds of nitrogen per acre to their contest fields during the growing season, and all used at least three different pesticides for chemical control of weeds and soil insects.

Row widths averaged slightly less than 33 inches, and three of the top five utilized 30-inch spacing between rows.

With a cool, damp spring, the average planting date for the top five entries was May 4.

The official Maryland state corn yield record has stood since 1965. That mark is 207.59 bushels per acre. It was set by an Eastern Shore partnership which included Edward H. Boyd of Wye Mills.

Md. tobacco exports rise during 1979

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. — Southern Maryland's tobacco farmers can lay claim to the oldest exporting tradition in the state and figures for fiscal 1979 show that $15,679,000 of their prize leaf was exported.

This represented an almost $2 million increase from the year before period but did not exceed the $17 million Maryland tobacco shipments overseas recorded in fiscal 1977.

Ronald L. Johnson, Director of the Maryland Department of Agriculture's Division of Marketing commented on the tobacco export figures noting, "American agriculture has set an all time record of $32 billion in exports in fiscal 1979 resulting in a net agriculture trade surplus of $15.8 billion.

"These export earnings from the farm benefit the entire American economy by helping earn the money needed to pay for such vital imports as oil. Agriculture, as exemplified by the tobacco farms right here in Maryland, leads the way when it comes to positive economic news on the world trade front," Johnson concluded.

The quantity of Maryland tobacco exported for the fiscal 1979 period, according to figures compiled by USDA, was 3486 metric tons which at 2200 pounds per ton, translates into 7,669,200 pounds which is a more familiar measurement to tobacco growers on the farm.

Maryland tobacco, known all over the world as "Type-32", is the state's oldest exported product, having moved in foreign trade since the state's founding in 1633.

Some 13 foreign countries were listed as destinations for the FY 79 Maryland tobacco shipments: Switzerland, Ecuador, West Germany, Belgium-Luxenbourg and the Netherlands being the five leading takers.

Other nations receiving the tobacco during the period were: Panama, the Bahamas, the United Kingdom, Denmark, Norway, France, Australia and New Zealand.

Record price set at Berkshire gilt sale

HARRISBURG — The Berkshire Breeder's Association's bred gilt sale set a new record at the 1980 Farm Show.

Whyte Acres, Inc. of Connecticut paid a new record price, $750, for the champion bred gilt consigned by Dennis L. Grumbine of R2 Myerstown.

Robert Bishop of Homer City, Indiana Co., purchased the reserve Berkshire gilt. The gilt was consigned by C.D. Winebark and Sons of Rochester Mills, Indiana County.

The 28 head of Berkshire gilts sold for an average price of $267.32. A total volume of sale hit the $7485 mark.

Harry Bachman of Annville served as auctioneer at the Berkshire Sale.

Maybe it's time you switched fertilizer tanks

Switch to a Calumet Liquid Manure Spreader

Compared to today s—and tomorrow s—sky-high fertilizer prices, manure is just too valuable to waste A hundred cow dairy herd, for example, can save thousands of dollars every year in fertilizer costs

Take full advantage of this liquid gold with a Calumet liquid manure spreader teamed with a 4-shank soil injector Injecting can help retain four times the nitrogen that's usually lost with surface spreading—in addition to reducing odor and run-off problems

Calumet spreaders, in capacities from 1625 to 4500 gallons, are engineered for efficiency and longevity Heavy duty steel alloy tanks are coated with epoxy to resist corrosion Double reinforced A-frames and support skids add strength for heavy loads All Calumet liquid spreaders are backed by a 12-month warranty

Make the best use of the fertilizer produced on your farm with a Calumet liquid spreader and soil injector

Call for information on the value of manure—and some good reasons why you should switch fertilizer tanks

McCorkel makes high corn yield

CARLISLE — Lloyd McCorkel of R6 Carlisle, achieved a yield of 196.91 bushels per acre in his local corn growing program.

McCorkel used Funk's G-4636 in his high yielding one acre plot.

His fertility program consisted of 148.75 pounds of nitrogen, 59.5 pounds of phosphorus, and 26.25 pounds of potash.

He chisel plowed in the fall and disked in the spring. Atrazine and Dual were used for weed control.

The crop was planted on May 1, in 30 inch rows at a population of 26,100 plants per acre using a plateless planter. Furadan was applied for insect control.

His crop was harvested as shelled corn on October 31 from his one acre plot. His harvest population was 23,800 plants per acre.

Crop moisture was 20.0 per cent and the yield was adjusted to 15.5 percent moisture.

On being a farm wife -And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

Having grown up under the wing of a coupon clipper, and adopted the habit myself at an early stage of marriage, it astounds me how many people are just now discovering the joy of finding a 20-cents-off slip of paper.

Among family and friends, these little good-as-cash clippings circulate constantly, We've learned each other's shopping tastes, and family favorites, and what we don't need we clip for a buddy.

But recently, the coupon to end all coupons showed up in our mailbox.

"Save $4000" it proclaimed. That's a headline guaranteed to grab even the most ho-hum coupon saver.

Then I read the fine print. The yellow slip was to be used conjunction with the purchase of a self-propelled combine, price ranges from $41,000 through $78,000. And, it could only be used toward the actual price of a second piece of equipment, or another combine, when purchased at the same time

If you've been considering a set of "his" and "hers", this is the perfect answer.

Attached to it was another coupon, this one in the amount of $3000 bonus when buying a tractor. It also is good only on a second purchase, after you order a tractor with price ranges up to $68,000.

If you're more economical minded, how about a $28,000 pull-type combine that comes with a bonus combine of $3000, on a second piece of equipment, of course.

Still another coupon offers $1000 worth of free parts with the purchase of a used combine. My personal experience with our resident used combines is that $1000 probably won't cover our Fall harvest season bill.

A final incentive to rush right in and redeem these goodies is the offer to arrange special financing for your coupon clipping bill.

Close scrutiny of our budget tells me that there's no way we can redeem any of these special offers. I'll hold them for anyone out there who wants them for their collection.

Sarah Keim Smith wins maple award

HARRISBURG — Sarah Keim Smith of Penn Runn, Indiana County, received the Pennsylvania Maple Producers Council Award of Merit at the associations annual meeting at the Pennsylvania Farm Show on Friday, January 11.

A founder of the famous Keim's Maple Camp in West Salisbury, Somerset County, Smith, her parents and two brothers developed the camp into one of the largest tourist camps in the nation. The maple showplace hosted many people, including large tours from Washington, Pittsburgh and Cleveland during the 1960's.

Her demonstration of maple crumb sugar prepared using a hollow log has been a popular attraction during many major events in recent years. Maple festivals and other large gatherings such as Agricultural Progress Days each August have helped those interested learn the unique aspects of maple production.

BUYING AND STORING MAPLE SYRUP

When it's cold and gray outside the meals that make a hit with your family are sometimes the easiest to make. Pancakes, French toast, jonnycakes, or hoecakes are just the thing for breakfast or dinner on a blustery day. Topped off with maple syrup they make a meal fit for a winter festival.

It might be fun to do, but you really don't have to tap your own sugar maple tree to serve good maple syrup.

Look for maple syrup that is a light amber color and that has a minimum of cloudiness. These are signs of the highest quality maple syrup. However, some people prefer darker, heavier-flavored maple syrup.

Maple syrup keeps well at room temperature if it's in a sealed container. After the container has been opened, the syrup may mold. If mold develops, skim it off, then heat the syrup to boiling and cook three minutes.

Store open containers of maple syrup in the refrigerator. If you have bought your maple syrup in a container that holds more than you can use in a reasonable time, you can store it in smaller containers. Heat the syrup to simmering (180 degrees) and pour, while still hot, into sterilized jars. Seal jars and store.

The sugary crystals that may form on the bottom of a container of maple syrup are pure sucrose or rock candy because the syrup was too thick. You can eat these crystals but they will be difficult to dissolve back into syrup.

MANAGE HEAT FOR COMFORT IN HOME

"Certain adjustments must be made in our life style as Americans learn to use less energy for home heating."

Not all the rooms of the home must be heated to shirt sleeve comfort all the time. Newer homes have zone heating and even timers can be put on thermostats to permit warmth for comfort when it is wanted. For instance, cold bedrooms are supposed to be healthier, but cold bedroom floors tend to retard early morning enthusiasm. A timer on the thermostat can give a burst of heat which peaks at wake-up time. Also, some people might enjoy a little heat in the bedroom at bedtime. Otherwise, bedrooms can be set at a low temperature to save fuel.

Kitchens often have surplus heat from cooking or baking, making them warm places for family gatherings on cold evenings. This is the way kitchens were used in the past and the family that has a large kitchen can consider itself fortunate.

One source of heat waste is bathtubs and sinks. Why empty the warm water out before it cools and releases heat to the surrounding area? Another benefit of leaving the warm water in the tub is humidity. Homes in the winter become very dry, and this can save running a humidifier.

One room in each house must be warm for people. On winter evenings this may be where the television is. Perhaps the heating system here may also be augmented by a woodburning stove or fireplace. There is more to gathering people together in one place than just psychological warmth; body heat is a factor, too.

PHOENIX, Ariz. — The next ten years will see some significant shifts in regional egg production...a good chance that 50 percent of the egg producers will not be producing eggs by 1990; flocks will continue to get bigger and bigger.

Those were some of the predictions suggested by Milton Dunk, recently retired editor of the Poultry Tribune, who addressed the annual poultry conference during the 51st annual meeting of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

"Within the next five years, 60 companies will own at least 65 percent of the layers in the U.S.", says Dunk.

Poultry Tribune's latest big flock update shows that 45 companies now have a total of 92,726,600 layers representing 35.5 percent of the commercial egg-type layers in the United States.

Dunk said people who are successful in the egg business 10 years from now are the ones who are planning now for the future.

Other projections for the future, Dunk suggests, will be a significant increase in the use of further processed egg products with the spent hen looked on as a "system."

He predicts sometime in the 80's, 95 to 98 percent of the nation's layers, will be in cages or on wire; in 5 years, 50 percent of the nation's eggs will be eaten away from home; and by 1989, egg consumption will be 312 eggs per person per year.

Dunk told the Farm Bureau audience they could expect fewer poultry organizations in the 1980s.

He said the biggest fallout will be in state organizations and that economics will be the guidelines as to what organizations will survive.

He projected further that eventually there will be "one" feathered world organization – not in the 80s - - but sometime in the future.

"I predict we will see the time when egg marketing will be on a worldwide basis and the egg market price will be international by the way of an instant satellite market reporting service," he said.

Dunk says egg marketing will become more sophisticated and computerized on the egg farm or ranch and will eliminate some of the poultry serviceman's duties.

"People who plan to be in the egg business 10 years from now should develop tenacity for the planting job. This will make things happen that otherwise would not happen," he stated.

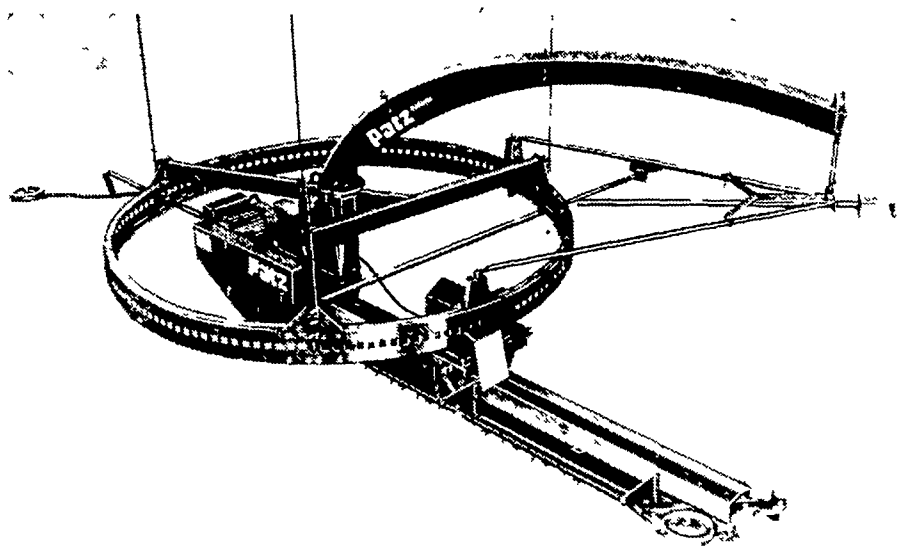
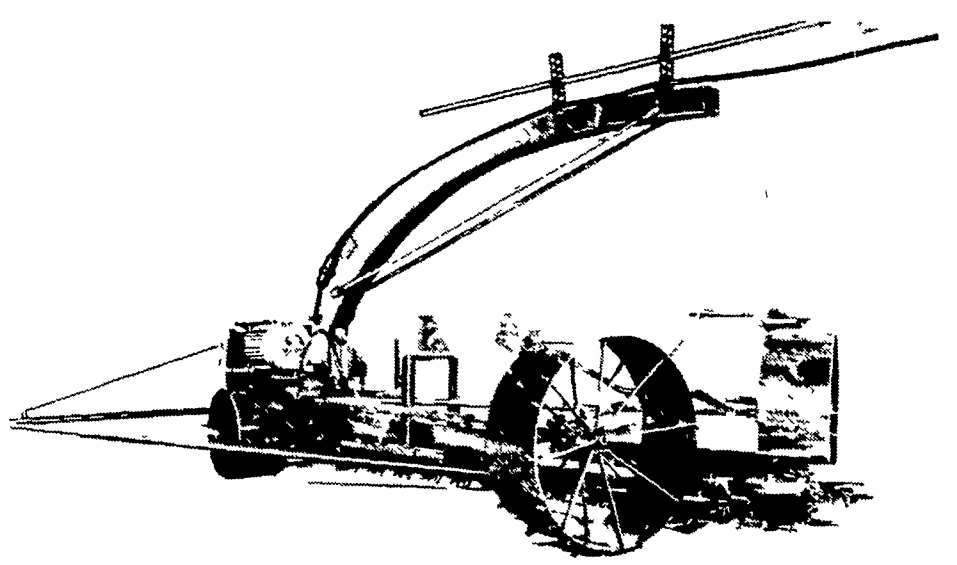
THE PATZ SOLUTION: Reliable Year-Round Feeding





You know the problems caused by hard packed and frozen silage Patz gives you two solutions to the problem — the Model RD-790 ring-drive silo unloader and the Model 98B surface-drive silo unloader

Both unloaders feature a double-hook gathering chain with hardened steel cutters and claws that rip through frozen and packed silage. When you push the button, you know you can count on a smooth feeding operation.

Evaluate our powered silo wall cutters. Spring tension holds 4 self-sharpening steel cutter blades in place to follow the curve of the silo wall. This keeps silage from building up along the walls, so you can be sure that you're getting all the feed where it belongs . . in the feeder and not stuck to the walls.

The claws and cutters of the gathering chain deliver a steady flow of silage day after day.

Want to know more about the Patz system? See your Patz dealer. He'll show you Patz quality and reliability . two important words to a farmer like you.

Performance Strong as Steel

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

Despite all the glowing reports of "life down on the farm", I believe that that life is not for everybody. A case in point is the story of a man who lived in this area at the turn of the century.

From what I've heard this farmer had an illness which today is called alcoholism Somehow, I've always been intrigued with the various stories.

He is said to have driven his family to a tragic end and he himself had an awful reputation

The question is "why"? He came from a family with a good background.

Recently, I discovered an account book which belonged to this particular man in the year 1889, when he was 21 years old. Apparently at that time he opened a grocery and provision business in Lancaster.

He listed his assets as a store and lot $2500, a horse and wagon $225 and cash $500. He had two partners in the business and by 1890 opened another store in Mobile, Alabama with a different partner.

His rent for the N. Queen St. property was $120 per year and he paid his salemen $6 per month.

Some prices listed are as follows: Rio coffee .24 cents per pound; sugar 11 cents per pound; mackerel 12 cents per pounds; a barrel salt, $1.25; tea 60 cents per pound; brooms 25 cents; and two wood piles 50 cents.

It would appear that Lancaster County cheese and butter were shipped to the Alabama store. Also in this record book were some personal expenditures such as: hair cut 10 cents, shirt 38 cents, overalls 35 cents, cap 25 cents, shoes $1.50 and a suit for $4.50.

Even recreational items were listed. The opera was fifty cents the same as "a picnic" which was also fifty cents.

Something must have gone wrong with his business venture as later he was employed by a department store and still later he lived "down on the farm".

I'm only guessing, but, I suspect farming wasn't for him. Pressure from a traditionally agricultural family may have forced him to be there Not everyone looks forward to crawling out of bed on a cold, dark winter morning and heading for the barn to do chores.

The lesson to be learned here seems to be that children should be allowed to choose their own occupations and not have to follow those of their parents.

N.J. dealer suspended for 20 day period

LAFAYETTE, N.J. — Harry Vealey, Jr., of Lafayette, N.J., has been suspended as a livestock dealer and market agency for deceptive livestock buying practices and for violating bonding and recordkeeping requirements of the Packers and Stockyards Act

Vealey does business in New Jersey, eastern Pennsylvania and Connecticut

U.S. Department of Agriculture Administrative Law Judge William J. Weber suspended Vealey for 20 days beginning Jan. 8, and thereafter until he complies with the b nding provisions of the P&S Act. Vealey may not operate during the suspension period.

Vealey denied charges in an administration complaint, and a hearing was held June 6-7, 1979, in Newton, N J , before Judge Weber

Vealey was also ordered to cease and desist from:

--Purchasing his own consigned livestock to fill purchase orders on a commission basis;

–Failing to disclose his ownership of livestock purchased and other relevant information to those he buys for; and –Operating as a dealer or market agency without bond.

He was also ordered to keep accounts and records which fully disclosed all transactions.

The P&S Act is a fair trade practices law. It promotes and maintains fair and open competition in the marketing of livestock, poultry and meat.

Red Lion ag class docks a lamb

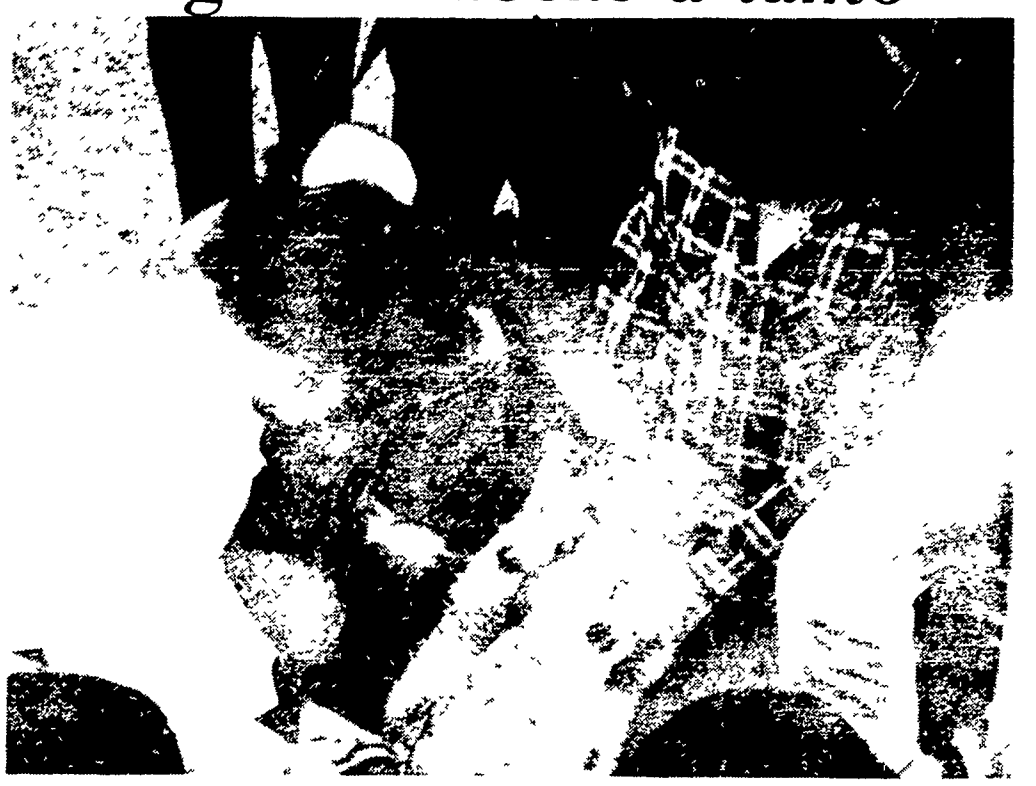
The class is studying sheep management, parts and meat cuts identification, and sheep nutrition for the completion of their sheep production unit. Docking is a management procedure recommended to eliminate maggots that could cause serious health problems for sheep.

The continuing education curriculum for high school students in vocational agriculture at Red Lion exposes students to various learning experiences in agriculture which the students will need to successfully compete for a job in an ag - related occupation after graduation in the business community.



The freshman vocational agriculture class at the Red Lion Senior High School assist Mr. Roth with docking a dorset lamb.

Through classroom and mechanics instruction, students can receive training in pesticide management, animal health and nutrition, field crop production, electricity, agricultural products, agricultural resources, farm management, small and large gas engine repair and maintenance, welding and machinery adjustment and maintenance.

Tobacco meeting set for January 23

TERRE HILL — A Tobacco Management Meeting will be sponsored by the Eastern Lancaster County School District Adult Farmer Program on Wednesday evening January 23 at the Union Grove School.

Speakers for the evening will include Jerry Schog, Tobacco Research, U.S.D.A., Beltsville, Maryland; and John Yocum, Director Southeast Research Farm, Penn State University.

Topics that will be discussed will include Blue Mold, a disease which destroyed 15 per cent of the Pennsylvania tobacco crop; other tobacco diseases, and what is being done to control them; and new Herbicides which will be available to tobacco growers this year.

Slides will be shown of a Ridomil test plot in the New Holland area which did an excellent job of controling Blue Mold. Ridomil is a Fungicide manufactured by Ciba Geigy and should be available for use this year.

The meeting will be held at the Union Grove School which is located two miles north of Route 23 on Route 625.

Starting time is 7:30 p.m. All interested persons are invited to attend.

Farm Bureau's Grant announces retirement

PHOENIX, Arizona — Allan Grant, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, Monday stunned an audience of some 8000 delegates at the annual meeting of the federation with an announcement that he would not seek reelection as head of the nation's largest general farm organization.

The announcement came at the close of Grant's annual address in the convention center here.

In making his unexpected announcement that he would not seek reelection, Grant thanked the members, board of directors, and staff for the opportunity of "serving agriculture, the nation and mankind for the past four years."

Grant was elected AFBF president in January of 1976. During his four years as president, Grant has been a world wide agricultural ambassador of good will.

The Visalia, California, rancher has traveled to Russia, China, India, North Africa, Europe, Japan and many other nations.

In making his announcement, he assured his audience that he was not retiring from service to agriculture and mankind.

"I will continue to serve agriculture and mankind in other ways," he said.

In other meeting activities the British ambassador to the United States, Sir Nicholas Henderson, told members "there is no better example of the virtues of free enterprise than the American farming industry."

Henderson said the farmers of America can "take pride in your evident superiority in one of the oldest and most important industries in the world, namely agriculture."

He said the world acknowledges and respects America's farmers for this ability despite some of the political problems that face the United States today.

Sir Nicholas spoke of the present problems facing the U.S. internationally in Iran and Afghanistan.

"You may have your own internal arguments and hesitations," he said, "but no country in the world doubts your might and your influence."

He said there was one fundamental fact that most world leaders knew about America.

"The fact that the U.S. remains the undisputed military and economic leader of the Western world," he said.

Sir Nicholas cited Afghanistan as a clear example that the Soviet Union leaders will use force to achieve their objectives if there is no way of achieving their ends and if they can away from it.

"The rest of the world needs reassurance and they are looking to the West and to the United States for help in an effort to deter the Russian advances," he said.

Henderson said he felt that America's commitment to a stronger NATO through the deployment of more troops and the introduction of medium range nuclear weapons.

"Your Allies are taking heart from the administration's evident intention to increase defense spending over the next five years, he noted.

Sir Nicholas said that America has shown great restraint during her difficulties with Iran and the Soviet Union.

"This restraint," he said, "is not taken as a sign of weakness by other world leaders but as a sign of firmness.

Virginia grain farmer new Farm Bureau head

PHOENIX, Ariz. — Robert B. Delano, a Warsaw, Virginia, grain farmer, today was elected president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, the nation's largest general farm organization.

Delano, 55, has been AFBF vice president for the last four years and succeeds Allan Grant, Visalia, California, rancher who had announced earlier that he would not be a candidate for reelection to the post he has held for the last four years.

A native of Virginia, Delano has been president of the Virginia Farm Bureau since 1962. He holds a BS degree in animal husbandry from Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University. He has been a member of the AFBF board of directors since 1967.

Delano is a veteran of World War II and is active in numerous civic and community affairs. He is also president of Southern Farm Burea Life Insurance Company, a post he has held since 1975.

In accepting the leadership of Farm Bureau, Delano praised his predecessors and said: "The time has come for us to look inward, restructure if necessary, but above all begin to accept the organizational discipline commensurate with an organization as great as Farm Bureau."

Names as AFBF vice president after several runoff votes, was Cecil Miller, president of the Arizona Farm Bureau and a member of the AFBF board of directors.

Miller, 53, in partnership with is brother, Duane, operates a large cattle ranch in Arizona, a 750-acre irrigated farm and a cattle feeding operation near Phoenix.

Northern Berks 4-H Club meets

LEESPORT — The Northern Berks 4-H Club held their annual 4-H Christmas Party on December 20 at the home of Tammy and Lee Schlappich. Eleven members attended. The club exchanged gifts concerning Dairy animals and refreshments were served.

The club also formed a bowling team to bowl at Laurel Lanes on Dec. 27. They won against Leesport 4-H Club.

The next meeting will be at John and Keith Hoppe's home at 7:30 p.m. The main topic will be an election of officers. Clyde Myers from the Extension office will explain Blue Forms to the members.

Senator says use oil tax to buy embargoed grain

NEW ORLEANS, La. — Senator Dale Bumpers of Arkansas, Monday advocated raising the oil companies windfall profit tax another $5 billion to buy grain embargoed from the Soviet Union and start building alcohol plants.

Bumpers said it would cost over $3 billion to buy 13 million tons of corn for processing into alcohol.

That much corn, he said, will produce enough alcohol to displace four days of gasoline consumption in this country

He added it would also supply enough gasohol for 44 days of personal transportation, or displace for two days the total petroleum consumption in this country.

Speaking at the 51st annual meeting of the National Council of Farmer Cooperatives, Bumpers said the U.S. must tell the Soviets that they're going to pay the highest price possible for invading Afghanistan short of a military confrontation.

"The U.S. can't stand idly by and allow 25 million tons of our grain to go to anybody who is guilty of such flagrant, blatant aggression," the Senator said. "It would, in effect, be rewarding them."

Bumpers said the President and Congress must assure American farmers that the 17 million tons of embargoed grain the U.S. government is going to buy will be isolated.

"And the Chicago Board of Trade and other traders must recognize that the grain is not now, or ever, going to be available to them," he added.

"It might be well to tell farmers that they will never receive less than the January 4 closing market price of about $6.25 for soybeans and $2.80 for corn," Bumpers declared. "They have to have that assurance if we're going to keep their faith."

William J. Dyess, deputy assistant secretary of state, discussed the need for a strong U.S. reaction to the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan. He told the cooperative leaders that there are no options available to the United States that are cost-free.

The Soviet expert said that the U.S. embargo of grain destined for the USSR was absolutely necessary. "It focuses on the fact that agriculture is the soft underbelly of the Soviet Union," Dyess declared.

"The Soviets currently have a shortfall of some 50 million tons of grain," said Dyess. "Our 17-million-ton embargo is about half of the amount they'll import. They'll have to sell off livestock. The Soviet people will feel it, and they won't recover soon."

Dyess quickly added American farmers should not have to pay for the embargo decision in any undue manner. Rather, he noted, the costs should be spread across the U.S. economy.

The career foreign service officer stated that the Administration's goal on the embargo is no loss in U.S. farm income. "The Administration is sincere about this goal," he concluded, "and I think they'll do everything they can to follow through on it."

Horse power pulls thrill Farm Show crowd

HARRISBURG — Crowds of people jammed the large arena on Wednesday evening to watch the annual horse pulling contests. This event has become one of the Pennsylvania Farm Show's crowd favorites.

Spectators came to see light weight and heavy weight draft horses pulling a sled full of weights. The object was, of course, to pull the load the fartherest distance.

The career of the pulling horse starts when he is around two years old. The Belgian breed is the most commonly used horse for this type of competition, although Percherons are seen in pulling contests too.

According to Fred Welsh, a pulling horse expert from Boston, the Belgian horses are favored because they are a good working horse. He added they are docile and easy to keep clean which helps their popularity.

One of the contestants at this year's Farm Show, Drew Walsh from Mount Pleasant, near Greensburg, said his team of drafts works all year long. During the fair season, they travel to Michigan, Ohio and West Virginia, or where ever there is a contest going on.

Walsh continued saying draft horse teams are in better shape than most race horses. He said they're fed better and cared for better than their fleeter-footed brothers.

There were 15 lightweight and 15 heavyweight teams in this year's Farm Show competition. The Pennsylvania contest differs from the most popular pull held in Fryeberg, Maine because it is a pull for distance with increasing load weights. In Maine, the teams pull for five minutes, carrying their load how ever far they can. The size of the load depends on the size of the horse.

Fred Welsh explained a team that weighs 3200 pounds would probably have a load of 6500 pounds, around two "rocks" per pound of horse. A rock is the old term for the weights used to load the sled. Today, cement blocks are used instead of field rocks.

Dave Caulson, North East, Maryland, said the use of a dynamometer is gaining more popularity in horse pulling contests. Invented by a Professor Collins of Iowa State University in 1923, the dynomometer is attached to the back of a truck and is a vertical pull.

Caulson explained the advantage to the vertical pull. The sleds tend to get hung up on any little piece of stone or clump of sod which can limit a teams' pulling ability. With a dynomometer, there is no friction resistance.

He said the best dynomometer pulls are held in Michigan and Wisconsin. At last year's pull in Hillsdale, Michigan, a team of Belgians set the world record. Caulson attributed some of the record to the quackgrass sod which he claims gives the best footing.

This year's Farm Show winners were:

Lightweight

Heavyweight

1 James Howard R2 Ebensburg, 2 Robert W Decker Garrett 3 Harold Blake R1 Volant 4 Donald Iseman R3 Shelocta 5 Charley Fisher R1 Conneautville

Six Hitched Horses

1 Robert W Decker, Garrett 2 Elmer D Lapp R1 Kinzers

Steadying two powerful draft horses before their big pulling event is no easy task for this young teamster.

HARRISBURG — Potato growers from Eastern took almost every ribbon in the 1980 Farm Show potato award listing.

Schuylkill County dominated the winners, especially in the youth division of the show. The Schwartz family, R2 Hegins, contributed heavily to the County's standings.

Blue Mtn. goat group elects officers

FOGELSVILLE — The December meeting of the Blue Mountain Dairy Goat Association was called to order by past president, Edwin Rehrig. Denise Rowan read the minutes; Gerald Rowan gave the treasurer's report.

The new officers for 1980 are President, Steward (Butch) Herfurth, from Gilbert; Vice-President, Barry Heffner from Palm; and Secretary-Treasurer, Dianne Maguire from New Tripoli.

A Christmas party followed. Members brought a covered dish and the club furnished the beverage. Pictures were taken, there was a gift exchange and fun for all.

The meeting on January 10th also was interesting. President "Butch" Herfurth talked about raising and butchering goats. Several members of the BMDGA (Blue Mountain Dairy Goat Assn.) who are also members of the Lehigh Valley 4-H Dairy Goat Club, brought pictures of their goat display at the Trexler Mall Mini-Show.

Pictures of the last meeting were also passed around for all to see. The club's T-Shirts are available. The clubs' blue logo on the white shirt really looks nice.

At the next meeting on February 14th, Rosemary Heffner will lead the discussion on Classification. Any goat enthusiast is invited to come and join the Blue Mountain Dairy Goat Association.

Meetings are held every second Thursday of each month at 7:30 P.M. at the Penn State University Extension just North of Fogelsville.

Dues are now payable for 1980. Mail $4 individual or $6 family to: Diane Maguire, Box 219, R. 3, New Tripoli, Pa. 18066. Members receive monthly Goat Notes newsletter.

The Blue Mountain Dairy Goat Association will have their annual Show on June 14, 1980 at the Allentown Fairgrounds. There will be a Junior Doe Show in the morning and a Senior Doe Show in the afternoon. The judge will be Sam Whiteside from Vermont. Watch for show details in the Dairy Goat Guide and the Dairy Goal Journal.

Jersey winner promotes milk at Farm Show

HARRISBURG — After nine years of competition at the Farm Show, Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Rhein of Pine Grove captured top prize in the Jersey dairy competition. And they put the icing on that cake when their son, Bruce, led his four-year-old to reserve open championship and the senior and overall championship in Junior showing.

And while the blue ribbons were a welcome addition to the baggage the Rheins took home with them on Friday, they were by no means the most important reason for attending the Farm Show, Emmett Rhein said Wednesday night as he readied his cows for another night in the dairy barn.

Rhein grew up with Jerseys - his father switched from Holsteins in 1926 - and seems certain to remain a loyal fan of the gentle breed.

As an experiment, though, he added a Holstein to the herd a few years ago. While she's milking 20,000 pounds annually, he feels his Jerseys, averaging 13,517 milk and 629 fat, are more profitable for him.

Rhein's 65 milking cows produce on a high energy diet consisting mostly of corn silage and some hay and pasture. The family farms some 275 acres in Schuylkill County.

Commenting on the marked contrast between last year's Farm Show and the 1980 version, Rhein said he was well-pleased with the Sunday opening this year, and with the fact that the cows were in the barn all week rather than just a few days.

"This is my opportunity as a dairyman to meet the public. The consumers that come by here are interested in the cows and they care about where their milk comes from.

"Too many exhibitors here ignore the people. Or they don't try to talk to them. All I do is say 'Hello,' and we've got a conversation started.

"I may not sell any milk from my cows, but I'll sell milk for somebody. And I think that's an important part of the Farm Show."

Rhein said some of the people he's talked to over the years come back year after year, just to say hello. One Camp Hill family this year brought along a snapshot of one of the Jerseys that had been taken at last year's show.

Need money for additional cattle or hogs? Or to improve your dairy herd? Start where you have the most going for you. At Farm Credit, we not only lend money for livestock, we do our best to tailor your loan to your particular needs.

WE'LL HELP WITH LOW RATES.

Ten grain studies proposed

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Ten grain standardization studies are proposed for 1980, the U.S. Department of Agriculture announced.

The Federal Grain Inspection Service invites the grain trade and interested individuals to submit comments on suggested standardization priorities.

FGIS proposes to:

–Investigate inspection procedures for field testing of alpha amylase in wheat, uniform allowances for weevily grain, reporting dockage percentages, and certificating organic acidtreated grain:

–Review the U.S. Standards for beans, hay and straw, and mixed grain; and –Investigate the need for introducing standards for buckwheat, sunflower and rapeseed.

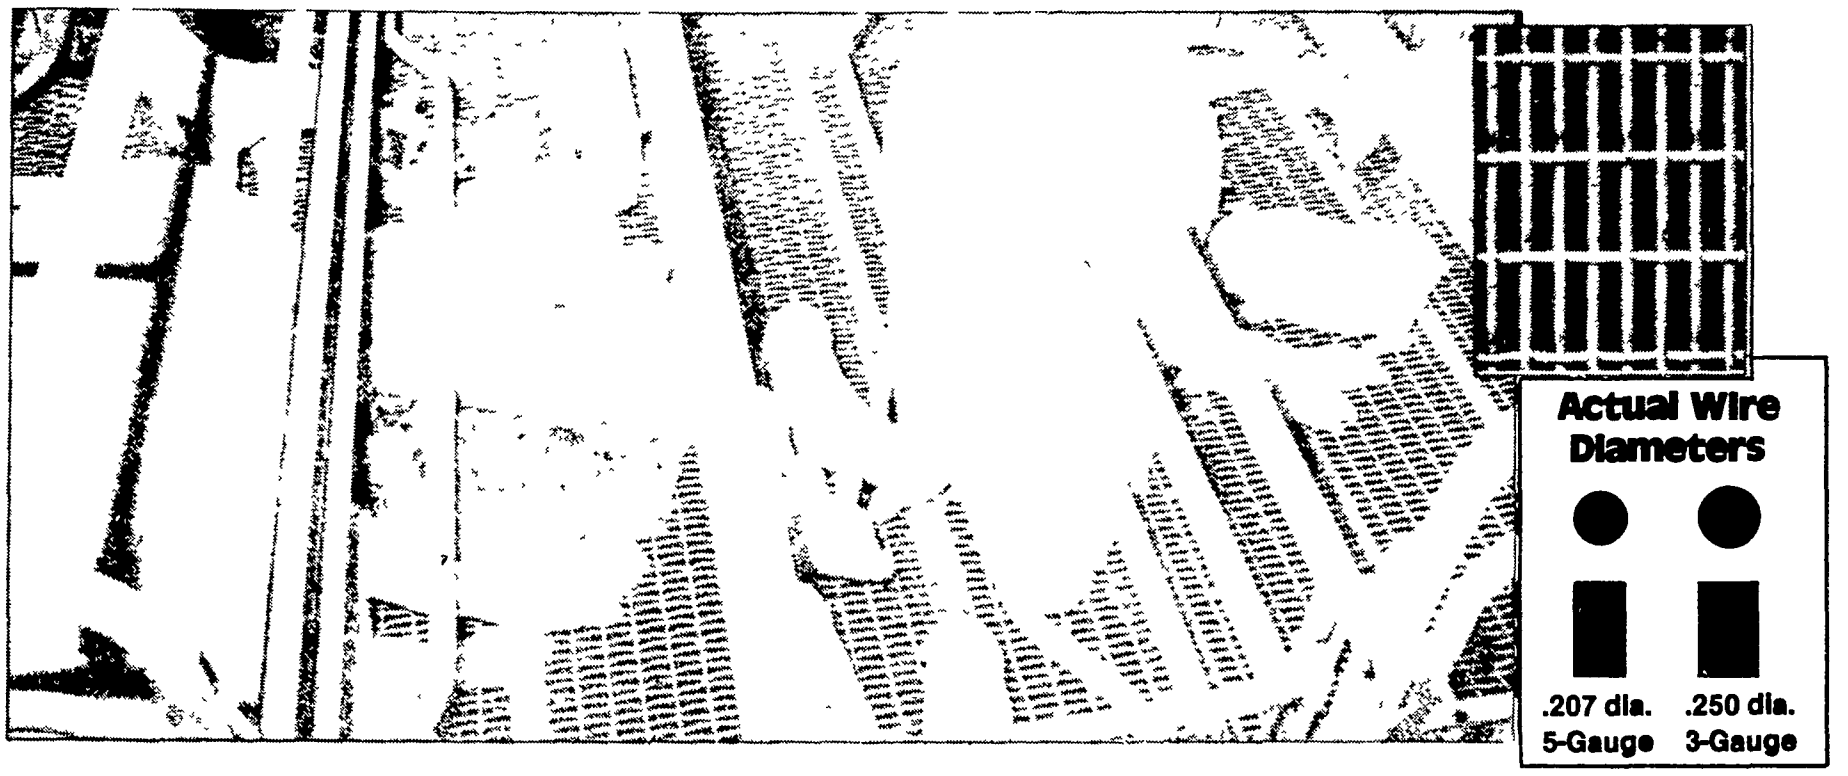
Tender-Care® Woven Wire Flooring

Farmcraft
AGRI SYSTEMS

HEAVIER GAUGE THAN ALL OTHER BRANDS

5 - Gauge For Farrowing Crates and Nurseries · 3 - Gauge For Breeding, Gestation & Finishing



Putting Your Hogs On Tender-Care® Means More Profit For You!

We were the first in the U.S. to offer woven wire flooring, and we're still the leader. Others may sell woven wire at attractive low prices, but compare carefully...because they use a lighter gauge wire that isn't heavily galvanized like Farmcraft Tender-Care®. The considerably longer service life of Tender-Care® means that it costs you less in the long run.

MORE PIGS TO MARKET

Woven wire flooring means healthier hogs and piglets (more survive to full growth). The reason is easy to understand. Tender-Care® STAYS DRIER BECAUSE THERE ARE NO HORIZONTAL FLAT SURFACES WHERE MOISTURE CAN COLLECT. Less stress on pigs of all ages. Hundreds of hog producers have found that woven wire flooring makes 3-week weaning a reality, and woven wire in double deck units is the preferred flooring. The drier atmosphere also means less heating and ventilating costs.

Woven wire is kinder to feet and legs than slats, minimizing abrasions and sores. Less maintenance and labor, because manure passes through more easily.
